Readers of The Guide will notice upon turning over the pages of this issue that it is brought out in an entirely new dress. New styles and sizes of type are used in the headings and feature articles are set in narrower measure, taking four columns to the page instead of three as formerly. We believe that our readers will agree with us that the result is a great improvement in the general appearance of the paper. For some time we have felt that this change was necessary, but it was no small task to choose the style which would give the paper the best appearance. We trust, however, that our choice has been well made and that the result will be appreciated by our readers.

At a play put on recently by the Acme U.F.W.A. one of the U.F.A. members spoke briefly on the work of the Red Cross in general, dealing more particularly with the Life Membership in the Red Cross Society. The result was that 38 members paid the $25 fee and became life members. We believe this is characteristic of our splendid farm people—no hesitating or faltering when duty calls—just a matter-of-fact falling into line.

The Farmer's War Income is treated in an article in this issue which gives substance of an address by T. N. Carver, Professor of Political Economy in Harvard University and author of standard text books on rural economics. This address was delivered before a great gathering of Kansas farmers last winter. Professor Carver analyzes incomes of men engaged in different types of farming and compares their positions. What he has to say should prove of interest to all farmers interested in the business aspects of their calling.

A Manitoba School Teacher writes regarding the use she makes of The Guide as follows:—

"Here in connection with the settlement work, I find your health talks of value as well as the household hints, and hints on gardening and poultry raising. Many of your talks on different advance movements, rural credits, etc., will be of untold help in connection with my night school discussions. Your Ottawa letter helps me to be up-to-date in the "doings" in parliament and saves much unnecessary reading in the daily papers. My chief difficulty is shortage of time. Most of The Guide articles are fairly condensed. On the day I receive the paper I usually go through it quickly and mark with a blue pencil those columns which are of particular use to me. This later saves time."

A Co-operative Seed Association that will put the growing and distribution of good seed on a more business-like basis is proposed for each of the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. There is no reason why Alberta also should not establish such an organization. An outline of the proposed association is given on page 21. It is of particular interest to C.S.G.A. members and to growers of good seed generally. The importance of good seed was never so widely recognized in the West as now. We should be glad to have all progressive farmers read this article and to give us their opinions regarding the feasibility of the proposition.

ADVERTISING SERVICE DEPARTMENT

During the past The Guide has received from its subscribers a great many inquiries concerning advertisements appearing in the publication, particularly with reference to those which were not running at the time the inquiry was made. It has also received requests for information regarding products which are not advertised. On both of these points it is well equipped to furnish information, which will be gladly done on request. We would suggest that you use the coupon below for this purpose.
