It would, perhaps, have been natural to

It would, perlaps, have been natural to anticipate that one of the essentials in Slatespeare's great tragedy, according to the modern understanding of the play, would be found lacking when the part of Lady Macbeth is portrayed by a man. We allude to the love interest that is the one element of tenderness in the dislogue between Macbeth and his lady overladen though it be with the breath of superstition and crime. The imporsantion of Lady Macbeth by Mr. Slaw, Master of Elecution in the Conservatory of Music, wan, however, so wonderful, so nearly perfect, as not to be deficient in this cloment. Mr. Shaw's make up was so clover, and his playing so full of grace and power that from the first he was the contral and most interesting figure in a cast remarkable for its general excellence. There was a mingling of power and grace in all his gostures and the reading of his lines was described by a capable critic as being scholastic and clear. Ho was warmly applauded in the seene which introduces Lady Macbeth, and in the banquet and the schop-walking scenes the admiration of the audience was a compliment of which a prefessional player might well feel proud. Mr. Shaw's saccess was alluded to by the Governor-General before he lot the hall. Lord Abordeen paid a neat and a sincere compliment when he said that a definite judgment of the dramatability shown in the impersonation of Indy Macbeth might be formed from the observation of that portion of the pay which il hie Excellency had bat the opportunity of witnessing.

Although the commander the formed from the observation of that portion of the pay which il hie commander the performers was admirable proportions evidently sided his study of the one of the dramatability shown in the impersonation of the clear study of the difficult citates which Shakespeare attributes to Macbeth, and he ropresented it with romarkable power from first to last-flushed the commander of the clear study of the difficult citates which Shakespeare attributes to Macbeth, and he represented by Mr. C'Roly

The Ladies' Societies of the Cathedral Parish.

The Ladles' Nociciles of the Cathedral Parish.

The officers of the Ladles' So totos connected with St. Michael's Cathedral met last week to give in their annual reports and held their elections for the conning year. As three of their societies, the Altar Society, the Ladies' Aid Society and the Society for Ladles' Aid Society and the Sociality Sowing Nociety have many works in commune they found it convenier to assonable in one general meeting at St. Michael's Palace. The Altar Society was first to report. This Society forms part of the Ladles' Branch of the League of the Sacred Heart and its special work is to attend to the Altar and whatever apportains to the splender of public worship in the Cathedral. The report for 1998 showed total receipts 505,55 with an expenditure of $302,19, leaving a balance of $102,56. Besides the ordinary supplies for the Altar, the principal items of expense were a complete recovered of the presses for vestments in the Society and the beautiful statute of our Lady of Phy for the Cathedral. The Manchester Fire Assurance Co.

We beg to call attention to the amunal report of The Mauclester Fire Assurance Coupany, which we print in another column of this day's issue of The Redster. The head offices of the Company are located in Mauclester, England. It has branches in different parts of the world; and that in Toronto is managed by Mr. James Boomer—and managed well. Reviewing the business of the year the lusurance News says:

"At the close of 1894, with a premium."

an amangent by sir. James Hoomer—and managed well. Roviewing the business of the year the Insurance News says:

"At the close of 1894, with a premium income of £757,478, there were funds in hand of £430,951 equal to 63 37 per cent; a year later against a premium income of £738,891, there were funds to the amount of £490,187, or 67-10 per cent. There is far more in this than mets the eye. The apparent increase in the funds is some £18,000, but this difference of nearly 4 per cent. In the rath of reserve to income, means that the company is about £22,000 richer than it was welve most before. The same of £10,000 per annum is the only dreft regard to its financial arrangements. The sum of £10,000 per annum is the only dreft which the dividend makes on the profits, the premium ingome, it is well to remember, being nearly three quarters of a million aterities. With ordinary prospective therefore the funds cannot fall to increase at a rapid rate. Whether the money be distributed in dividends, or—in our opinion, the far wiser course—be left to fractify under the company's control, the result in etitler case must be a steady appreciation in the value of the shares."

The Agency of the "Manchester" in Toronto has, under Mr. Boomer's management, been productive of frastifying results—and naturally so, because of the profitable investments offered by this old and wealthy Company.

SUNDAY LECTURES.

Father Ryan on Papat Infallibility.

On Sanday examing fast Father Ryan resumed his course of lectures on the Pope. He said the Winter course had been manyoldably interrupted by the special sermons which the Church prescribed during the Lonton season. He would now continue and conclude the subject he had been treating bring the Winter in online the Supremacy and Infallibility of the Pope.

The subject is useceedingly important, and is duly increasing in interest. In

The sub of the exceedingly important, and is aday increasing an intorest. In the present world wide controversy on Christian raity, the position and power of the Pop becomes the central question of the Pop becomes the central question of Father Ityan's lectures was pleased to make the candid admission:

"If it can be proved that the Pope has received authority over the Church, not, jure calculation, but jure divine, as its supreme head and advicement of the control o

means that the Jostros the trath defined was revealed from the beginning that it has alway been preserved in the deposit of faith, but that now it is explicitly declared and that henceforth it next be held under pan of anothernate that he proposed in the fishings as-ombied in our become a second of faith but that henceforth it next be held under pan of anothernate that he proposed in the fishings are observed and here we may notice in passing the strange, moner-then, of Professional Theorem we may notice in passing the strange moner-then, of Professional Theorem we may notice in passing the strange moner-then, of Professional Theorem we may notice in passing the strange moner-then, of Professional Theorem we may notice in passing the strange moner-then, of Professional Theorem we may notice in passing the strange moner-than the passing the control of the strange moner-than the passing the control of the passing the strange moneration to the passing the control of the passing the strange moneration to the passing the control of the passing th ance that he cannot teach what is not true.

The Vatican Council puts the matter clearly. It says issess, i, ch. i: The Roman Pontiff, when he speaks excathedra, that is to say, when in the exercise of his effice as pastor and teacher of all Christians, he, in virtue of his supreme apostolic authority, defines that a doctrine of fath or morals is to be held by the whole Church, by the assistance of icid promised to him in the person of blessed Poter, has that infallibility with which it was the wril of our Divine Redeemer that His Church should be endowed, and that, therefore, these definitions of the Roman Pontiff should speak excathedra, that is, from the chair, the Church, are "reformable." That the Roman Pontiff should speak excathedra, that is, from the chair, the Chair of Peter, the chair of eternal truth and draine authority, four conditions are useessary and sufficient. (1). He must speak as Pope, as Vicar of Christ and the written and initalithity or what the Pope may define.

Whet these four conditions obtain in any Papal utterauce, then all Catholics understand that such is an infallible procuncument, demanding unhesitating and universal Catholic belief. A concrete example of an ex cathedra definition, in which all the conditions are oridonly fulfilled, will bely to make the matter clear. The Bulla Dogmatics of Pins IX. on the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary was undoubtedly an infallible definition. Here are the vordis: "By anthority of our Lord Jeaus Christ and of the blessed Apostics, Feter and Paul, and Our own. We declare, pronounce and define that the doctrue which holds that the Blessed Virgin Mary in the first instant of her conception was, by a singular privilege of Almighty God, through the monits of Jeaus Christ, the Redemen of the conception was, by a singular privilege of Almighty God, through the monits of Jeaus Christ, the Redemen of the conception was, by a singular privilege of Almighty God, through the monits of Jeaus Christ, the Redemen of the conception was, by a singular privilege of Almighty God, through the monits of Jeaus Christ, the Redemen of the conception was, by a singular privilege of Almighty God, through the monits of Jeaus Christ, the Redemen of the Church and its therefore, to be fruity and constantly believed by all the faithful. Before pronouncing an infallibility from the Church, nucle less from his wisdem or prudence. With regard to this matter of infallibility theologians distinguish the Church teaching and the Church taught.

The Church teaching is the Pope and the Bishops is the Church taught the priests and the popple. It is the Bishops are to ricouncil. When consulted apart the Bishops act and snawer as witnesses of doctrine, when consulted in council they act as judges. Bishops are of divine institution. While all were worthy, there could be but one winner. To the winner, therefore, we give congratulation, and to all praise for the friendly and succonstituents, therefore, the precise for the friendly and succonstituents, the praise for the friendly and succonstituents.

Forty Hours at Lourdes,

The devotion of the Forty Hours was opened last Sunday in the church of Our Lady of Lourdes. The altar was beautifully and tastefully decorated with lites and evergreeous. Rov. Father Walsh celebrated High Mass, Coram Pontifice, with Hev. Dr. Treacy, descon, and Rev. Wm. McCanu, snb-deacon, His Graco, the Archibishop, who assisted in the Sanctuary, addressed the people after Mass. He spoke of the life of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament of the altar. While on carth He went around doing good; He gave sight to the blind, vigor to the patisod and life to the doad, and these mercies he repeats lay by day in the beautiful devotion of the Forty Hours as he lies hidden under the Eucharistic God in their midst. They should put off the old man with all his works and put on the new man who is rison with Ubrist from the dead. Father Ryan presched on Sunday evening to a large-congregation, Rev. Dr. Treacy preached on Monday evening and Father Teely on Tuesday evening and Father Teely on Tuesday evening to all the evenings of the Church on all the evenings of the devotion.

Dr. Treasy presched on Monday evening and Father Teely on Tuesday evening. The congregations crowded the Church on all the evenings of the devotion.

The devotion will be held next Sunday at the Junction,
