ITALIANS RETIRE FROM DALMATIA

The republicans has just returned from Fiume and is said to be enthusiastic in support of D'Annunzio's cause. The Catholic popular party also is pro-D'Annunzio. It appears, while the nationalists are known as the strongest adherents of the poet-warrior.

At the recent meeting of the convention here a motion of censure of the government was adopted, declaring for the annexation of Fiume, but declining to approve of D'Annunzio in seizing it.

The other parties in some cases are criticizing the poet's expedition, but on the whole are said to favor the annexation of territories where Italians predominate.

Reviewing the situation, The Popolo Romano says: "The only possible way to save Italy from anarchy is to give way to public opinion, which, however it may differ as to methods, is largely favorable to a policy of granting Italy what are considered her inalienable rights."

Cabinet ministers do not conceal the enormous gravity of the situation and the serious difficulty, not to say the impossibility, of finding a satisfactory solution to the Fiume problem. They do not want to use force against Capt. D'Annunzio, wishing to avoid fratricidal conflict, and it is said that this hesitation may be partially due to the fact that troops ordered against the poet's forces might refuse to obey orders.

Washington's Attitude
Washington, Sept. 25.—The house foreign affairs committee today tabled a resolution by Representative Husted, Republican of New York, proposing that the house go on record as disapproving of the use of American military or naval forces at Fiume.

Paris, Sept. 25.—A Jugo-Slav communique received here says that Gabriele D'Annunzio's troops have arrested numerous Jugo-Slavs in Fiume and have pillaged a Jugo-Slav printing shop there. Thousands of refugees are arriving in Zagreb (Agram), and the Croats are threatening to intervene and protect the interests of the Jugo-Slavs.

Apparently in emulation of Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, whose dramatic seizure of Fiume centered the attention of the world on the eastern littoral of the Adriatic, Italian leaders are reported to be advancing on Spalato, Sebenico and Trau, important towns along the coast which have been under the control of Jugo-Slav forces. Peace conference circles are plainly concerned over the situation, which seems to have become quite grave.

Wilson's Suggestion
Paris, Sept. 25.—President Wilson has made some reply to the proposal of neutralizing Fiume and the nationalization of the docks and railways. The nature of the reply is not disclosed, and the American peace delegates refuse to discuss it.

In Italian circles, however, it is reported that President Wilson has rejected the proposition.

PASSPORT DIFFICULTY
British Citizens Desiring to Visit Mexico Now Unable to Get Documents Vised.
Washington, Sept. 25.—British citizens desiring to visit Mexico for the first time cannot get their passports vised under instructions, which Ambassador Bonillas said today sent to Mexican consuls. British subjects resident in Mexico or who have interests there were not affected, he said.

The ambassador did not know why his government had taken this step, but pointed out that the British government had refused to issue passports for Mexicans desiring to go to Europe when they had to pass through England. Heretofore the entry of British subjects into Mexico has been permitted providing they signed an agreement absolving the Mexican government from liability for any "accident" they might sustain.

PROPHCY ON DEAD MAN.
"Those who say or read this prayer never die a sudden death, whether by drowning or by poison, nor will they be overcome by their enemies." The statement, accompanying a copy of a prayer which was said to have been sent by the Pope to Emperor Charles, for his safety as he was going into battle, was found on the body of a dead man whose body was recovered from a British dock.

LABOR NEWS

BAKERS DETERMINED

Tom Watt Says They Will Hold Momentous Session on Saturday.
A specially convened session of journeymen bakers will be held at Occident Hall on Saturday afternoon, the most momentous ever held by the craft in the Dominion. Tom Watt, general organizer for the Canadian Federation of Labor, says "this will be a meeting at which every journeyman baker will take action and the outcome of a bitter struggle of many years' standing. We intend to fight to a finish. If the bakers fall I am thru with them, and I am certain the majority of the members of the organization agree with my sentiments in the matter."

The Canada Bread Company, the George Lawrence Bread Company and one or two others are said to be carrying on the fight with as much bitterness and determination as the unions, and the fight is understood to extend its ramifications to various points in the province.

COAL STRIKE UNLIKELY

President A. T. Marsh of the Longshoremen's Union, and Tom Watt, general organizer for the Canadian Federation of Labor, yesterday afternoon expressed the opinion that there would be no trouble with any of the coal yards, and that negotiations were proceeding apace. Seventy-five new members were initiated at last night's meeting held at S. O. E. Hall, Berti street.

JOINT COUNCILS MANAGE PLANTS

International Harvester Company Finds Employee Representation Successful.

The council of joint labor-employer councils insofar as the International Harvester Company is concerned exemplifies a democracy which would be hard to surpass anywhere in the ranks of trades unionism or any field of workers' work among the workers of America. This at least was the gist of a remarkable insight into the workings of the system expounded in an address delivered last night by A. H. Young at the banquet tendered at the King Edward Hotel to the representatives of the International Association of Accident Commissioners in session at Toronto. Mr. Young is the manager of the industrial relations department of the company, and he not only gave a resume of the work of the council in this novel project, but also traced the history of the recent strike at the McCormick works at Chicago.

The speaker pointed out that there were twenty plants and many thousands of employees in the whole concern, 1000 of whom employ a union in the Hamilton branch. Before the plan of joint representation councils was established the company took a referendum vote as to the advisability of its establishment. The vote was taken three times, each vote favoring the project. The employees voted in their representatives in number, and the managements voted in their representatives in proportionate numbers. The employees' representatives were men of about 40 years of age, most of them home owners, 127 of them married.

Asked Increase.
"As soon as the joint council came into being," said Mr. Young, "the men asked for increased wages and an eight-hour day. We told them that with the trade as it was, we would be unable to accept their request. We laid all our cards on the table and they appreciated our honesty of purpose. One plant after another, in the eight-hour day. This plant had already run on such a schedule with 75 per cent. of its employees, and when the council asked for a 25 per cent. other 25 per cent. we yielded on condition that they would do all in their power to push production. This they have done, and it has not been necessary to take in a single addition for the force, despite the two hours' less time done by the hundreds of employees affected. We have also left the question of safety rules to this council, and as a result in Hamilton not a single accident has occurred in six months. The smaller grievances are not touched by the council at large but by each representative, with the best results."

The Recent Strike.
Mr. Young, touching upon the recent strike, stated that it was engineered by the hundreds of employees, and that it did not present any agreement until a few days ago. The strike becoming a menace to the lives of other employees the company asked the council to call for a referendum vote as to the advisability of closing down. This was taken, and the works closed down. Then the council refusing dictation from the workers, the president of the district for protection. It was granted, the captain remaining with the employees, rather than the management managed the affairs of the company, a truly novel factor in the general industrial situation in America.

Uncle Wiggily and Jillie's Candy

BY HOWARD R. GARIS.
Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"There's a letter for you, Uncle Wiggily," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, to the bunny rabbit gentleman one day.

"Where?" asked Mr. Longears as he stood his red, white and blue striped "rheumatism crutch" in a corner of his hollow stump bungalow.

"On the mantle," answered Nurse Jane.

The bunny rabbit took down the little letter, which was written with ink made from poke berries, on white birch bark, and having twinkled his pink nose and polished his glasses on his tail, silk hat, Uncle Wiggily read this invitation:

"Please come to my candy pull tonight.

"Yours truly,
"JILLIE LONGTAIL."

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane, who was setting the table for supper.

"Jillie, somebody is going to pull the bunny rabbit's candy away from her and she wants me to help her hold it," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I must hurry right over to the house where my little mouse girl friend lives. Dear me! Pulling her candy away from her! The idea!"

"Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane. "The bunny rabbit gentleman on the stove some molasses and sugar and other sweet things. That will make candy. After it is boiled and gets cold it is pulled into long sticks. Pulling candy, as you pull a rubber string, makes the sweet stuff whiter, too. Candy pulls are lots of fun!"

"Why?" asked the bunny. "Uncle Wiggily, he is going to Jillie's," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Better put on a suit of old clothes," advised Nurse Jane. "Because you might happen to sit down on a bit of soft molasses candy," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"That's so!" agreed Uncle Wiggily. So he put on a suit of old clothes that he used to go fishing in, and soon after supper he was on his way toward the home of Jillie Longtail, the mouse girl.

"I'm so glad you came!" squeaked Jillie Longtail, who was Jillie's brother. He opened the door for the bunny rabbit gentleman, on the stove, and he found many of his friends at Jillie's candy pull. Sammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbits, were there, as were Jack and Jimmie Wobble, the wobble, and they laughed when they thought how Uncle Wiggily had hidden under the leaves in the woods the day before.

Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, helped Jillie and Jillie Longtail get ready to make the candy, which, after it had boiled, and cooled, would be pulled into light brown sticks.

Molasses, sugar, butter, vinegar, coconut and a few other things were put on the stove to boil. The stove was in the kitchen of the mouse house, who witnessed the accident, ran to the assistance of Burkhardt and notified Dr. Murray of East Gerrard street, who, when summoned, pronounced life extinct.

FATAL FALL FROM ROOF.
W. F. Burkhardt of Ossington avenue, an employee of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, met instant death yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when he fell from the roof of the Hydro-Electric substation at the corner of Gerrard street and Carlaw avenue. Burkhardt was working on some trunk wires at the time of the accident and in some unknown way lost his footing. He fell head foremost to the ground, a distance of 50 feet, breaking his neck in the fall.

James Leeder of Enderby avenue, who witnessed the accident, ran to the assistance of Burkhardt and notified Dr. Murray of East Gerrard street, who, when summoned, pronounced life extinct.

REAL ESTATE NEWS
The property at No. 40 West St. Clair avenue has been sold by Susan Fay to John McKeenighan for $9000. The lot has a frontage of 34 feet 4 inches by a depth of 137 feet. The lot and building known as 618 Avenue road has changed hands for $42,500. It has a frontage of 66 feet, and a depth of 90 feet. The land is assessed at $10,000, and the building at $13,000.

W. F. Leeder has sold the street known as 2124 Enderby street to A. H. Mealing for about $6500. Real estate agents at the Beach report an unprecedented demand for small houses, ranging in price between $3500 and $5000. Enquiries are being made from persons who have been forced out by the sale of their houses to someone else, and from soldiers. C. G. Dawkes & Co., Queen street, report that they have sold 31 houses to returned men in two months. There is a great urgency for the speeding up of building operations in the Beach district. It is said that the advanced prices now asked for land close to Queen and the lake front is the chief cause of the slow down of building. Some distance up from Queen and north to the Kingston road, building is very brisk, and the houses going up are all of a high quality.
