Don't Wait.
No man is sure into the world whose work is not torn with him; there is stress work. And to work with him; for those who will not wait for the busy hands of the world. The busy world turns away from the man who stands with arms akimbo and waits for the busy hands of the world. And he who waits to have his task marked on his forehead and leave his great unfinished. James Ross Lewis.

Seeing the Best in Others.
It is unfortunate for a child to be reared in an atmosphere of pessimism, of an unshakable lack of confidence in his fellows. He grows up with a desire to see the good side of things rather than the bad, in splendid capital with which to start out in life. When we see only the man that God made, refuse to see the burlesque man which unfortunate training, wrong thinking, mistakes and sin have made, we help to bring out whatever is noblest in our fellow man as well as in ourselves.

What we see in others is a pretty good indication of what predominates in ourselves. If we are inclined to see crookedness, perverseness, dishonesty, malice and envy in our neighbors, it indicates that these very qualities are too prominent in ourselves. Others are mirrors in which we see ourselves. Beware of what you see in others. It is a tall tale of what is in yourself. Look out for the person who is always condemning others, finding flaws, seeing the ugly, bad side. He is a dangerous man.

Don't allow yourself to be a cynic, a disapprover; don't go about with a microscope looking for other people's faults and failings. Learn to believe in people, to see the good in them. We have a peculiar love and admiration for some people because they find good in us, they see the possibilities which others do not see. We love them because they do not see the bad, the ugly, the crooked in us.

I know a woman who has a genius for bringing out the best in others because she refuses to see anything but the good. In spite of the fact that she takes comparatively little pains in selecting her servants she always has good ones and rarely has trouble with them. She has often taken those who have been discharged from other families and set them again and has made good servants of them.

The secret of her success is that she does not treat them as most people do—as hirelings or inferiors—but with great kindness and consideration. She has patience with their weaknesses and failings and by her treatment so wins their love and confidence that they try their best to please her. Although she never locks her jewelry, money or any other valuables from them a servant rarely takes anything from her. She makes them understand that she trusts them, believes in them, relies upon their honor to deal as fairly with her as she does with them. It is really wonderful what she brings out of them by the golden rule, her philosophy. Yet it is perfectly natural and scientific. We do not misuse or take advantage of the friends who believe in us and see in us possibilities which others do not see.

Scolding, fault-finding, domineering, over-bearing methods bring the worst out of employees as the opposite methods bring out the best. Suspicious brings out suspicion, prejudice, prejudice, kindness, kindness. Many men are always looking for the weak points in their employees, looking for some ugly thing, some unfortunate fault or habit, they are suspicious of them, taking for granted that everybody who works for them would shirk and slight their work when out of their sight. The result is that these people always have trouble with their help.

Watched employees those who are always suspected, will never give you their best. As a rule, you call out of employees the qualities which you recognize in them. They will reflect

The Farmer Today.
Buckskin paper: The times have changed. The farmer never was such a tool as writers and cartoonists represented. It is well known that the majority of the foremost men in politics, commerce and the learned professions have always come from the rural districts. At the same time the farmer was at a great disadvantage socially and educationally and many suffered by it. But the farmer is now coming into his own. He is learning that his business is second to none. He is using the most modern machinery in his work. He is realizing the value of the scientific farming and in his home may be found the best magazines and books dealing with his industry. He does not wear horseman and go anthers. He dresses well and presents a good appearance when he goes out. His wife and children are neatly and attractively dressed when they go to town and do not consider themselves in any sense inferior to city folks. The farmer has his carriage and driving horses and sometimes an automobile. He is putting in the telephone and making his house modern. He takes the daily papers, has a growing library of books and has made to his home. He is wide awake to the progress of the world and whatever affects his calling, and he is no longer an easy mark for the gold-broker man or for scheming politicians.

For Aged People.
OLD FOLK SHOULD BE CAREFUL IN THEIR SELECTION OF RIGOROUS "LATIVE MEDICINE."
We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called "Rexall" Ointment.
Rexall Ointment is eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night, do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild, but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c, 25c, and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. V. Rand.

A Literal Distinction.
Bishop Potter was known as quite a wit, and often took delight in turning his humor loose on his associates, but here is an instance where the joke, although quite unintentional, was on the Bishop. He was to preach at a certain parish in the west, in the evening, and the congregation was not a little amused at the somewhat ambiguous announcement of their worthy pastor, who said—
"Remember our special service next Sunday afternoon. The Lord will be with us during the morning services, and Bishop Potter in the evening."

Saving the Sunshine.
The trees and forests in Alaska are of vast importance, but the discharge of our duty with regard to them will not occupy much of our time. A nearer need is to see that we make the best use of our natural resources in our own back yards. How about making two blades of grass grow where one grew before? How about that just as important as keeping the coal or saving the streams or doing any of the thousand and one things that we individually can only talk about? The best use of our natural resources is to make the most of the sunshine and husband the rain and strive intelligently to keep pace in production with the increase of the non-agricultural population.
The need of conservation of food supplying resources is obvious. There are more people in America every year and every year the soil is unimproved. The area of rich land decreases and the cost of living rises. Conservation of the potential power of sun and soil is the only reasonable solution of the problem of nation-feeding and just here is our opportunity. What is the nation's goal is also for our individual profit. The wise use of the soil means money in our pockets.
The very greatest product of land is derived from intensive gardening through generations of intelligent selection and breeding thoroughbred seeds have been developed whose yield far surpasses in quantity and quality that of the ordinary strains. You can be a true conservationist if you have a successful garden. Be sure, however, to start right by planting thoroughbred seeds. They can be bought of seed-men, having sufficient capital and experience to know what they are about and a reputation to maintain.
When buying a cough medicine for children bear in mind that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the most effective for colds, cough and whooping cough and that it contains no harmful drug. For sale by all druggists.
A West Virginian of a darky, a blacksmith, recently announced a change in his business as follows: "Notice—Deceased partnership heretofore existing between me and Miss Selena is hereby dissolved. Don't what one of them will settle with me, and don't what the other will settle with Miss Selena."

The Light of a Cheerful Face.
There is no greater every-day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in man, among men is like sunshine to the day, of gentle renewing moisture to parched hearts. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself, and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it. The sorriest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continuous good humor. As well might fog and cloud, and vapor, hope to cling to the sun illuminated landscape as the light of a cheerful face to a gloomy and depressing atmosphere. Cheerful speech and exhilarating laughter. Be cheerful always. There is no path but will be easier travelled, no load but will be lighter, no shadow or heart or brain, but will lift sooner in presence of a determined cheerfulness. It may sometimes seem difficult for the happiest temper to keep the countenance of peace and content; but the difficulty will vanish when we truly consider that sullen gloom and passionate despair do nothing but multiply thorns and thicken sorrows. Ill comes to us as providentially as good, and as a good, if we rightfully apply it to us. Who will not then cheerfully accept the ill, and that which is apparent sting? Cheerfulness ought to be the fruit of philosophy and Christianity. What is gained by pessimism and fretfulness, by perverseness and sadness and sullenness? If we are ill, let us be cheered by the trust that we shall soon be in health; if misfortune befall us, let us be cheerfully hopeful visions of better fortune; if death rob us of dear ones, let us be cheered by the thought that they are only gone before to the blissful bowers where we shall all meet to part no more forever. Cultivate cheerfulness for personal profit. You will do better and bear every duty and burden better by being cheerful. It will be your comfort in soothless pain, support and consolation in society. You will be more sought after, more trusted and esteemed for your steady cheerfulness. The bad, the vicious, may be plausibly gay and vulgarly humorous, but seldom or never truly cheerful. Genuine cheerfulness is an almost certain index of a happy and a pure heart.—(New York)

Just a Few Suggestions.
Even if you are an Englishman don't think that "ginging is harmless." It's harmful.
The man who marries a grass widow must not expect necessarily to live in clover.
Unless you are an exceptionally fine musician and pianist you had better not try to set a hen to music.
To the Brooklyn man who ate too much duck and suffered indigestion thereby, we suggest that he consult a quack doctor.
Says a poet: "If misfortune overtakes you, smile. Very good advice, but suppose that misfortune overtakes you in a strictly prohibition town?"
Never carry your civic pride too far, like the Minneapolis congregation which rose and left the church one Sunday because the minister took his text from St. Paul.
When a girl who has encouraged a young man for about two years tells him suddenly that she can never be more than a sister to him, he can for the first time see the treckles on her nose.
Stomach Trouble Cured.
If you have any trouble with your stomach you should take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. P. Kite of Edina, Mo., says: "I have used a great many different medicines for my stomach trouble, but find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets most beneficial than any other remedy I ever used. Cheerful speech and exhilarating laughter. Be cheerful always. There is no path but will be easier travelled, no load but will be lighter, no shadow or heart or brain, but will lift sooner in presence of a determined cheerfulness. It may sometimes seem difficult for the happiest temper to keep the countenance of peace and content; but the difficulty will vanish when we truly consider that sullen gloom and passionate despair do nothing but multiply thorns and thicken sorrows. Ill comes to us as providentially as good, and as a good, if we rightfully apply it to us. Who will not then cheerfully accept the ill, and that which is apparent sting? Cheerfulness ought to be the fruit of philosophy and Christianity. What is gained by pessimism and fretfulness, by perverseness and sadness and sullenness? If we are ill, let us be cheered by the trust that we shall soon be in health; if misfortune befall us, let us be cheerfully hopeful visions of better fortune; if death rob us of dear ones, let us be cheered by the thought that they are only gone before to the blissful bowers where we shall all meet to part no more forever. Cultivate cheerfulness for personal profit. You will do better and bear every duty and burden better by being cheerful. It will be your comfort in soothless pain, support and consolation in society. You will be more sought after, more trusted and esteemed for your steady cheerfulness. The bad, the vicious, may be plausibly gay and vulgarly humorous, but seldom or never truly cheerful. Genuine cheerfulness is an almost certain index of a happy and a pure heart.—(New York)

Just a Few Suggestions.
Even if you are an Englishman don't think that "ginging is harmless." It's harmful.
The man who marries a grass widow must not expect necessarily to live in clover.
Unless you are an exceptionally fine musician and pianist you had better not try to set a hen to music.
To the Brooklyn man who ate too much duck and suffered indigestion thereby, we suggest that he consult a quack doctor.
Says a poet: "If misfortune overtakes you, smile. Very good advice, but suppose that misfortune overtakes you in a strictly prohibition town?"
Never carry your civic pride too far, like the Minneapolis congregation which rose and left the church one Sunday because the minister took his text from St. Paul.
When a girl who has encouraged a young man for about two years tells him suddenly that she can never be more than a sister to him, he can for the first time see the treckles on her nose.
Stomach Trouble Cured.
If you have any trouble with your stomach you should take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. P. Kite of Edina, Mo., says: "I have used a great many different medicines for my stomach trouble, but find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets most beneficial than any other remedy I ever used. For sale by all druggists."

The Farmer Today.
Buckskin paper: The times have changed. The farmer never was such a tool as writers and cartoonists represented. It is well known that the majority of the foremost men in politics, commerce and the learned professions have always come from the rural districts. At the same time the farmer was at a great disadvantage socially and educationally and many suffered by it. But the farmer is now coming into his own. He is learning that his business is second to none. He is using the most modern machinery in his work. He is realizing the value of the scientific farming and in his home may be found the best magazines and books dealing with his industry. He does not wear horseman and go anthers. He dresses well and presents a good appearance when he goes out. His wife and children are neatly and attractively dressed when they go to town and do not consider themselves in any sense inferior to city folks. The farmer has his carriage and driving horses and sometimes an automobile. He is putting in the telephone and making his house modern. He takes the daily papers, has a growing library of books and has made to his home. He is wide awake to the progress of the world and whatever affects his calling, and he is no longer an easy mark for the gold-broker man or for scheming politicians.

For Aged People.
OLD FOLK SHOULD BE CAREFUL IN THEIR SELECTION OF RIGOROUS "LATIVE MEDICINE."
We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called "Rexall" Ointment.
Rexall Ointment is eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night, do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild, but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c, 25c, and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. V. Rand.

A Literal Distinction.
Bishop Potter was known as quite a wit, and often took delight in turning his humor loose on his associates, but here is an instance where the joke, although quite unintentional, was on the Bishop. He was to preach at a certain parish in the west, in the evening, and the congregation was not a little amused at the somewhat ambiguous announcement of their worthy pastor, who said—
"Remember our special service next Sunday afternoon. The Lord will be with us during the morning services, and Bishop Potter in the evening."
