What Will Happen?

If the inclinations of Holland toward the Kaiser can be gauged by the reports contained in the cabled despatches, the determination of that little country to protect the arch-criminal is equally as strong as that of the Allies in pressing for his extradition in order that he may be brought to the bar of justice to be tried and punished for his many crimes against humanity during the progress of the late war. So far every indication points to the refusal of the Dutch Government to surrender the former Emperor of Germany to the Allies for formal trial. Holland's stand may have been taken because of the apparent weakness of the Allied note which did not take the form of a demand, in the first instance, but was rather of the nature of an appeal. Since then a further exchange of notes has taken place and, as if profiting by previous experience, these have been made more firm and emphatic. Should Holland continue to persist in her refusal not to give up the ex-Kaiser, what then? Will the Allies make a demonstration in force against the Dutch, or will they use their power of blockade against that nation? If they are sincere in their desire for extradition Holland's defiance should not be permitted to stand in the way, though it would look like the act of a bully if force were used. But failing the attainment of the Allied wishes by ordinary international means, what is left but a display of force, which may have the effect of causing Holland to recede from her truculent attitude and hand over the person of the much wanted ex-Emperor.

Though outwardly Germany does not appear particularly interested, yet deep down there is a feeling that Holland should sit tight and not relinquish any advantage which her position gives her. The attitude of Germany toward the Allies with regard to the surrender of a number of German officers guilty of crimes and outrages against civilization, may be intended to stiffen the resistance of the Dutch Government, and undoubtedly Holland will follow the lead given by Germany, and reiterate her refusal to hand over the former Emperor, Baron Von Lersner, Germany's chief representative in Paris, voices this sentiment when he declares that he is absolutely sure that the Dutch Government will never surrender Wilhelm II. for trial on charges that are not provided for in any constitution, or in any laws or treaties regarding extradition. According to this the Allies are impaled on the horns of a dilemma. They have no precedent. Bonaparte, after Waterloo, was not extradited. He gave himself up trusting to the justice of the English, and was exiled to St. Helena. With all his faults and blood lust of conquest, Napoleon was not the type of criminal, whom Wilhelm of Germany personifies, and his voluntary surrender was not so much to secure his own personal safety as to ensure that his soldiers would be immune from punishment. William of Germany fled from his country ignominiously, leaving everything and everyone, caring nothing so long as his own carcass was unharmed.

Opinion varies considerably as to the desirability of halting the Hohenzollern from Holland. What purpose will it serve to have this done? The once war lord has already been tried by public opinion and condemned. Would a further trial before an international tribunal change that which has already been done? What sentence would meet the crimes with which the prisoner at the bar would be charged? The death penalty would make a martyr out of an assassin. Exile could not be commensurate with the deeds of blood and outrage for which the former Emperor is largely, if not wholly responsible. Such are some of the arguments advanced by writers who do not approve bringing the man of blood out of the obscurity of his present surroundings. And there is much to be said in favor of these premises. Sympathy would surely be aroused by making a public exhibition of the German paranoiac on trial. The Allied Governments have declared that they have not any intention of inflicting actual physical punishment upon him. Why then the necessity for a trial? In Holland the ex-Kaiser is far less dangerous than he would be if taken elsewhere. His death would not alter the Hohenzollern succession. But there is a principle involved. Holland has steadily and steadfastly declined to accede to the Allied requests for extradition. The child is defying the giant, but Holland is not sufficient of a David to stand in the breach against the Goliath strength of the Allied powers, and must ultimately yield to their demand. Either that or force majeure will be requisitioned, for the peace of Europe requires that the one-time ruler of Germany must be removed to a greater—

Fish Plentiful.

Recent reports state that fish are plentiful at Rose Blanche, and when weather is favorable boats average 4 quintals daily. Bait however is scarce, only a small amount of frozen squid being available. Owing to ice conditions herring cannot be obtained from either Fortune Bay or Bay of Islands. Some 60 dories and skiffs are operating and the whole catch to date is 4,577 quintals.

Shortage of Fresh Bait.

A report to the Board of Trade states the catch of codfish between Burrat Islands and Hiscok's Point is 2,500 qts. for 30 dories. Owing to the scarcity of fresh bait it is estimated that fishermen lost about $2,000 during the past week. Salted squid is being used, and though the catch is ahead of last year, by the use of fresh bait over 100 qts. of fish per week could be added to the voyage.

This Morning's Fire.

A telephone message to the Central Fire Station at 5 o'clock this morning brought the chemical apparatus to the residence of Mr. W. Campbell, No. 5 Church Hill. A fire was discovered in the kitchen cupboard, evidently caused by some overheated cooking utensils igniting the woodwork. The fire was smouldering for a considerable time and the smoke awoke the inmates of the house, who sought shelter at the home of Mr. J. C. Hepburn. The damage done was slight.

Amusement Club Formed.

Meeting in the club rooms, Springdale Street, last evening, the members of the N.I.W.A. formed an Amusement Club. President Noel occupied the chair and a committee was selected to take the matter fully in hand. The members comprising this are: M. Chipman, G. Williams, W. Quick, E. Noel, J. Sweetapple, C. Hooker, R. Ready, James Murphy, H. Shaw (Jr.), W. Noseworthy. The committee will meet at an early date.

Rosalind's Passengers.

M.S. Rosalind arrived in port this morning at 3.30 bringing the following passengers: Dr. T. R. Dwyer, Mrs. Jno. Harvey, E. S. Miller, J. MacKenzie, G. H. Hunt, P. O'Driscoll, Capt. Falk, Mrs. L. J. Taylor, Miss J. Forbes, L. McCruden, E. Harvey, Miss MacKenzie, Miss M. Dwyer, Mrs. Kaufman and 3 children, Mrs. E. Linseer, P. Connolly, J. Ryan, H. Hansen, F. K. Cannon, J. Lanning, Miss B. White, Ah Gook Kee, J. Connell, W. H. Eastwood, Reg. Sullivan, F. Squires, W. R. Howley, Rev. F. F. Conroy, H. F. Connor, J. B. Nathan, G. C. Nowlan, W. J. Murdoch, M. J. Green, F. Beaumont, C. Welch, Mrs. Mercer and 3 children, G. Bears, Mrs. Curry and child, A. F. Janes, P. Molloy, D. Murray, D. Stanley, P. Egan, H. Kelloway, O. Cooper. On the passage from Halifax to within a short distance of Cape Race, the ship met with heavy ice. At New York the port was blocked with ice.

Went Down With Ship.

From letters and newspaper clippings received by the relatives of Mr. Thomas Dunphy, fourth engineer of the ill-fated steamship Manxman, it is clearly shown that the young man met his end when the ship foundered during the gale of December 17-18, forty-two other members of the crew being hurried into eternity at the same time. Among them being the Captain, first officer and the wireless operator. The drowned men were unable to get the boats away from the foundering vessel and were thrown into the sea when the Manxman listed over. Thomas Dunphy being amongst them. The ship rescuing the saved members of the crew was the steamer British Isles.

Old Comrades' Tourney.

More than two hundred took part in the Cadet Old Comrades' card tourney last night. Twenty-five games were played in an hour and twenty-two minutes, not a hitch occurring. The first prize, a $20 gold piece, was won by J. Powlow; 2nd prize, a barrel of flour, by Mr. Shea; 3rd prize, a ham, by T. Lee; 4th prize a side of bacon, by J. Colbert. The next tourney, at which a $20 gold piece will be offered as first prize, will be held on Monday night at 8.30.

NOTICE.—The S. S. KYLE will sail for North Sydney at daylight to-morrow morning. Passengers are expected to be on board at 9 o'clock to-night. feb7,11

Building New Vessel.

Capt. R. F. Hollett, the enterprising business man of Burrat, North, arrived in St. John's by the S.S. Kyle, on Thursday evening last. Capt. Hollett was in Shelbourne, Nova Scotia, for about three weeks, when he made arrangements for the building of a new vessel of 180 tons. Nothing will be spared to make the future addition to our mercantile fleet equal to any in the country. Capt. Hollett deserves every success, as he is fast coming to the front as one of our most capable master mariners, as well as a most successful business man in the general trade of the country. Possessing, as we do, many young men of energy, enterprise and ability of the stamp of Capt. Hollett, there is no fear but Newfoundland will hold its own in the commercial life of the world. We wish the genial Captain Hollett every success in his venture.

Train Movements.

The incoming train from Carbon-ear, which left there on Wednesday, was at Harbor Grace last night.
The express to Port aux Basques, left St. George's at 9.30 a.m. yesterday.
The regular train to Carbon-ear went out this morning preceded by a rotary.
The five freight trains on their way to Bishop Falls and vicinity, were at Arnold's Cove last night, and started again this morning.

For a real good time, every chap and his sweetheart should attend the Dance of the employees of The Royal Stores, Ltd., on Tuesday, at 8.45 p.m., in the C. C. C. Hall. Full C. C. C. Band in attendance. Catering by the F. B. Wood Co.—feb6,21

The Inter-Church and Methodist National Campaign.

According to schedule, the Financial Campaign should begin on February 9th and end on the 14th. This may be possible in Canada, that is not subject to travel conditions that obtain in Newfoundland in February month of any year, nor are the people depending upon any railway system, which has been wholly unable to cope with the severe snow-storms that have "tied-up" all train movements for weeks, not only on the branch lines, but equally so on the main line. The article of to-day will give an idea of the Financial Objective set for the whole church, and also the enterprises that are included as causes for such an objective, and that make a just and insistent claim upon the generosity and liberality of the Methodist people.

We are indebted to the Christian Guardian for the following statement: METHODIST ASKS A PROSPEROUS CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND FOR $4,000,000.00.

An impossible task—said someone at the outset of the Campaign—to raise $4,000,000 (in addition to the amount contributed annually for the current connexional funds) for the work which the Methodist Church is doing.

The Methodist people of Canada are now recognizing that the financial objective of the National Campaign is a most reasonable one—and easily within the reach of the Canadian citizens who are members or adherents of the Methodist Church. The Methodist Church would be untrue to her traditions and to her great opportunity—would be unworthy of the noble example of her heroic Founder if, in this critical and transitional period of the nation's history and the world's remoulding, she failed to challenge her people to do something worth while in the Name of the Christ and for the Extension of the Kingdom of God.

For the proclamation of the Truth at Home, and in China and Japan—she asks a contribution of $1,500,000.

In order that her veterans may not be in want—she asks a contribution of $1,500,000.

That from Coast to Coast Educational Institutions may be brought up to the highest point of efficiency—she asks a contribution of $750,000.

In caring for other work which the Church is doing through her various departments—she asks a contribution of $250,000.

A total thank-offering of $4,000,000, in addition to the Current Connexional Funds for Missions, $1,125,000, Educational, $1,250,000, Evangelism, Social Service and Repatriation, $90,000.

Newfoundland Methodism will not be a whit behind the Methodism of Canada in its loyalty and gifts to the great objective. The allotment to the Newfoundland Conference is $112,000. This following upon the magnificent amount already pledged to the local Education Campaign, last June, may at first blush make an opportunity for "doubting" Methodists to say "it cannot be done." What needs to be emphasized is the fact that this is a great "THANK-OFFERING," and if Methodism in 1920 lives up to the definition given by Dr. Chalmers as "Christianity in earnest," then added to the alacrity which God has made possible, a thankful, willing heart, the objective is not an impossibility.

A note from Toronto says:—Since last week four points of major importance to the Church have emerged in the National Campaign.

1. Plans for the continuation campaign have been settled.
2. It is clear that the financial matters must be well out of the way by February 14.

3. Reports of special subscriptions indicate that the financial objectives are attainable by the Church.
4. Further reports of circuit successes demonstrate that the smaller congregations are not going to be behind.

It would have been idle for the Church to enter upon a further spiritual effort this conference year if failure were written across its attempt to meet its financial obligations. But the story of the churches which are going beyond their mark in the canvass and of the individuals who have underwritten large shares of the $4,000,000 special fund and of the $1,340,000 of current requirements will satisfy all that Methodism is going to measure up.

Generous Contribution.

On February 7th, 1917, the Benevolent Irish Society made the handsome contribution of £300, sterling to the Irish Relief Fund, organized because of the distress resulting from the Potato Famine of 1846.
