THE SULLIVAN-CORBETT FIGHT.

New ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The crowd that flocked in the streets to-day was noticeably large; than on any previous day of the fighting carnival. The town was chock full at four o'clock this afternoon, and all the men who stood along the curbs were talking about to-night's fight.

The mob went out to the club house in every car that started from anywhere along the line. By half-past seven the galleries in the arena were as full as should have been. The reserved seats were only pretty well filled.

At the tossing for corners Delaney for Corbett won, and selected the 'lucky' corner, as it is called—the one that Fitz-simmons had twice and McAuiffe and Dixon occupied this week.

Both were stripped all the way up and down except that they wore trunks and shoes and stockings. Corbett seemed nervous after he had taken his seat and swung his legs from the floor up and back again like an amateur. Then all hands collected in the middle of the rings and shook hands. It was amnounced that Sullivan weighed 212 pounds and Corbett 187. Five-ounce gloves were then distributed. Sullivan had trouble in getting his hands into his. Corbett was ready in an instant.

Round 1—This was a ridiculous exhibition. Sullivan made no less than seven feints with the left for Corbett, but Corbett ran round the ring each time, and no blow was struck.

Round 2-Corbett made no effort to do Round 2.—Corbett made no chort of us snything but wank around. The big fellow stood up leisurely and looked at Corbett, and then let go a left on Corbett's shoulders and a clinch followed. On the breakaway Corbett touched him on the breast. Another clinch followed. Corbett becast. breast. Another chinch longer as got in a slight blow on the stomach before the second round ended, and the crowd happy.

Round 3—Sullivan missed a left-hander for the jaw and then touched him on the stomach. The first good blow struck was by Corbett, who ran in on top of a run by Sullivan. Whenever Sullivan led Corbett ducked and John could not touch him.

Round 4—Sullivan made two runs at Corbett, but Jim ran away and no blow was struck. It looked like one man after another in a race, excepting two light blows that Corbett got in on the champion's face.

ee. Round 5-In this round Sullivan caught orbett a fairly hard blow on the chin, at Corbett clinched and nobody was hurt. utilivan made a rush and Corbett went at im. Corbett smashed him on the stomach ce, and had the big fellow's nose ing in no time. Then the house got d yelled.

np and yelled.

Round &—Corbett jumped around like a cat and worried the big fellow.

Round 7—Two slaps, one from each, opened this round, and after a bit of fighting Corbett let his left go on John's stomach. John did not seem to mind it, but Corbett went at him and gave him two zood smashes in the face with the left and own more soon after. Sullivan's nose was bleeding again freely. Corbett ran in and rushed Sullivan to the ropes, getting in several blows on the big fellow's body. Sullivan could make no return. He was tired when he went to his corner, though he had done nothing in the round but take he had done nothing in the round but take punishment.

Round 8—Sullivan came out worried locking. He made a left lungs at Corbett, but Corbett ducked cleverly. Sullivan landed his right on the riss, but Corbett got in several blows on the face and body. Sullivan seemed to be played out or waiting for a chance to land a knock-out blow.

Round 9—Corbett led, but without effect. Sullivan led, but Corbett ducked. Then Sullivan led, but Corbett ducked. Then Sullivan gave him a back-hander on the face and one on the shoulder. Sullivan did not show any want of wind, although Corbett hit him five times. Corbett was away ahead in points, but his blows did not seem to weaken the big fellow, who appeared only tired.

when he came from his corner. Salitvan ur ushed Corbett and Jim ran away, Sullivan did all the moving up, Corbett jumping backward.
Round 14—No blow struck in the round would have breken a pane of glass.
Round 15—Salitvan went in to do Corbett this time, and rushed Jim three times. The Californian's long reach held John at bay, and the big fellow could not break in under guard. On the contrary, Corbett's gleit found Sullivan's face twice. In two more rushes by Sullivan Corbett held him off and plunked John or ribs and stomach.
Round 16—A mutual rush occurred, but both missed their blows. Corbett finally got in several light blows.
Round 17—Sullivan succeeded in getting a light left in Corbett's face. The house had a good deal to laugh at in the men's actions, but nothing to get excited over.
Round 18—Corbett struck the big fellow four times on the face in succession, and the spectators raised a how! Sullivan here got in a blow on Corbett's breast. Then Corbett maked John up amid more howls. The people seemed to be with Corbett.
Round 19—Sullivan hit Corbett on the neck pretty hard, and Corbett countered on the stomach. Sullivan missed a blow meant for the face, and Corbett laughed. Sullivan's face took on a savage smile; he chaesed Corbett around the ring. Corbett again struck Sullivan struck Corbett's breast. Corbett caught Sullivan on both sides of the head close to the ropes. Corbott set in a single blow in return. He was plainly weakening. Corbett was fresh and confident as the sound of the gong, at which time he was smashing Sullivan at a great rate.
