

L.L.M. 110-1997

11 M. Page 211
The Minister of Foreign Affairs of Canada, the Honourable Lloyd Axworthy, presented the report of the Commission on International Law, entitled "International Law and the Environment" on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea.

11 M. Page 211
The Commission on International Law, established in 1992, has examined the relationship between Canada and the international community on the basis of the defense of international law, verifying the commitment to peace.

11 M. Page 211
The Commission on International Law, established in 1992, has examined the relationship between Canada and the international community on the basis of the defense of international law,
verifying the commitment to peace.

1. [Action plan of justice and the judicial system]
2. [Exchange between the House of Commons and the National Assembly]
3. [Exchange of experiences on Cuban films to strengthen the Citizens
League Commission]
4. [Increasing cooperation on human rights]
5. [Supporting the activities of non-governmental organizations]
6. [Continued macroeconomic cooperation]
7. [Initiating a Foreign Investment Protection and Promotion Agreement]
8. [Collaboration on various initiatives]
9. [Setting up conversations on international terrorism and its prevention]
10. [Negotiating a MOU on public health]
11. [Negotiating an auto-trade co-production agreement]
12. [Initiating a sports cooperation accord]
13. [Initiating joint development projects in developing countries]
14. [Providing food aid as a response to Hurricane Lili]

11 M. Page 212
[Summary]
Ministers Axworthy and Robins pledged to continue to work in the future on bilateral cooperation on a broad range of economic and social issues]

1997
January 25, 1997

Approved for release by the Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade on January 25, 1997.
The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) is a member of the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) and is a member of the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) and is a member of the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID).