RELIEVES ASTHMA AT ONCE. If you could read the thousands of unsolicited letters received by the makers from grateful users you, too, would realize the merkable curing powers of Dr. Kellog's Asthma Remedy. All cases, incipient and chronic, are benefited by this great family remedy and many of them are cured. Why suffer or experiment with worthless preparations when the genuine Keilog's can be purchased everywhere.

An American patent has been granted the Swedish inventor of a chair which can be folded into many different positions or converted into a table.

Metal plates to be clamped to the guard of an electric fan have been invented which scatters its breezes as well as would be done by an oscillating fan.

With a view to eventually meeting the national demand for wool, the Japanese government will establish three sheep farms early in the new year. REQUISITE ON THE FARM.--Every farmer and stock raiser should keep a farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surprasses anything that can be administered. m

Fall Model Embraces Several Unusual Features.

Velveteen One of the Leading Fabrics for Wraps as Well as for Dresses and Suits.

Fashion authorities say capes will be very much favored during the fall and winter seasons of 1918-19. But some style changes must be effected. One of the newest models for fall, made up as originally designed in a terra cotta colored velveteen, lined throughout with pale gray satin, is shown in the sketch. There are several unusual feature; in this cape, one of the most pronounced being its deep, long sleeves, while another equally striking point of difference is the back of the garment. The sleeves and the front alone justify this garment in qualifying as a cape. back is decidedly a "coatee," reaching just to the waist, where it is held in by the folded belt or sash girdle which goes around the figure and ties in front, holding the front sections in place.

Velveteen is one of the leading fabrics for fall, and it is to be used not only in the development of wraps of all kinds, but as a dress and suit fabric as well. There is as yet no noticeable shortage of velvets and velveteens, and they are being pressed into service in large quantities to replace the staple and novel wool weaves that are scarce owing to the government's requirements and to the fact that foreign markets are offering little, if any, fabrics whatever. For present wear the graceful cape here shown would be charming developed in satin, with lining either of satin in a contrasting shade, or with chiffon or georgette used as the lining material.

The scarf collar used on this wrap is the most approved neck finish for many fall and winter suits as well as wraps, and it may be worn open or closed according to choice.

Both silk and wool jersey cloth are popular cape fabrics, and capes are fashioned of these materials as accompaniments of some of the season's smartest bathing suits. or rubberized cape featured very strongly last season was not found very satisfactory, and wraps of the knitted weave materials are much preferred this year. These loose wraps are more practical than sweaters or sweater coats, formerly so much worn on the beaches to protect necks and arms of bathers.

Paper Parasols. One way to conserve fabrics is to carry paper parasols. The fact is at fashionable seashore resorts there is quite a vogue for attractive Japanese paper parasols, and as they are very much less expensive than silk para sols, the young girl who takes up this fad can secure a parasol to go with almost every frock in her wardrobe. They are made with wooden handles and short stubb ferrules, such as one finds in many of the fabric parasols. By means of a ribbon or silk cord attached to the handle such a parasol can be dangled over the wrist when not in use.

SIGNS OF COMING REVOLT

German Women Are Growing Tired

of Slaughter. Philip Gibbs, the noted war correspondent, believes that he see signs of a coming revolt among the Teutons. He has noted a number of facts which appear to him very significant. They are significant because nificant. They are significant because they give direct and convincing evidence of the assertion of an element of independence of character among the German people which has been subdued too long, Mr. Gibbs, after relating how a waggon load of mail matter came into possession of the British recently, says the letters thus taken "reveal an agony and the spirited revolt of a people who now understand something of the truth, and see nothing but death in all this

"Oh, how much longer is it all go-"Oh, how much longer is it all going to last," writes one correspondent to a relative with the German army. "It is full time the wicked humbug of it were at an end. In the last few days we had news of the death of five relatives in the big offensive. It is frightful, and still-no sign of peace. The world is full of sorrow and misery. If only this wicked war would end, this murder cease. Oh, what a cost, and how much more Oh, what a cost, and how much more to pay before the end!"
"Peace does not seem to be com-writes another. "All this in the west is too wicked for anything, and we are full of worry and anxiety. The whole crowd out hereabouts have whole crowd out hereabouts have had news of the death of their menfolk. It is too awful for anything. Four years of it now and no sign of the end. We hope every day it will come to a decision and that the British will be delivered into the recommendation. ish will be driven into the sea; but they stand firm."

The Allies stand firm. There is the shattering of all the German hopes. There is the portent that a day of reckoning must come between the public at home and the all-high authority of the military party, which has not scrupled at any methods of pressure to sway to its will the minds of the German people. Meanwhile, behind the external act of the written letters revealed by Philip Gibbs lies the internal thought revoit? The day of reckoning may not be yet. Its ultimate fulfilment will tax the combined strength of the allied forces. But, without under-rating Germany's strength, it is possible to gather some hope from possible to gather some hope from the expressed agony of the mothers and sisters of the slaughtered Ger-mans that through the mists of their tears they are beginning to see the truth, and that seeing it, may lead them to the source of the power that has wrought all this horror, and to the accomplishment of its downfall. If there is to be the revolt in Germany that has been predicted, who shall say that it will not be led by the women? the accomplishment of its downfall.

Forest Standard:—Messrs. S. R. Rawlings and Ellis Dotzerts had a narrow escape from serious injury on Wednesday morning. They were coming over the main street crossing from the south in the former's auto, when they were struck by the 10.15 express. Fortunately it was the rear end of the car that was hit and as they were sitting in the front seat, they escaped injury. The auto was thrown over on its side and was badly damaged. Owing to a freight train bely damaged. Owing to a freight train being on the siding at the time. Mr. Rawlings thought that was why the electric bell was ringing, and as the track was slippery it was impossible to stop the car. It was a narrow escape and demon-strates very clearly that a watchman should be employed there by the G. T. R.

"Such relief I felt when I applied Zam-Buk to a badly scalded hand!" writes Mrs. A. Riseley, of 116 Timothy St., Montreal.

"I was standing near the stove when the kettle belied over on my hand. I applied some eintment which I had in the house, but it did not ease the burning. The skin peeled off and the pain was so bad that I got no sleep for two nights.

"Then I commenced using Zam-Buk, and the first application gave me wonderful relief. It seemed to cool the burning so that I was able cool the burning so that I was able to sleep, and from then the scald began to heal. Zam-Buk grew new skin over the sore place and before long my hand was quite allright

Zam-Buk should always be kept in the house for cuts, burns and knocks, and for eczema, ringworm, boils, pimples, blood poisoning, ulcers and piles it cannot be equalled. All dealers or Zam-Buk

THERE'S A WARNING

IN TRADE FIGURES

Our Unstable Financial Position Indicated-Thrift Will Make Canada Secure.

For those who understand Canadas inancial conditions there is a significant lesson in the trade figures racently issued from Ottawa.

For the first five months of the present nscal year there was a decrease in Canada's foreign trade of $270,000,000, or about 20 per cent. There was a great falling off alike in manufactures and agricultural products exported. The trade $865.000,000, compared with $1,-146,000,000 a year ago.

These figures tell in potent terms of the instability of present conditions. Our trade, though still large and healthy, is on an insecute and unenduring foundation. War conditions have created a fictitious prosperity. There may be no reason for alarm but there is a reason for caution. The Government must watch and prepare, so should the individual. Few Canadians but are affected in some way by the present conditions. The wise ones will prepare by practising thrift now.

The Nation can be no stronger than its individual citizens.
