CARGO OF SMALLPOX PRESBYTERIAN CREED

Steamer Kansas Landed Fourteen Cases at Liverpool—Death in Norfolk.

Liverpool, Feb. 6.—The Warren Line steamer Kansas, Capt. Waters, which left Boston, Jan. 21 for this port, arrived here yesterday and landed fourteen cases of smallpox.

Smallpox broke out on board the Kansas shortly after she left Boston. The cases are about equally divided among the cabinmen and the crew. The steamer has been quarantined.

QUARANTINE FOR WINDSOR. Windsor will no longer have to bear the full expense in connection with the case of foreign smallpox patients, the Dominion Government having assured the health board that it will establish a quarantine station in that city.

DEATH IN NORFOLK. Toronto, Feb. 7.—Dr. Bryce has received word of the death of a Mr. Schuyler, who had been suffering for some time from smallpox. The deceased's complaint was at first thought to be measles, in spite of the fact that his son had only recently recovered from smallpox.

HOW THE DISEASE SPREADS. Last April a French-Canadian named Dumas packed up some boots and clothes and left Sudbury when smallpox was epidemic there. His bundle was not disinfected. About the end of December he was at the Big Island lumber camp, on the Lake of the Woods. He opened his old bundle and developed a mild case of smallpox. Another man took the disease and made his way out of the camp 60 miles, to Keewatin, and there the disease spread. Eight cases resulted, all mild, from Dumas, and the clothing he had tied up for nine months.

WELL UNDER CONTROL. Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Dr. Hodges, traveling health inspector for Ontario, visited Rockland, Casselman, Clarence and Cambridge. He finds that these places have smallpox well under control.

In Rockland there are five cases in two houses. The houses are quarantined, and a strict watch kept night and day.
In Casselman there are seven cases, all of which are being carefully watched.
In Clarence township there are fifteen houses infected, all of which are under the strictest quarantine. A large number in this township have been vaccinated.
In Cambridge all had been attended to.

ONE OF THOUSANDS

"I was a martyr to Sick and Nervous Headaches caused by Constipation, until for business on an average 3 days a week. Some pills helped me, but Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills at 10c. a vial cured me. This is my own testimony and it's a fact. Now I never lose an hour or miss a meal."
This is the written testimony of a well known Toronto journalist—you can have his name if you want it. Agnew's are the best pills and 12½¢ cheaper than any other. 40 pills 25c; 100 pills 50c.

Sale of Remnants and Odd Ends.

The closing of the Dress Goods season always leaves a few odd lines and odd ends of Colored Dress Goods, too insignificant to put back into stock. Glad to get them out of the way—therefore on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock we will have a sale of Remnants and Odd Ends from 1½ to 5 yards in length, suitable for girls' school wear and odd skirts. The prices have been marked very low. Be on hand early, as this will positively be your last opportunity this season to buy so good a dress at so small a price. Unless you are here early we cannot promise to suit you.

Clearing Sale of High-Class Blankets.

At the same hour (upstairs) we will place on sale a few special lines of White Wool Blankets. Just a few of each line, and all fresh new goods. These Blankets are rare value even at regular prices; so note the reductions and come early:

5 pairs only White Wool Blankets, blue and pink borders, extra lofty finish, size 64x84. The regular price is $3 75 pair. Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and after, only, $2 95.
5 pairs only White Wool Blankets, blue and pink borders, heavy twilled finish, size 68x86, weight 8 pounds. The regular price is $4 25 pair. Our sale price only, $3 15.
5 pairs only High-Grade Pure Wool Blankets, blue borders, silk bound ends, special size (72x90). The regular price is $4 50 pair. Wonderful value at this special sale, only, $3 65.
3 pairs only Extra Heavy, All-Wool Blankets, blue and pink borders, extra lofty finish, size 64x84. Regular price is $5 00 pair. Our sale price, only, $3 95.
By adding up the lot you will see there are but eighteen pairs. Come early.

Regular 20c French Cambrics at 12½c Yard.

A special line of French Cambrics to be cleared at once; 32 inches wide, in patterns of stripes and polka dots; a nice material for either skirts or shirt waists, absolutely fast colors. The regular price is 20c yard. Clearing at 12½c.

In same department we will also clear a line of regular 25c yard Figured Dress Foulards, in fancy floral patterns, and grounds of black, navy, sky, helio, Nile and pink. Special price 18c.

65c Plain Taffeta Silks, Clearing at 50c Yard.

Not many of them—in fact very few judging by the demand there should be. Eleven shades of gray, pink, castor, cardinal, navy, turquoise, and old blue. This is a great chance to secure Pure Silk linings for spring and summer seasons. While they last, only 50c.

1 piece only of White Mirette for linings and underskirts; makes up like watered silk. The regular price is 40c yard. This last piece will go at only, per yard 25c.

SMALLMAN & INGRAM,

149, 151 and 153 DUNDAS STREET.

through his solicitors, will institute proceedings against certain of the witnesses. A private prosecution of Mr. McGivern is spoken of, and it looks as if considerable litigation might result from the affair.

CHASED WHOLE BOER COMMAND

Queer Effect of Rarefied Air on British Officers.

Divisional General Seized With Loping Madness Attributed to Same Cause.

It was in one of Jules Verne's stories that two men set out to climb a mountain. As they went higher and higher up the air grew more rarefied, and proved such irritability that they fell into an angry quarrel. They challenged each other to immediate duel, and turned to go down the mountain side for their weapons. But as they descended into the lower strata of air their normal condition was restored, and when they got to the foot of the mountain they were fast friends again.

A man who went from England to the Boer war thinks that British generals and others in going from the moist air of the Thames into the rarefied air of the South African veldt, five or six thousand feet above the sea, and a thousand miles away from it, may have passed through some such mental transformation as the mountain climbers.

An instance of what is meant was furnished by two colonels of infantry who rode out of Bloemfontein one day with a couple of junior officers and an orderly, to shoot buck. They rode a dozen miles north and then to and fro among the kopjes, but found poor sport.

It was at a time when the Boers were watching for the next British advance.

Some such mental disturbances provoked by breathing this air may be put forward, perhaps, to explain the proceedings of the three officers of the intelligence department who were sent out from the war office in London before the negotiations between the British and Transvaal Governments were broken off. They were to report what force would be needed if it came to war.

How had the Boers escaped this frightfulness? Perhaps by constantly living in their brilliant air and knowing no other, they have learned just what can be safely done in it. There is something in their economy of speech—they have probably the smallest vocabulary of any white race—in their entire indifference to all questions of speculative philosophy which may save their brains from certain risks.

Then there is the soft voice of the bearded burghers that contrasts so strangely with their bighoned figures, and the elimination of all violent exertion—for even their seat on horseback is as easy as a rocking chair—that may mean some reacting lesson learned from the air around them. Their eyes see into it farther than good field glasses have enabled most men of other races to see.—New York Sun.
