

ANTWERP WILL NOT AID GERMANS

By Supplying List of Unemployed—Huns Take Personal Census.

London, Nov. 21.—The common council of Antwerp has refused to deliver lists of the unemployed to the Germans, according to a Reuters' Amsterdam despatch quoting The Telegraaf. As a consequence, the despatch says, the Germans are now calling men of all classes to the police stations for examination as to the identity of their papers. These men are said to be given the choice of a German labor contract of three or six months or immediate deportation to Germany. The Telegraaf adds that an official letter has been sent to all burgomasters demanding lists of unemployed under penalty of deporting citizens of all classes to Germany.

Music and Drama

At the Grand

"Charley's Aunt." It would be impossible to find a play that has such a large following, so many ardent admirers who will solemnly swear by its laugh-producing qualities as "Charley's Aunt" which is the attraction at the Grand Opera House, matinee and night, this week. Brandon Thomas wrote it, almost every theatrical manager in the civilized world has produced it from one to ten or twenty times during his career, every actor and actress who ever donned grease paint and wig has played in it one to twenty or more times, or their education has been sadly neglected.

In these days of war we speak of thousands of people with the nonchalance we generally bestow upon the daily abusions of a pet canary. Thousands are being killed or wounded; thousands more are advancing or retreating; other hordes are "somewhere in France." We think in multitudes. That being the case, it is not overstepping the limit to admit candidly and unreservedly that twenty million people on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean have seen "Charley's Aunt." And so far as the best and most authentic statistics record, not one of that vast multitude has been known to sit through the performance without smiling, laughing or just plain gawfing. It can't be done, unless the auditor be deaf, dumb and blind, and he doesn't count.

Huns Drop Poisoned Sweets and Explosive Toys on Bucharest.

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Nov. 21.—(New York Sun cable)—Miss Helen Monfrès, a Scotch nurse who has come from Roumania, said in an interview published in The Observer: "At Bucharest, poisoned sweets and toys were dropped by German air planes. One of the bombs contained microbes of every kind of virulent disease, cholera, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid. "M. Jonescu was present at the analysis of the contents of some of the sweets, which looked like satin pralines. They were made of chloride of lime. Many children ate them and died."

SIDE TALKS

BOOKS Fate Cannot Take Away Your Joy In Books.

Books and the love of them, are among the few things that an adverse fate cannot take from you. When asked if she were lonely in the remote country town to which she had gone after gay years at Washington, Gail Hamilton once wrote: "We do have the best of company. Swinburne has been down here for three weeks or so, charming me with his choruses, and Mill is always here at call, which is about once a year. He is a great rest and solace and hope to me. I have a call every evening from Louis Napoleon. In fact it would take me a long while just to name the people who come to see me and who talk their very best in my society."

The Ideal Living-Room. Some soft restful paper (preferably a plain color), simple draperies, a big low center table with a shaded light on it and plenty of magazines and newspapers scattered about, a fireplace if you can possibly have it, a few comfortable chairs, a few pictures that you really care for and plenty of book-shelves, standing at attention upon them. Let every married couple make that their ideal, and no matter how limited their means they will gradually create a room that will welcome the guest and wind itself round the heartstrings of the housemates.

Though I speak of their effect upon the atmosphere of the room, needless to say, I am not recommending books merely as an ornament. Books should be friends. I have no use for unread sets of books. The ideal bookcase contains no books that have not been bought either for reference or for actual reading. Every bookcase should have in its reference department a Bible, with the print coarse enough not to make one irritable, a dictionary, a good grammar and, if possible, an encyclopedia. Other reference books are valuable, but these are invaluable.

Erection of a giant sugar refinery in Hayti is one of the projects of the Haytian-American Corporation, which has completed its programme for developments in the Black Republic. Capital and labor must bury their strife before the war ends if the United States is to escape industrial disaster, Mr. E. H. Outerbridge tells the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York at its annual dinner.

DISPENSE WITH AUTOMOBILE

For Private Use in War Is Advice of France

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Nov. 21.—The private automobile is a luxury which can be dispensed with in war time, in the opinion of the economics commission. Considering that in the present circumstances all of the resources of the country must be devoted exclusively to the national defense, the commission in a report made to-day, urges the government to press without delay or reduction the number of automobiles not utilized in the public service destined for industrial or official uses. The report also suggests that the military authorities use the railroads if possible, instead of automobiles and that a check be kept on the use of gasoline.

Music and Drama

The Brant. A production which sounds a clarion call to arms, not only to the United States, but to Canada by conveying a warning of German invasion of America. The Brant theatre last evening presented "The Fall of a Nation." Dixon's great sequel to "The Brant Theatre," and a production in way as great as its predecessor. The merit of the picture, presented by the Brant theatre, was that it was furnished by the most augmented orchestra which had ever been assembled in the Brant theatre. The orchestra alone was worth the price of admission. Musical numbers were also fully rendered by the band of the 215th battalion, under the leadership of Bandmaster Walters. The was resplendent with the allies, providing a most able setting for the military rendered. The physical class of 215th battalion, under the leadership of Lt. Watt, also gave a most interesting exposition of physical drill showing of the third episode of new serial "The Scarlet Runner" elicited great applause.
