

Points for Advertisers.

1. Advertise in those journals whose contents are of sufficient interest to be read and of sufficient value to be preserved.

2. Give the preference to the papers which are neatly printed and in which the ads. are artistically displayed.

3. Shun the journals which offer advertising at too low a rate. In all such cases the circulation is misrepresented.

4. No experienced advertiser will ignore position. Space on the cover or next to reading matter should be secured if possible.
