ELECT STRONG MEN.

At the convention of Canadian Municipalities, which is now in session in Halifax, some very important questions on civic government are coming up. Ald. L. A. Lapointe, of Montreal, touched briefly on a serious matter, which should be carefully considered by every ratepayer in every city of the Dominion, when he urged for the election to city councils of the very best and most capable men procurable. His subject was Problems of Big Cities, and the following is a portion of his earnest and timely address:

"With the election, year after year, of the reform element to the Council by the electorates, another problem has been more or less solved, that of getting better civic government. There is no doubt that there is still very much to do in order to get ideal government for the city; but what I mean is that by the election of capable men, the electorate is showing that it appreciates more and more the responsibilities of civic government. I am sure I voice the feeling of every member of this association when I say that the subject I am speaking on, 'Problems of Big Cities,' will only be satisfactorily solved when good and capable men are elected to councils the country over. I say, without fear of contradiction, that the greatest of all civic problems is the election, by the people, of the right sort of men to our Councils. What is sorely needed is the awakening of strong public interest in everything that pertains to civic government. When this has been accomplished, gentlemen, rest assured that the 'problems of big cities' will be enormously easier to solve."

Ald. Lapointe is on the right line, and there is food for thought in his statements. If cities are to be governed well the ratepayers must realize that it requires capable men to do it.

IMMEDIATE ACTION NEEDED.

In the question of Ontario Fisheries there will soon be left nothing to talk about unless something is immediately done to preserve this industry and to check the rapid depletion of fish, which is in full swing in Canadian waters at the present time.

The commercial fishermen of Marquette, Mich., according to a press despatch, have deserted the fishing grounds in the immediate vicinity of Marquette and are now setting their nets in the vicinity of Isle Royale, near the Canadian shore. The lifts this summer have been very light. Commercial fishermen at Ontonagon, Lake Superior and at Manistique, Lake Michigan, have suspended operations entirely. The truth of the matter is that fish are disappearing from the great lakes and largely because the various states have not properly protected them. Hundreds of millions of trout and whitefish fry have been deposited in the waters within the past decade, yet fish are more scarce now than ever, and the prices never so high. It is contended that unless the Government steps in with immediate action it will not be many years before commercial fishing on the great lakes will become an industry of the past.

In speaking of conditions in Manitoba, The Mail and Empire offers the following comment:

"Ontario can sympathize with Manitoba in this matter, and it is to be hoped that Ontario will solve the problem, not only for herself, but for the sister province. Realizing that the first step toward better conditions must be the enlightening of the general public, the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association has done something to give publicity to the situation in this province. Circulars have been distributed broadcast, and branches of the association organized in many districts. Under the auspices of this association, a convention is to be held in Toronto next month, when the views of a great number of people will be presented in person or through delegates. The consensus will probably be placed before the Government, and its hands thereby

One of Three Things Always Cause RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rids itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rids the system of more urea than the kidneys do. If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are unhealthy—they won't throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and nerves—causing Rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-A-Tives
OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

will positively cure Rheumatism because they increase the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no urea or waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

strengthened in any action it may deem advisable.

Four thousand five hundred Ontario men left on Tuesday night on a harvesters' excursion. Whatever fault the Western provinces may find with Ontario they cannot say she is a bad neighbor. She is always ready to lend a hand when their crops are to be saved, however busy she may be herself.—Mail and Empire.

The Brantford Expositor is putting up a fight for good streets in that city and a new city hall. The defence that there is no money to do the work with won't go with the Expositor, which insists that the "indescribable condition of our streets" shall be bettered. It says: "The truth is that the appearance of the business section of Brantford is most unpleasantly commented upon by all who come here, and we should have properly paved streets in this portion of the city, and a new city hall, no matter at what cost. It is impossible to longer tolerate the existing state of affairs."

FROM PLANET FILES OF HALF A CENTURY AGO

From The Planet files, June 11, 1865, to June 16, 1865.

Cards for election candidates appeared in many portions of the edition calling on the electors to "vote for Honest Joe."

A despatch from Vickburg stated that the siege of that city by storm had been abandoned by General Grant. General Grant had issued a manifesto demanding the surrender of the town, giving the inhabitants three days to comply. Gen. Pemberton replied that he did not want fifteen minutes, and that the troops would die in the trenches before they would surrender. The next despatch stated that the enemies' gunboats then commenced heavy firing on the besieged city.

Murderer Coulter was executed at Toronto.

Articles appeared exposing bribery and corruption on the part of M. T. Thibodeau, a French member of the Dominion Parliament.

A report of a meeting held in the interests of Mr. McKellar, a political candidate, was given. The meeting was held at Orford, and the correspondent severely criticizes the action of Rev. I. E. Richardson, who "threw aside for a time his priestly garments, and, forgetting his sa-

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

THE PHANTOM VASE.

An Easily Made Toy That Will Attract Lots of Amusement.

Have you ever seen a potter's wheel? It is one of the oldest, simplest and most interesting of human inventions. It is merely a round, level table which is rotated rapidly by means of a treadle. The potter puts a lump of wet, soft clay on the center of the wheel and sets the wheel going. Then he presses his hands on the whirling lump of clay and, lo, it grows before your eyes into a column, a bowl or a beautiful vase, according to the way in which he handles it.

Now I am going to show you how to make a little machine which may be called, fancifully, a potter's wheel, because you can make vases on it, but you will not have to mess with wet clay, because the vases will be phantom vases.

The wheel is a round card fastened to one end of a smooth, round stick, like a pencil or penholder, which forms the axle. Now open a large English walnut, take out the meat and cut away a little of each shell at the ends, so that when you put the shells together you have a smooth, round hole at each end of the hollow walnut. One hole should fit loosely the sharpened end of the axle, while the full diameter of the axle.

Make a third hole, still larger, in the side of the nut, put the axle in place in one of the shells, fasten a fine cord to it opposite the third hole, pass the cord through this hole, put on the other shell and fasten the shells together with glue or wax, taking care not to get any in the holes. Make a small hole lengthwise in the top of the axle—if you have used a penholder the hole is already there and your potter's wheel is complete.

To make the phantom vase, stick a hairpin, bent into any shape you choose, in the end of the axle above the cardboard and wedge it tight. Then, holding the nut in your left hand, turn the wheel until you have wound up the cord and pull the latter. The wheel spins rapidly and on top of it appears the "phantom vase" formed by the hairpin, which revolves so quickly that you see it in every position at once, just as you see a circle of fire when you whirl a burning stick. The appearance of the vase is peculiar and very pretty. It looks something like glass, and you can see through it. Its form can be changed by bending the hairpin, and so you can make a bowl, a column—in short, anything round, as the potter can on his wheel.—New York Mail.

cred calling, appeared as a political speaker. He fluninated all manner of anarchy against the Carter-McDonald Government, avoiding the issues before the country, and forgetting alike his wholesome calling, remembering only that he was a preacher of politics, not an expounder of sacred law.

At a political convention held in the court house of the then town of Chatham, the following were among those present and mentioned as the speakers.—Mr. Sheriff Mercer, John Duck, Esq., Reeve of Howard, Dr. Thomas Cross, Mayor of Chatham, Mr. Rufus Stephenson, Mr. Henry Winter and Mr. Northwood. Mr. McKellar, the Liberal candidate, who was present, and was permitted to speak, "assailed The Planet, claiming that an article appearing in it about himself was wrong, whereupon some facts were looked up in the proceedings of the House, and The Planet was proved to be correct in its assertions.

Joseph Northwood announced that he would accept the nomination as Conservative standard-bearer.

Political excitement at this time must have run fever high, as the issue from which the extracts are taken was almost entirely taken up with reports of political meetings and exposures of frauds perpetrated by the Reform faction.

LORNE MOUNTAIN.

Six Hundred Feet High It Was Exploded by Governor of Its Name.

Lorne Mountain is one of the grandest of the Gattineau Mountains. It is situated on the east bank of the Gattineau River, one of the largest tributaries of the Ottawa, and is just across the river from the village of Cascades. The village is fourteen miles from Ottawa by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The mountain is six hundred feet high, and from the crest of it a splendid view may be obtained of Ottawa and the surrounding country. The little church at Gattineau Point is plainly seen, but the most noticeable object is the Mackenzie tower of the Parliament Buildings, that seems to pierce the sky like a naked sword. The view toward the north is also very fine, and on a clear day a range of high hills crossing the country in an east and west line may be seen twenty miles away. Towards the west is King's Mountain, one of the highest peaks of a chain extending parallel with the Ottawa River as far as Lake Temiskaming.

When the Marquis of Lorne, now the Duke of Argyll, was Governor-General he and his retinue visited the district. His Excellency took a fancy to the mountain, and one day, with the help of a guide, they explored it to the top. Hence the name Lorne Mountain. The residents of Cascades, who rise early enough a beautiful sight is visible every morning of summer. The mist from the river seems to cover the whole of the mountain, and until dispelled by the sun is a pretty sight. If the mist flows up stream the people say that the day will be fair, and if down they say it will be gloomy, with rain. The mist is, therefore, as good a weather prophet as Old Probs. himself.

TORTURED BY ITCHING ECZEMA

Suffered Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Worse at Night, With Soreness and Excruciating Pains—A Western Lady's

WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Last year at this time I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse and worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered the tortures of the damned, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch, until I bled. At night when I went to bed things got worse, and I had at times to get up and scratch my body all over, until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. I did not know what it was, and resorted to a number of blood purifiers, using at times also Cuticura Soap. They told me then that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would also use Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them according to instructions, and very soon indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who suffers as did your obedient servant, Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1905."

TORTURING, DISFIGURING Humours, Eczemas, and Itchings Cured by Cuticura

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such standards proven beyond all doubt.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The only thing that can be said of the line of talk that some people put up is that it is long and thin.

The unexpected is apt to be disagreeable in spite of the fact that people are looking for trouble.

People who borrow trouble seem to be sticklers for returning it with interest.

At present a big graft seems to be a fruitful branch of many establishments.

It is a good thing that the world is growing better, for there isn't so very much room in the other direction.

A woman who knows how to cook a good dinner is apt to be a good judge of men.

No man would approve of his wife's doing as he does.

A popular character takes the imprint momentarily of its associations; so does a piece of putty.

Love is sometimes like trouble—it comes without invitation and stays without sanction.

A bachelor thinks he knows a lot of men that are second choice.

His Viewpoint.

What tales would he hear, Amusing and queer, Of courting and fighting and sport, Of billing and cooing— And other things doing— The world's hidden secrets, in short— The peckpocket's touch— And kissing and such, If the man in the moon could report.

The things that he sees, Half hid by the trees, A neighborhood scandal would start, For he may discover The girl and her lover So close he can't tell them apart. He sees the carousal, And only can guess It is an affair of the heart.

Down farther may lurk A sneak thief at work Where the washing is hung on the line. He fills up on plunder, And then it's no wonder He ducks when the moon tries to shine.

And up a back street He hears a retreat, And misses next morning a fine, Some rounder who may Turn night into day, A copper asleep on his beat, And Mary and Willie In love and so silly That seeing them act is a treat— If the man in the moon Could give us a tune 'Twould mostly be gush and repeat.

News to Them.

"She is in love with three different men."
"Why don't she toss up a coin to decide between them?"
"She has a much simpler way. She is going to take the first one who asks her."

Pair of Problems.

He wrote a mighty problem play, Where virtue got a boot, And then a bigger problem was To get the thing produced.

Awful Chance.

"I hear Jenks has fallen in love with his wife."
"Did it hurt him?"
"No; why should it?"
"Well, he had such a terrible long way to fall."

Almost an Insinuation.

"What time is it by your watch?"
"I haven't it with me."
"Well, there is a telephone."
"What's that got to do with it?"
"You might call up your pawbroker and see."

Pain Greater.

"It must be awful to be bit in the plucks."
"Yes, but there is a worse place."
"In the eyes, for instance?"
"No; in the pocketbook."

Never Can Tell.

The thirty dollar Panama Which some swell spender graces Perhaps has cost him two-eighths When you get down to cases.

Sometimes Helps.

"The horse won by an eyebrow."
"How could the judge make such a fine decision?"
"He had a little money bet on that horse."
