King Edward Hotel last evening, the minister said:

"We learned some time ago that the imperial government was purchasing supplies in the United States, and we at once notified the war office that all, or nearly all, these supplies could be purchased to advantage in Canada. The war office at once saw the propriety of throwing all the business they could our way, and almost immediately some very large orders were received. For example, they ordered $00,000 pairs of blankets, but we were only able to furnish 500,000. Then, thru the war office, we received orders for harness, saddles and saddlery hardware from the allies, amounting to ware from the allies, amounting to at least $4,000,000. The war office also at least $4,000,000. The war office also sent over F. W. Stopart, well-known in Canada, who was for years in business in Winnipeg. He brought with aim orders for supplies amounting to several million doilars, and is receiving additional commissions daily. He has ordered a million shirts, a million sweeters and many other supplies.

Buying Hay in Quantities.

"How about the farmer?" Mr. Rogers was asked. "We are taking good care of the far-mer," he said. "Just now we are buy-ing great quantities of hay, paying $18 per ton f.o.b. Montreal. We have also purchased two million bushels of oats, and these oats have been purchased from the grain growers direct without any profit to the middlemen. I am going to Fort William to superintend the bagging and shipping of these oats to England. The business in rather out of the ordinary, because grain usually goes in bulk. Our directions are to have the grain bagged; to get it bagged according to specifications, to find boats to carry it from Fort William to tidewater and the ne-

Tying up Canadian Banking Reform With the French Revolution!

We hope our readers will pardon our dipping into ancient history, but it seems necessary to expose a cunning effort being made by the banks, thru their newspapers, to hoodwink the Canadian people and prevent their improving or even examining into their present inadequate and antiquated system of banking and currency. Hardly a day passes but some journalistic friend or poor relation of the chartered banks publishes a long editorial review of what purports to be a great work recently produced by A. D. White on "Flat Money in France." Mr. White is heralded as a great American statesman, president of Cornell University, who is giving to the world some valuable lessons in finance. As a matter of fact, Mr. White never posed as an authority on finance, but he was a faithful follower of the Republican party and a pretty steady office holder while that party was in power. His "Flat Money in France" was a political pamphlet issued a generation or more ago and iong since consigned to oblivion. But now it is exhumed, published in Canada and circulated as a campaign document against a national currency, a national bank of rediscount, and in favor of the banks retaining their present monopoly. The Montreal Gazette extols it.

The book deals with the irredeemable paper money issued in France during the revolution. France was bankrupt, all the civilized world was in arms against her, and her government at that time is known in history as "The Reign of Terror." Having neither money nor credit, the revolutionary junta printed forty billions of francs in paper currency which proved to be worthless. The book also contains some reference to John Law, a Scottish adventurer, who started a bank in Paris in the early part of the 18th century. He engineered the "Mississippi Bubble" specusome reference to John Law, a Scottish adventurer, who started a bank in Paris in the early part of the 18th century. He engineered the "Mississippi Bubble" speculation, which ruined a great many people, altho the government of that day came to his assistance by making his bank virtually a government bank of issue. Law was only in Paris four years, all told, and the "Mississippi Bubble" differed not a great deal from the English "South Sea Bubble" and other speculative manias which at one time or another have impoverished the people. All Mr. White set out to prove was that a national currency should be issued in good faith and with business caution. That is, the government should limit its volume and keep on hand sufficient gold for ordinary purposes of redemption. hand sufficient gold for ordinary purposes of redempti

Now we have no quarrel with all this. We hold no brief for the memory of John Law, and we certainly have never advocated "flat money." Yet The Montreal Financial Times falls into a frenzy of rapture over the White pamphlet and believes that it has disposed of all persons bold enough to suggest that a bank monopoly of the country's currency is not the last word in modern finance. The Financial Times brackets W. F. Maclean with Robespierre and Danton, and by implication at least, the good people of Canada are asked to believe that an issue of national currency would immediately be followed by convulsions similar to those which rocked France in the days of her great revolution. But we have not seen any guillotines erected in London since Lloyd George began to issue a national currency, nor do the people of the United States feel any apprehension from having two or three billion dollars of paper money in circulation. That France, swept by a revolution and threatened with invasion from every corner, was unable to turn waste paper into forty billions of money, does not prove that a rich country like Canada could not maintain at issue of five hundred million dollars of national currency based upon the wealth and credit of the country and supported by a gold reserve adequate for all ordinary purposes of redemption.

The effort, of course, is to mislead, to make the people believe that Mr. Maclean favors an unlimited issue of irredeemable currency. The blood-curdling details of the French Revolution are thrown in for good measure. The Montreal Gazette, as in duty bound, has a column and a half editorial iaudation of Mr. White's brochure which has been so suddenly and mysteriously exhumed for the edification of the Canadian people. It regards the republication of this work in Canada at this time as opportune because:

Canadian people. It regards the republication of this work in Canada at this time as opportune because:

In the United States there is some call for issues of government circulating notes, based on stocks of raw cotton deposited in warehouse, and in Canada voices have been raised in favor of a national note currency, to replace permanently that which the banks now have authority to put out. But The Gazette would have us believe, without saying so, that a national bank of rediscount is doomed to failure because two hundred years ago a brilliant but penniless adventurer, in conjunction with the dissolute Prince Regent of France, managed to wreck a bank of this character and impoverish a great number of people, thru wildcat speculations based upon the fabulous wealth of the then practically unexplored and unknown valley of the Mississippi. The Gazette, however, has nothing to say about the Bank of France, the Bank of Germany, and, for that matter, the Bank of England, which altho not strictly speaking a government bank, is a great national bank of issue and discount. It does not even condemn the Federal Reserve Act being put into operation in the United States, altho it is based entirely upon the idea of government banks of rediscount aided by an issue of national currency.

Would it not be better for the banks and their newspapers to defend their position honestly? Can they not find some man in Canada who understands the financial question and is prepared to discuss it? Calling everybody who favors banking and currency reform a socialist or a Robespierre will not carry them very far. Denouncing John Law as a reckless speculator and inveighing against an unlimited issue of irredeemable paper currency, does not arrive at the point which just now is engrossing the attention of a great many people in this country. They Prominent Red Cross Worker are quite free to say what they please about the 'Mississippi Bubble,' or the flat money of the French Revolution, but why not defend their claim that issuing money is a bank monopoly instead of a sovereign power of the state? Why not demonstrate, if it can be demonstrated, that scarce money and tight credit are desirable?

Canadian Press Despatch.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland, who recently went to the war zone as head of the Red Cross Hospital, and Major Percy Desmond Fitzgerald of the 11th Hussars, were quietly married last week at Roehampton. The duchess has returned to her Red, Cross work in France.

The Duchess of Sutherland is the fourth daughter of the Earl of Rosslyn. She was married in 1884 to the Duke of Sutherland, who died in 1912, She is deeply interested in social operations.

The Edmonton Capital is not worrying its head about John Law or Robespierre, but it is concerned with the fact that the Canadian banking system has utterly broken down so far as stimulating production is concerned. It quotes The Financial characteristic for a saying that the banks have four hundred million dollars tied up in Wall street. Thus it would appear that about one hundred million dollars tied up in Wall street. Thus it would appear that about one-haif the banking power of the country was dissipated in carrying stock speculations, with the result that there is no money to help the producers to expand their business. The Capital evidently thinks that the government bank of rediscount is urgently needed. After reviewing the stock market situation and the way in which Canadian banking capital has been entangled to the deeply interested in social organized, cannot possibly extend to the western farmer the accommodation that he needs if he is to go in for mixed farming and raise poultry, cattle and horses, and we read: and we read:

Manifestly, what is wanted is a new deal. Something in the nature of a rediscounting system under federal auspices, by which prime farmers' paper could be taken to a federal reserve board and hypothecated against a rediscount of anywhere from 75 to 90 per cent., might achieve the desired result provided it were undertaken upon a sufficiently comprehensive scale. Such a system, however, would require to be safeguarded—thru the intermediary of some interest sufficiently closely in touch with the farmers of each locality to be intimately acquainted with the moral risk of each. Otherwise it would inevitably become loaded up with the bad paper of slovenly and unsuccessful farmers. Furthermore, such a system would require the shifting of the franchise to issue notes from the banks back to the government. Otherwise the chartered banks would retire the federal notes as rapidly as they were given circulation thru the discounting house in order to substitute their own. just as they are now retiring gold from circulation and shipping United States

The effect of such an action upon the part of the banks would be that the government would very quickly be carrying all the capital, instead of the public carrying several millions of it in the form of federal notes in circulation in the ordinary process of business.

With such an arrangement, the chartered banks could go right ahead doing their regular business in the same way they are today, except for the circumstance that they would be without the franchise to issue notes. Certainly the government would be invading no territory of theirs when it undertook to arrange for accommodation to the agricultural business.

Such an arrangement would, however, invade a franchise—the note-issuing franchise—which some very powerful interests in Canada regard very jealously, and, for this reason, and for the reason that most of our public men are friendly to, if not actually committed to, these interests, the legislation necessary to bring it about is not likely to be secured except as a concession to a most vigorous demand from the people of Western Canada.

The signs portend that this demand will surely come.
