FREDERICTON, DECEMBER 7, 1895.
THE NORTH ONTARIO CONTEST.

We have called attention to a few of the curiosities of the present Dominion by-election in North Ontario, but there are a few others even more striking. Take the case of Mr. Clarke Wallace, for instance. Mr. Wallace is the head of the Orange order in Canada, a Protestant of the most ultra type, a man who like our own Pitts, pretends to stand up at all times for "equal rights for all and special privileges to none." And yet this very same Mr. Wallace is speaking nightly in the Orange halls of North Ontario, pleading with his brethren to support the Tory government, who are pledged to force separate schools on Manitoba; who have indeed called an extra session of Parliament, for the specific purpose of securing special privileges to the Roman Catholics of that province. If ever there was an example of gross prostitution of principles, we think it is furnished by Mr. Wallace in the North Ontario campaign.

Then note another anomaly of the contest. Among the Tory leaders and stumpers, is Mr. Marter, the Opposition leader in the Ontario legislature. If the party which opposes Sir Oliver Mowatt in Ontario, is distinct in its attitude, it is the persistence with which they have used the No Popery cry against Ontario's Grand Old Man. Under Mr. Meredith's leadership, and with Mr. Marter at its head, the Ontario Tory opposition have been the sworn enemies of the Roman Catholics of Ontario, and their campaign for the last ten years have been conducted on the lines of Protestant bigotry, and yet, we find Mr. Marter joining with Clarke Wallace in North Ontario to elect a candidate who is secretly pledged to vote for the restoration of separate schools in Manitoba.

If ever Tory hypocrisy attempted anything like this before, and we admit it has reached some magnificent heights, we should like it to be pointed out. And what do the Orangemen of Canada think of their leaders? Are they all willing to be dragged through the mire to suit the personal interests of Mr. Clarke Wallace? Is a seat in the ante-room of the government establishment for Mr. Wallace and a $5,000 salary attached sufficient to win them from all their professed principles of "equal rights for all and special privileges to none"? Let us have a clear and distinct enunciation of Mr. Pitts' convictions, for instance, on the North Ontario situation. What does he honestly think of Mr. Wallace's course, and is he as an alleged leader of the Orangemen in this country, prepared to endorse the Grand Master, Mr. Foster, and the government in their present attitude towards the cherished principles of the order which he has so earnestly pretends to uphold?

TORY DISSENSIONS.

In many constituencies in Canada, our Tory friends are badly rent into factions each jealous of the other, a pretty certain index of the general disintegration, which awaits the dominant party when it faces the people of Canada at the polls. In Ontario the Tories have two rival organizations, and two sets of candidates; in Stornont and Glengarry, the present member Dr. Bergin, has been cast aside and another man nominated but Bergin also announces himself a candidate for re-election. In Brockville, represented by Comptroller Wood, there are two fully organized Conservative Associations each ready to jump at the other's throat. And so on in other constituencies. We have a sample of Tory disorganization here in our own country. A number of the big wigs of the party, including Mr. Gibson and Mr. Temple, want Mr. Foster to contest the county; others whose votes and influence in the party counted in the past, have set themselves against the importation of an outsider, and if the Finance Minister comes to York, will either openly oppose his candidature or sulk in their tents. There is another wing of the party, who pretend to be straightly opposed to Mr. Foster's separate school policy, all forming a most unhappy and quarrelling family, and indicating the final disintegration and defeat of the Tories throughout the country.

MR. INCH'S CLAIM.

We understand that a number of the school trustees are willing that Geo. S. Inch's claim against the board should be paid without going into litigation, and one member with whom The Herald has talked, said he had no doubt of the justice and legality of the claim. It would appear a small matter for the trustees to resist, and if it should go to trial, the costs to the trustees would probably be greater than the amount of the claim. We think, in view of all the facts, that the trustees would be justified in effecting a settlement that would be satisfactory to Mr. Inch. A correspondent raises the point that in case the action should go on, whether or not the Sheriff who is a member of the trustee board, and one of the defendants, would be qualified to summon a jury to try the case. The question is one worthy of consideration, and do doubt will be raised at the proper time. We may add, that we are informed the board has had legal advice which would warrant them in paying Mr. Inch's claim, and we trust they will follow the suggestion made to them.

In an address in North Ontario, Friday night, Hon. John F. Wood of the Dominion Government was forced to confess that a large majority of the manufacturers of Brockville, his own constituency, vote against the Tory government, and that when Mr. Laurier visited Brockville a few weeks ago, Mr. Frost of Smith's Falls, proprietor of what is next to the largest agricultural implement manufacturing concern in the country, appeared upon the platform and declared that he was in favor of the old revenue tariff under Mr. Mackenzie, and that the National Policy had done him no good. The situation was very embarrassing to Mr. Wood, but he was so closely pressed that he was compelled to make the unwilling confession.

WINNIPEG advises state that Mr. Greenway will probably call the Manitoba legislature together the last of January, a month which promises to develop lively times in Canadian political circles.

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

Writs for the bye-elections in Montreal Centre and Jacques Cartier have been issued, polling to take place in the former, Dec. 27th and in the latter, Dec. 30th. In Montreal Centre, the Liberal candidates will be Hon. James McShane, and his Tory opponent is Sir Wm. Kington. The Tories have been searching diligently for a candidate for Jacques Cartier to oppose Mr. Charbonneau, but have not yet found their man. Both constituencies have been strongly Tory, both are largely Roman Catholic, and if the Government cannot retain them, they will have little chance of being successful anywhere else. This is nomination day in North Ontario, where a Liberal, a Tory and a Patron are candidates. Nobly pretends to speculate with any certainty as to the result. In the meantime, for West Huron, the first vacated constituency, no writ has yet been issued. The Tory majority there in 1891 was only sixteen, and the Government is apparently afraid to call on a new election.

The Fredericton Society of St. Andrew never in its history enjoyed a more influential position in the community than it does at the present time. Besides its social side, the society has taken up the question of education, giving a valuable scholarship in the University. The members and their friends enjoyed a very pleasant evening, dining together at the Barker House Monday night, the evening's entertainment being a complete success. We congratulate President Inches and his fellow members on the present standing of the society, and its ability to cater to the pleasure of its guests.

Mr. Pratts, who in the Reporter during the recent local election campaign, expressed the greatest confidence in the triumph of the opposition, now sorrowfully admits how badly he and his friends were wiped out. In yesterday's Reporter, Mr. Pitts observes: "One of the greatest fears to be apprehended, in the constitution of parties in the present local legislature, is that the opposition will not have sufficient numerical strength to offset the natural tendency of a strong government to carry matters with a high hand."

Chief of Police Clarke of St. John, has instructed the members of his force to arrest all children hereafter, who are found on the streets after 7 o'clock in the evening, unless accompanied by their parents or guardians, or able to give satisfactory reasons for being abroad at that hour. The same order is required in Fredericton, where the presence of young children on the streets at unreasonable hours has long been notorious.

When the death of Stephen Glazier, who passed away at his home in Lincoln, Monday morning, disappears the last of three brothers, who were among the pioneers of the lumbering business on the St. John river. Mr. Glazier's home in that town, was the scene of much large hearted hospitality and social enjoyment, and is remembered with pleasure by many of the middle aged people of this city.

A. H. DEMILLE, the St. John barrister, who died yesterday, was well and favorably known to many in this city, and his demise was heard of with sincere regret. He was a quiet, studious gentleman, with a large circle of sincere friends.

There promises to be a lively fight in the Scott act re-election in Westmorland County, which occurs January 6th. Both the repealers and the Scott act supporters are actively organizing.

GLASIER FIND AT ST. JOHN.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 2.—On Saturday a human skeleton was found in the woods at Brandy Brook on the Black River in the vicinity of the remains of the remains of Robert Horn, who disappeared in the summer of 1894. Coroner Berryman held a post mortem examination, and says he has no doubt they are the remains of the missing man Horn. The body was found lying on a pile of spruce boughs. The friends of Robert Horn, deceased deny that the remains found this week at Black River are those of the missing man, and the question agitating St. John is, if not Horn's, who was the person overtaken by so sad a fate?

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fredericton Boom Company at St. John Tuesday, A. F. Randolph, E. G. Dunn, W. H. Murray, E. L. Jewett, C. F. Woodman, E. C. Sutton and H. U. Miller were elected directors, and at a subsequent meeting of the directors, A. F. Randolph was re-elected president and treasurer, and H. J. Olive, secretary.

DeVeber Neales says that Steeves has paid him $50 of the $70 verdict he obtained against the Tory candidate in Albert, for assistance rendered in the recent local election, but Steeves is to be brought into court again by Prescott, editor of the defunct Albert Star, who sues for campaign literature which he distributed, in Steeves' interest.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

Mr. A. R. Miles Enters Into a Full Explanation of the Matter
And Pays His Respects to Mr. G. A. Treadwell.

Sir,—In Saturday's Gleaner I noticed a lengthy communication from Geo. A. Treadwell, re postal matters in Upper Magalloway, and amongst other persons, I notice I am invited to a share of his scathing rebuke for what part I may have taken, in attempting to secure for the people of this community, something like a decent mail delivery.

True I acted once on Mr. Sterling's ferryman, conveying the people's petition to Mr. Wilnot. It did not put me out much, and there was no pay in it. I did not see as I committed a very great crime, nor can it be deemed by Mr. T. as very undignified as he has acted in that capacity for some years, ferrying to and from the steamer, and among other persons, I notice I am invited to a share of his scathing rebuke for what part I may have taken, in attempting to secure for the people of this community, something like a decent mail delivery.

No Small Amount of Travelling
This is considerable of an item, and Mr. Treadwell does not wish to lose the boon. If Mr. Sewell was appointed postmaster he would attend the steamer, and thus Mr. T. like any other common individual would be asked to pay his fare on the boat, or walk.

As to his charge of names being subscribed to that petition, not authorized to be there, it is too contemptible to notice, as any person knowing Mr. A. McL. Sterling, the gentleman who circulated the petition, knows that he is above any such contemptible means of accomplishing a point, as to forging names to a petition. I saw the petition when about all the names were on it, and the name of Dr. Phillip Cox (whom I know was not at home) was not on the petition, and Mr. Sterling assures me that Mr. Treadwell was not on the petition at all. Mr. Treadwell must have known that Dr. Cox's name was not on, as he had every opportunity of seeing it at Mr. Wilnot's. This matter I will leave for Mr. Sterling to deal with himself, if he sees proper to do so. At the same time I think I can safely challenge Mr. Treadwell to produce one single individual who will say that they did not authorize his name put upon that petition.

A LIVELY ENCOUNTER.

A Refractory Pupil Gives Principal McFarlane Trouble in the Charlotte Street School.
A lively row in the Charlotte street school, is the talk of the lower end of the city. It appears that Principal McFarlane recently has been having considerable trouble with Norman Woodbridge, a lad of probably seventeen years of age and quite as large as the principal himself.

On Monday forenoon, Mr. McFarlane in correcting Woodbridge, made a remark which the latter resented in the presence of the other pupils, and then turned round and walked from the room. He returned in the afternoon, however, and was called on by the Principal for an apology. The young fellow responded with the reply that "you are the one who should apologize Mr. McFarlane." The principal then asked the girl to retire, and as he approached the rebellious boy, the latter turned on him, and a scuffle ensued. Woodbridge finally escaped, but returned Tuesday morning and took his seat in the school. Mr. McFarlane wanted an understanding and an explanation of the affair, but the boy refused to do so, pressed, jumped for the window and made his escape. In the afternoon he returned again, had a private conference with the Principal, apologized for all the trouble he had given and resumed his place in the school, resolved to do better in the future.

During the personal encounter between the teacher and pupil, some of the girls were so alarmed that they cried, and there was a general rush for the doors. Mr. McFarlane is proving himself a capable and earnest teacher and principal, and in the first series of test of his ability to maintain discipline in the school, has come off successful.

I Signed It.

The acknowledgement of the receipt of it at Ottawa, was mailed to my address, and as I am a Grit, I am informed upon credible authority, that Mr. Sewell could not get the appointment, as it was argued by Mr. Treadwell to Mr. Wilnot that he would be playing into the hands of his Grit enemies. This was after Mr. Wilnot had said in Mr. Sewell's story that "this was the proper place for the P. O., but let the people say, and the office will be where they want it." The people did say and the office was where Mr. Treadwell wanted it.

HEADING THE COLUMNS.

The acknowledgement of the receipt of it at Ottawa, was mailed to my address, and as I am a Grit, I am informed upon credible authority, that Mr. Sewell could not get the appointment, as it was argued by Mr. Treadwell to Mr. Wilnot that he would be playing into the hands of his Grit enemies. This was after Mr. Wilnot had said in Mr. Sewell's story that "this was the proper place for the P. O., but let the people say, and the office will be where they want it." The people did say and the office was where Mr. Treadwell wanted it.

The matter was arranged by giving Mr. Shields some extra allowance, and he still acted as postmaster, but was not to be mentioned at Ottawa, as it was argued by Mr. Treadwell to Mr. Wilnot that he would be playing into the hands of his Grit enemies. This was after Mr. Wilnot had said in Mr. Sewell's story that "this was the proper place for the P. O., but let the people say, and the office will be where they want it." The people did say and the office was where Mr. Treadwell wanted it.

INTENDED REMAINING IN THE PLACE.

The second petition was presented to Mr. Wilnot, and he washed his hands of the matter and sent for P. O. Inspector King, who arrived under the protection of Mr. Treadwell, made a few calls in the district that night with Mr. Treadwell, and listened to what was said by a few people, and returned to St. John the next day, and after going through the same farce recommended Mr. Shields for postmistress.

INTENDED REMAINING IN THE PLACE.

This did not give offence at all, as everybody in the district would much rather help Mr. Shields, than do a single action that would in any way injure her prospects, after it was known she intended remaining. Mr. Shields attended the duties of the office acceptably, until Sept. last, when she resigned and moved to the British Columbia, since which time the mail has been in the hands of Mr. Geo. A. Treadwell, and I must say has been very unsatisfactory to at least a great many of the patrons of the office. For instance the mail arrived by boat at about 8.45 a. m., from Fredericton and from 3 to 5 p. m., from St. John. Those of the District, who could not make it convenient to call at the office, while Mr. Treadwell was there at the above named hours, had to come home with the report, "that no one was at the office and I could not get it."

TOOK THE KEY WITH HIM.

I have known parties to go there in order to mail letters, but had to bring them away, as no person was in the office, and there was no place to drop a letter. Under those circumstances was it unreasonable that I, although a Grit, should use what effort I could to secure a better service? Mr. Sewell consented to take the office if he could get it, and applied to Mr. Wilnot for it, as many people wanted him to accept it. Mr. Wilnot was petitioned by nearly 90 of the people, (not women and children, as was signed to a former petition), "residents and ratepayers," recommending Mr. Sewell, but all to no purpose. Mr. Treadwell was first, and all the time with Mr. Wilnot, and his wishes must be respected, and let those of his other friends, who did not like it, do the next best thing.

With those people we will let Mr. Wilnot settle the claim, and explain the matter to their satisfaction.

As regards our new postmaster Mr. F. Phair Shields, there cannot be a single word said against him. He commands the respect and admiration of the entire community, being possessed by nature of many traits that would be enviable by those in much higher positions. At the same time, to be plain and use plain language, he is only allowing himself to

Be Played By Geo. Treadwell
In order that Mr. Treadwell may still hold his job of conveying the mails to and from the steamer, and get his passage free on the boat. Although Mr. Shields owns the house in which the office is kept, he does not live in it, and in the summer season is away on the river all summer, holding the position of mate, on one of the river steamers, and there is no surety bond that our district must accept of the present postal arrangement, until such time as Mr. Treadwell, and Mr. Wilnot, give us a better service, or step down and out. The argument is made that no better service may be secured at the store, as Mr. Sewell does not keep it open at all times. That argument I will answer this way. I am not afraid to come one of Mr. Sewell's bondsmen, that the mails will be handled satisfactorily, and that any patron can get his mail at any reasonable hour, as Mr. Sewell will make an arrangement to that effect.

Before closing I must give Mr. Treadwell credit for the service he has rendered our postal district. Through him and to him are we indebted for the present arrangement of a daily mail instead of tri-weekly mail, but for that matter, if he did get the earth, he need not now want a glass case around it. Thanking you for your space, I am yours etc.

Mr. Tilley of Waterville Tells The Herald Something About the Cheese Business.

J. F. Tilley of the firm of C. L. Tilley & Son, the well known cheese manufacturers of Waterville C. S., was here the 5th. When asked for information about the cheese business, Mr. Tilley said that his firm operated four cheese factories in Carleton County, the output from which the past season amounts to 125 tons. About one third of this amount was shipped to England by the manufacturers and brought a good price, and the remainder was sold in the local markets. Formerly the sending of their product to the English markets was done by the Montreal shipping agents, but this season the Messrs. Tilley concluded to try the experiment of shipping direct, and the results have so far been very satisfactory to them. This firm enjoy a very high reputation as cheese manufacturers, and the manner in which they carried off honors at the World's fair shows that they merit it. Mr. Tilley informs The Herald, that the prizes they won at that great exhibition have not yet been handed over.

Yesterday Mr. Tilley visited the Bart's Corner cheese factory and secured what was left of its season's output, about 7,500 pounds, and will ship it on commission to Liverpool by the Beaver line steamer, Lake Superior, from St. John. The price at which Canadian cheese is selling in the English markets at the present time is 47 shillings per hundred pounds, and the Messrs. Tilley expect to realize a good price for their shipment, which has just been placed on the market.

VISITED THE ALMS HOUSE.

Thursday morning Mayor Vanwart and the members of the city council visited the Alms house, in a body, to take a look over the premises and ascertain, if possible, whether or not Keeper Thomas had earned the $100 recently added to his salary. The council were quite favorably impressed with the condition in which they found things at the institution. Mr. Thomas took advantage of the visit, to point out that an additional barn, and also a fence at the rear of the buildings, were required. On their return, the mayor and aldermen took a look at the repairs being made to the Hill & Berry wharf.

PROMOTED.

R. Burns Gibson, a Fredericton boy, who started some years ago as messenger in the employ of the American Express Company, in this city, is climbing steadily up in the service. He went from here to Yarmouth, N. S., where he held the position of agent for some years, marrying a wife there. A few months ago, Mr. Gibson was transferred to the Bangor and Aroostook railway and ran between Carleton and Bangor, and now he has been given charge of the Company's Office at Bath, Maine, a lucrative and responsible position.

BAPTIST SOCIAL GATHERING.

A Handsome Amount Realized For F. Randolph's Farewell.
The Envelope social held in the Baptist vestry Wednesday was an enjoyable affair, and attracted a very large crowd of people, of all ages. Each envelope, beside containing a liberal offering, also included a verse from Scripture, or an appropriate quotation of poetry.

The task of opening these was assigned to Hon. A. F. Randolph, and H. C. Creed read the enclosure, which were of a varied nature, humorous, scriptural, poetical, and appropriate to the occasion. One of the envelopes contained a check for $100, and another one for $50, while another contained $30, made up by the ladies of the church. The total sum realized, amounted to the very respectable figure of $570.

During an intermission a quartette composed of F. L. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, and Miss Eva Winters, sang several selections, and Miss Mamie McNally rendered a solo.

When the pile of envelopes had all been attended to, light refreshments were passed around, and a half hour was spent very pleasantly in social conversation.

Before the gathering dispersed the pastor, Rev. Mr. Freeman announced that it was probably the last opportunity they would have of hearing from Mr. Randolph, who was about leaving for Carleton to spend the winter, and he called on that gentleman to say a few words.

Hon. Mr. Randolph then stepped forward, and delivered a short and pleasant address. He was convinced that he had spent a pleasant evening, and he thought it an excellent way to raise funds for the church. During his absence he would remember the church, and wish every year dearer to his heart, and he would not forget the very pleasant evening they had just spent. He hoped in God's providence to be reunited with them in a few months.

SHOFIELD.

Dec. 2nd.—Special service was held in the Congregational church Thanksgiving Day. The church was prettily trimmed with flowers, fruit, vegetables etc. The thank offering amounting to nearly $15 was on behalf of foreign missions.

In compliance with a request of the American Board of Missions that Friday, Dec. 6th, be observed as a day of special prayer for Turkey and the persecuted missionaries in that country, a Union service will be held in the Temperance Hall at 3 p. m.

The Reading Circle has resumed work. Several new names have been added lately which is a pleasure to the Circle. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mr. David Burpee.

At the last regular meeting of the I. O. G. T. it was resolved to hold a "Pound G. T." the next night of meeting. All the members are invited to be present.

ZEALAND STATION.

Nov. 26.—All of our young men have gone to the lumber woods, our summer visitors have migrated, and winter has spread her sable mantle over us.

James E. Bartt and Medley Morehouse have purchased a new wood-cutter, and will run quite an extensive operation in the wood business this winter.

A juvenile incendiary in the vicinity of Smith's corner is proving himself the terror of the neighborhood. Twice he set fire to the school house woodshed, and last week he burned a stack of straw belonging to Burden Crouse, who lives near Zealand. We saw in a recent issue of the Gleaner, that Mr. Crouse and family were away at the time of the fire. The Gleaner was wrongly informed, for Mr. Crouse was at home and working in his barn at the time, and on coming to the door discovered his straw on fire. Had a west wind been blowing at the time, no thing could have saved Mr. Crouse's buildings. Still this youth is running at large. We think the reformatory would be the proper place for him.

Miss Jennie White from Woodstock, intends spending the winter at Mr. J. Brewer's.

A VERY SAD CASE.

A well known and respected resident of George street has become demented lately. Last Thursday was taken to the asylum. She lost the greater part of her means by a disastrous financial crash in this city several years ago and it has since weighed heavily on her mind. Her case is indeed sad one, and the grief stricken family endorse the sympathy of the community.
