that eider is made from apples, but com paratively few know that when properly treated the product is truly a wine, pos-sessing all the valuable medicinal quali-ties of the best product of the grape. It is, in fact, the most common fruit of the country, and the cheapest for production country, and the cheapest for production of wine, furnishing a wholesome bever-age possessing stimulating, tonic and al-terative properties of the best and highest quality, and free from the destructive effect of distilled spirits, because it is nature's own way of effecting the change, the standard of the first and contains hoore of the fruit acids and other flavoring ingericients and nutritions elements of the fruit, with less alcohol in a less objectionable form, and which a less objectionable form, and which human system for good instead of wil.

modify and influence its effects on the human system for good instead of evil. The changes which take place in the juice are mostly chemical, converting existing substances in new compounds, which process is called fermentation, and the successful management or direction of those changes, as to when they shall legin and how they shall proceed and when they case, so as to make new com-pounds either more valuable or perman-ent, constitutes the will of the operator.

pounds either more valuable or perman-cut, constitutes the will of the operator. This process will go on whether it is understood or not, and this is the reason why so little attention and skilful invest-igation has been given to it; but it can be better managed by one who has an in-telligent comprehension of it, and such a one is not any more governed. one is not only more competent, but more apt to make new discoveries and improve ments in economizing time and labor, than one who is ignorant of the laws which govern the changes he desires.— American Carbonator.

Amaman Green, the oldest resident of Boone County, Mo., died a few days ago at Raton, N.M., where he was visiting a son. He was $44 years old, had used tobacco and whiskey for eightly years, and was a veteran of the Mexican War, the Blackhawk War, and the Confederate service.

Mr. P. D. Gallagher, Dominion Cotton Mills, Brantford, Ont., writes under date of Sept. 25th, 1893: "My ankles were much swollen with rheuma-tism, and looked ready to burst; in fact my stockings were removed with difficulty. my stockings were removed with united by, and I suffered much pain. St. Jacobs Oil was applied which eased the pain at once, and the use of one bottle performed a permanent cure.

H. A. Weinman, formerly proprietor of the Maple Leaf hotel, Hamilton, has sued Brewer John Gompf for $1,000 damages for slander. The plaintiff got into business difficulties some time ago and Gompf seized his stock. Weidman took action against him, and recovered several hundred dollars from him. Since that the plaintiff alleges that Gompf has maliciously pursued him, and by his influence has had him discharged from influence has had him discharged from places where he was employed as bar-tender—notably the Maple Leaf hotel, which is now kept by Win. Proper. The defendant denies the accusation, and Proper says that Weidman was never regularly employed there as bar-tender, but was employed occasionally as an osciption on goods does. assistant on market days.
