Should the Ladies Use the Ballot?

An interesting entertainment was given last night in the schoolroom of the Askin Street Methodist Church by the Epworth League, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. Westman, the negative by Messrs. E. G. Rowell and S. T. Bartlett. The affirmative pointed out that the privilege of the franchise did not mean stumping the country, attending committee meeting to emerge soaked in tobacco smoke, engaging in angry arguments, for getting one's manhood or womanhood. No; it meant the opportunity of using the badge of liberty—the two tenders of the privilege, if she cared to use it, of exercising her influence at the polls. On the other hand it was reasoned that woman's first mature was incompatible to the necessary surroundings of the poll, and that the high moral position held by woman, giving her a universal home power, would be weakened if not lost, and the voting woman would become the obnoxious "masculine feminine."
