A GREAT NOVEL

JUDITH MOORE

BY JOANNA E. WOOD

Ready March 1st.

JOANNA E. WOOD, whose home is at Queenston Heights, in the Province of Ontario, has been fortunate in having two of her novels published in New York, and has been unfortunate in never having had one published in Canada. She has written another book, which she describes as "A Canadian Novel, written by a Canadian, and published only in Canada." Those who have read her "Untempered Wind," will watch eagerly for "Judith Moore," in which the talented authoress tells the romance of a great singer and a young, but wealthy, Canadian farmer. The descriptions of Canadian life are wonderfully clever.
