WHO MAKES THE PROPOSAL?

Suggests Marriage,

The contented somnolence of the after-dimer group around the smok-ing room fire was disturbed by the noisy dropping of a magazine.

"A silly love story, all sentimental speeches," explained the reader. "Seems very unreal to me. But I suppose I can't judge of these things. No man knows, for instance, how another proposes."
"Men never do propose," the misogynist sprawling in the room lest of the armchairs. "Ninety-nine women out of a hundred take the pro-posal for granted, and I'm ready to bet that not one of you proposed to you

There was a brief silence as each man musingly turned the dim pages of his memory. Then one man laughed and said: "Now, when I think of it you are quite right in my case. I didn't propose to Alice. She was one of a large, lively family, and all the brothers and sisters were my friends, Gradually it happened that Alice was my partner at golf or tennis more often than any of her sisters. When I an-nounced that I had been made junior partner in my firm, Alice's mother kissed me and said: 'I'm so glad Tom. Now you and Alice can be married at last.' So we were—and a joily good thing it was for me."

"When you think of my quiet little wife," said Brown, the boisterous, masterful one of the group, "you might imagine that I clubbed her into submission; but, as a matter of fact, she married me. We had known one an-other from childhood, and one day when the saw me she said, You have a button off your coat and you are going to have influenza. I'd better marry you when you get well again just to keep you in order.' That's all the proposing that took place in our case. But what about Grayson there? A man who earns his living have said something poetic when he filled his pipe. "I was helping Kitty to distribute favors at her sister's wedding. 'I suppose we'll have to go through this horrible fuss some day,' I groaned. 'Yes, I suppose we shall,' she said."—Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Booth Tarkington's Youth. Young Booth Tarkington was never conspicuous success as a financier, remembers this writer whose works have won him rank as one of Amer-ica's most brilliant novelists. "Up to the time I was thirty I earned a total of exactly $67.67\frac{1}{2}," says Mr. Tarkington. "And that included money I received for a prize essay at college and 7\frac{1}{2} cents for shoveling snow, when I was eleven years old. The reason for the half a cent is this: Another boy and I shoveled the snow and received 15 cents for the job. This we divided; 7 cents each; then bought a stick of candy with the extra cent and split the candy. First I intended to be an artist, not writer."-From the Argo-

Seaguli and Golf.

Every golfer knows the story of the sussex man who was put off his play by the ships passing up and down the English channel, but there are other dangers than ships to a game on the seashore. Seagulls, to wit. Just as a at Port Erin, Isle of Man, a seaguil swooped down, selzed the stationary ball and carried it off. After flying for about a hundred yards the bird dropped the ball, but at once recovered it, flew another hundred yards and dropped it again. Then the player came into his own. There was a proto pay for repairs to the city sewers of Sierraville. The city claims that confiscated liquors, hooten and jackness brandy, poured into the sewer by the officers, removed the lining of the sewer for a distance of 304 feet.

The liquor was disposed of in this manner by Marshal Massey and Assistant Marshal Pierce on orders of Federal Commissioner Arnold. City officials, who happened to be examining the spot, discovered the damaga—
