Figure on These Furs

If you wait till the world markets, Petrograd and Leipzig, resume normal activity, you may pay one-half more. That would be costly procrastination.

If you do without till you catch cold, that would be poor economy.

If you buy where inferior grades are sold instead of selected skins, that would be inexcusable folly. If you value quality, style and economy, with the security of Simpson Guarantee, come on Monday.

Monday--What Will You Make of it?

What are you going to do on the opening day of this very important shopping week? Will it pay you to put off buying ANYTHING, in the face of such values? Truly anyone may well count Monday lost who fails to take advantage of these prices. Here's the antidote for procrastination--treat Monday as if it were your last shopping day before Christmas. Certainly the choosing will never be better with such prices prevailing. Many a good manager will solve all her Christmas problems from this very page. See if you can do it!
