of which he says several of his pigs have died. After keeping the pig three days and making a close examination of the carcass, we diagnose the case as pneumonia. At first the pig was affected with bronchitis, which had extended to the structure of the lungs, and as a consequence set up inflammation (pneumonia). The cause was either exposure during severe weather, or, they were badly housed, possibly the floor was cold, or draughty, or there may not have been sufficient bedding allowed. On the other hand, they may have been kept warm, but the house was too small and poorly ventilated. They would then be breathing and re-breathing vitiated air, loaded with effete and poisonous material, this being of an irritant nature frequently produces similar conditions as those found to be existing in this pig. The treatment can be determined from the cause, whatever that may be. Remove the cause, the pigs will then improve, and others will be saved from a similar fate.

CONDITION POWDER FOR HORSES

What ingredients should be used, in what proportion, and how compounded to form a good condition powder for a horse?

Alta. R. H. G.

Ans.—Oats, with a little bran and a handful of ground flaxseed or oil cake daily, together with good hay, and comfortable quarters, and exercise, are all the "condition" powder most horses need, but if one is bound to resort to drugs, we would recommend the following: Two ounces each of ferrous sulphate, pulverized gentian, pulverized nux vomica, and nitrate of soda. Mix and give a teaspoonful night and morning in ground oats and bran. J. H. Grisdale, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, recommends mixing five pounds each of ground corn, oats and bran, five ounces of oil meal, a dessertspoonful of gentian, a teaspoonful of iron sulphate, and half pound of salt, feeding about a pound at a feed.

CEMENT HOG TROUGH

Would like you to publish plans and directions for making cement hog troughs.

D. S.

Ans.—Anyone familiar with cement work can contrive a casing in which a suitable hog trough can be formed. Ordinary boards or planks can be used. Many prefer sloping sides, with two or three inch bottom. Place a frame the required length, width and height, where the trough is to be, allowing two and a half or three inches space for cement. Soak this core in water and ram the concrete firmly, but gently, filling all the space under and around the core level with the top. One part of high-grade Portland cement to two or three parts of clean, sharp sand, or fine gravel, is about the proper strength. In a few hours the core can be removed. Then cover with straw, chaff or canvas, in order to retain the moisture until it is perfectly hard.

WEAK OXEN

I have a pair of oxen that I feed on oat provender and bran. I have driven them some. After standing in the stable for a few days. I took them out and they staggered and appeared weak. I took one out to-day and he commenced to play and fell. They eat fairly well. They cough some, but not a great deal. I think they have distemper.

T. G.

Ans.—The cough indicates tubercular trouble, and, if this be so, nothing can be done. I would advise you to have them examined by a veterinarian. I am inclined to the opinion that they simply lack strength, and would advise good food and tonics. Feed good hay and chopped oats, with a few pulped roots. In changing the food, do so gradually, and increase the grain ration as they become accustomed to it. Take equal parts sulphate of iron, gentian, ginger, and nux vomica, mix, and give each a heaped tablespoonful three times daily. As soon as they are able to walk, give a little exercise every day, increasing the amount daily as they gain strength.

MANY DON'T I HEART AFFE

More People Than are A
Have Heart Disea

"If examinations were made, one, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about with heart disease."

This startling statement was doctor at a recent inquest. "like to say that heart disease as this would imply," said "but I am sure that the number going about with weak hearts large."

"Hundreds of people go about work on the verge of death, and know it. It is only when the that kills them that the unsuspiciousness of the heart is made apparent. But undoubtedly heart disease, is more prevalent than should think that the stress and wear and rush of modern life have a lot to do with heart trouble. There is no doubt but that it and we would strongly advise suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of MILBURN AND NERVE PILLS.
