

Give the Children an Outing.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Knowing that your paper has always been willing to support any movement for the uplifting and comfort of man and beast, I beg to appeal through your columns to the ladies and gentlemen, who in the past have always assisted in such movements.

I am anxious to see an "Outing Day" or days, arranged for poor children of all sects, and believe that there are hundreds of children in this city who attend no S. S. Picnics or ever leave the confines of their street. Motor car owners and others, no doubt, would be only too willing to assist in conveying them to some handy and convenient spot, where they could enjoy the beauties of Nature, breathe deeply and avail of the sunshine, blessings which some of us enjoy continually through our Summer, with, I trust, thankful hearts.

I would ask some of our esteemed ladies to make a move in this direction, and believe if a collection was started a noble response would result. A small donation would give a poor child a day in the country; let us see it through. My subscription to amount of twenty dollars ($20.00) awaits your demand.

Sincerely yours,

COMMONER.

S.A. Officers Installed.

Adjutant and Mrs. Stickland, the newly appointed officers of No. 2 Corps, were installed at the meeting conducted in the Adelaide Street Citadel last evening, by Commandant Earl of Grand Falls. A goodly crowd attended and the service was bright and interesting all through. Several of the local comrades spoke words of welcome to the incoming officers assuring them hearty support and co-operation in their work for the advancement of God's Kingdom.

Adjutant and Mrs. Stickland heartily thanked the speakers for their expressions of welcome and assured one and all that they would give the best that was in them for the building up of the work at No. 2. Mr. Newcombe, a sailor from H.M.S. Compton, who is also a Salvationist, was present and spoke and sang. His description of his experiences before and after conversion was most interesting and was followed with close attention by the audience. We welcome Adjutant and Mrs. Stickland to the city and wish them a term of happiness and usefulness amongst us.

YESTERDAY'S RUGGER.

Quite a large gathering of fans turned out to see the rugger match yesterday afternoon at the Ayre Athletic grounds between the "Constance" and the City. The game made a great impression on those who witnessed it, but a greater impression still was made on the domes of many of the players who to-day are sporting their scars of honor. The City had the first half pretty well all their own way, which ended 5 to 3 in their favor, but in the second period three of the townies were laid hors-de-combat and were obliged to retire. As substitutes are not allowed the Navy boys then proceeded to plough up the field and at full time had their score up to 12 points while the City got two more points only. Major Gardner referred the game to the satisfaction of all. Slaughter, Gabbet and Forest were the stars for the visitors; while Bruce, MacDonald and Paterson, did yeoman service for the City.

STAR & C.E.L. DRAW.

As predicted the game between the Star and C.E.L. furnished a good game of football, though innumerable chances to score were lost by the Institute. The Star defence put up a splendid game despite the high wind which made the going a bit wild at times. In the first half a penalty against Jack Hart was scored by Hunt. A minute or two after on a pass from Doran, Hogan equalized the score.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The Saints and Guards should furnish to-night one of the best and fastest games for the season, and the result is looked forward to with interest.

INTER TOWN FOOTER.

A St. John's team, under the direction of Bobby Innes, will try conclusions with the paper men at Grand Falls on the 18th of August, in a "three game series. Arrangements will be announced later.

AMERICAN GOLFER'S BITTER ATTACK.

By FRANK M. CARRUTHERS. Walter Hagen has clutched at straws to excuse his failure to retain the British golf championship, and with an ill-grace that he has never previously shown, he has attacked the British sense of fair play. When he left Troon he expressed no grievance beyond the legitimate one that the authorities had delayed too long the beginning of the punched irons. All he said was: "It has not been my year but I shall be here again next year."

No doubt his bitter attack was only intended for American ears, but this does not make his position any better. Let us see what Hagen's criticism amounts to. First of all the Americans found on their arrival at Troon a fortnight or so before the start of the championship that the back tees were not in use, and when they wanted to remove the sand-boxes they were refused permission.

The reason for this was the reasonable one that the Troon Club wished the tees to be in the best possible condition for the championship. Even the members of the Club had not used them for some considerable time.

Club House Popularity.

Then the Americans found that they were not expected to use the clubhouse during their practice, but neither were the British competitors. The Club surrendered their home for a week to the professionals, and it was too much to expect them to do so for three weeks. But as soon as the championship started all the players had the use of the clubhouse and this was the first time in the history of the event that such facilities had been granted to the professionals. A year ago, at Sandwich, the only rest the men could obtain between the rounds was by lying down on the grass on the side of the course. In these circumstances, when the clubhouse was opened to the competitors, the Americans refused to enter.

A Regrettable Incident.

During the play, there was just one incident that was regrettable. When it was seen that Hagen's ball had run into a bunker at the last hole—at he was making his desperate effort to obtain a three to tie with Havers—a small section of the gallery raised a stifled cheer. It was unpardonable behaviour, but it was patent that it was not Hagen's blunder that was being cheered, but the fact that the cup had at last been rescued.

As Hagen walked off the green to receive generous recognition for his lion-hearted fight, an official apologized to him for the conduct of the spectators. He said, however, that he had not heard the cheer, and added: "It would not have made any difference if I had. We get that sort of thing in America—only worse—and we do not take any notice of it."

There still remains the baring of the punched irons. The writer had a long talk with Hagen on this question, and he told me just how the clubs came to be used in America. "We have very heavy dew," he said, "and if the face of the club is plain and smooth, the ball skids off out of control. To prevent this we started to put a few punch marks on the irons. Then it was found that these checked the run of the ball from the bounce, and more and more marks were added. In this way, I admit that we have gone to the extreme."

Punched Irons Ban.

When I offered to show Hagen the rule barring these clubs, which has been in force two years, he replied: "Yes, I know all about it." Of course he did. He was here last year when he and Jock Hutchison fled down the punch-marks to bring their clubs inside it.

Finally, Hagen told me: "I am glad the clubs have been barred. Our chances of winning the championship have been improved. The difficulty at Troon is not to stop the ball, but to get up to the hole, and so we shall continue to play for the flag in the usual way and get there, whereas with the punched club, we should often have been short."

Stealing a March.

I also spoke to Saracen and Diegel on the matter. At first they thought that they would have to scrap all their irons, and they were greatly upset; but when I explained to them that they would only have to file down the rough edges of the punch-marks, they were satisfied. Then I read them the rule, and Diegel remarked: "I am sorry that I ever brought the clubs. The British public can only think that we have been trying to steal a march on the home players."

Hagen's outburst has naturally created a very bad impression, and it is to be hoped that it will be possible for him to deny the statements attributed to him. The obvious question to be put to him is: "Why, knowing the punched club was illegal, did he intend to play with it in

REGATTA MEETING TO-NIGHT.
Practically all arrangements will be finalised to-night for this year's Regatta, which, judging from the enthusiasm of the contestants practicing at the Pond each night, promises to be more successful than ever. All amateur football, junior football, intermediate and intermediate fishermen must enter to-night.

SCOUT SPORTS.

The date for the Scout Sports has been fixed for Aug. 29th at St. George's Field. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event.

RACE POSTPONED.

The 5 mile road race at the College Campus for the Grathan Kiely Trophy has been deferred to Monday, July 30. This has been found necessary owing to the fact that the majority of the runners had already entered for the Mount Cashel race, Mr. Chas. Ellis is receiving the entries.

Personal.

Mr. C. Bowring, Director of the Red Cross Line at New York, and J. McKelvey, who have been salmon fishing at Codroy during the last two weeks, are returning to New York by the Rosalind to-morrow.

Amongst the passengers who arrived by yesterday's express were Rev. F. T. Cashin and Mr. James Cashin from Sydney, N.S. During their stay in the city they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Hickey, Freshwater Road.

Miss Maud Burnette, daughter of Dr. Burnette, arrived by the Rosalind yesterday on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hiscock, Long's Hill.

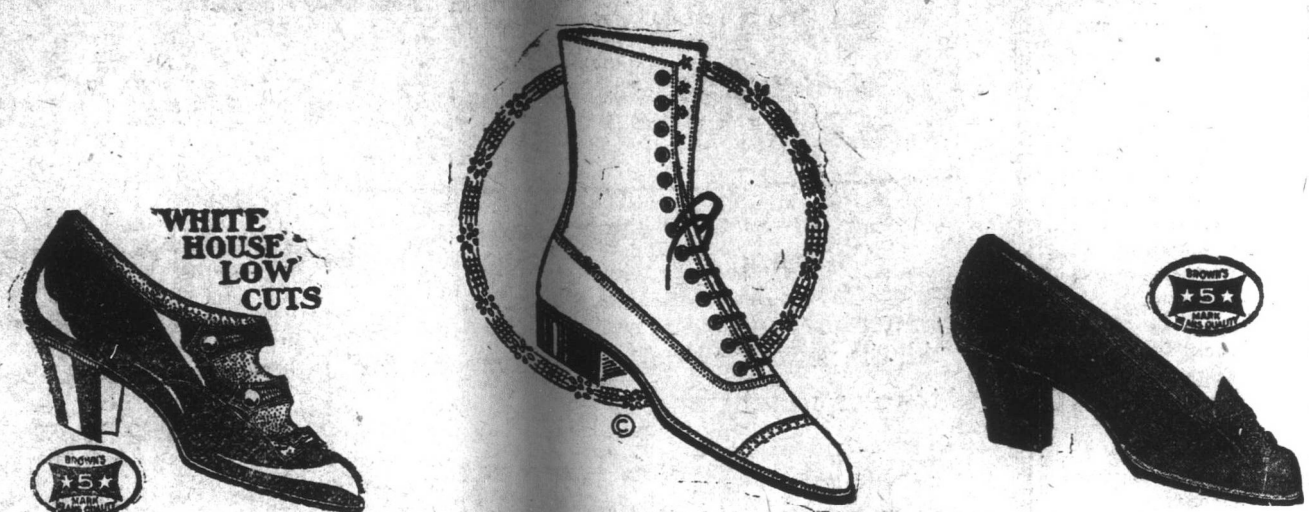

Rev. Edward Galway, Rector of Corpus Christi Church, Wheeling, West Virginia, arrived by the Rosalind yesterday on a round trip visit to his native city, to which he comes frequently in order to meet his many friends of other days, and to review again the familiar landmarks of St. John's. His last visit was three years ago, and he regrets he is unable to spend a longer vacation, as he would very much like to witness our Annual Regatta in which he himself participated, when he rowed amongst the juvenile crews before going abroad to study for the priesthood. Father Galway was also one of our foremost cricketers in the days when cricket was our leading summer game. He is looking well and enjoying his trip immensely, and next summer hopes to have more time at his disposal to spend amongst his friends in St. John's.

Woolworth Buying Without Hesitation.

"We do not hesitate to contract for merchandise for future delivery at present prices," said H. T. Farson, president of F. W. Woolworth Co., discussing retail merchandising. "Retail business is good, there is no question about that," he said. "I cannot see any reason why it should not continue to be good for the balance of 1923 at least."

ADAM MISSED IT.

Little Charlie had been a bad boy, and his father had given him a good spanking.

"Mother," Charlie asked, after his wails had died down, "was Adam the first man?"

"Yes, dear."

"Didn't he have any father?"

"Of course, not!" said Charlie's mother, wondering what was coming next.

"Well," said the little fellow, "he was lucky!"

Kilties March Countrywards.

The Newfoundland Highlanders paraded at the armouries last night in full strength, and headed by the pipes and bugle band marched countrywards. Returning to town they made a halt at Smithville where light refreshments were served. From then until darkness set in the lads spent an enjoyable time indulging in various games. Upon reforming ranks a return was made to the armoury. The Highlanders are hoping to have a fine band added to the pipe and bugle band in the very near future. The brigade is fast getting back to its former strength. It is their intention to hold a field day next month.

The Abuse of the Franking Privilege.

We are in receipt of a communication calling our attention to a business letter enclosed together with the envelope sent out by the Union Publishing Co. The envelope is minus the usual postage stamp, and has instead O.H.M.S. written across the top. Economy on the part of business concerns is laudable and deserving of encouragement, but when economy is practiced at the expense of the public, it might be given another name.
