The prisoners had not heard of the surrender of General Cronje, and discredited it. The majority seemed to be glad to be captured. They admit heavy losses, recently. The women remained with the Boers in the trenches until three hours before the British charged. Two women were found, one dead and the other fatally wounded. She has since died. She said her husband would not let her leave the trenches, as she was such a good shot. The woman was only 19 years old.

Some of the sick prisoners have given a vivid description of Gen. Cronje's night march. It began in a panic, and terrible confusion prevailed thruout. The huge wagons crowded the narrow road, there was an uter lack of order and desertions were numerous.

Every man who was off duty visited the Boer laager yesterday and the crowd of curious Tommiles spent the day in searching every nook and corner. After what might prove useful to the army had been secured, the soldiers were allowed to take whatever they liked. The men carried off clothing, kettles, caps and even umbrellas. The latest reports announce that a large force of Boers is operating ten miles away on the British right front.

In La Patrie:

The French newspaper offices were invaded yesterday by a couple of thousand men of English origin. Laval University was attacked yesterday afternoon and sacked last evening. For months past the Tory newspapers have been hurring disloyalty at the French-Canadans. Some of these papers have publicly announced that the day is not far distant when the Province of Quebec will be invaded, and the scenes of last evening are the results of these appeals to passion.

It is said that to be forewarned is to be forearmed, so a race so well warned as ours is also worth two. We now know what to expect. We cannot regget too deeply that the students of a great English university have participated in such an aggressive attack. There is a great deal to be excused in the young, but this is, all the same, a very grave symptom. It is the repetition of the event of 1849. Lord Eigin was almost assassinated in the streets of Montreal because he had consented to render justice to the French-Canadians, and it becomes more and more evident that the spirit which dominated the Tories of that day also animates the Tories of to-day.

A Cool Threat.

A Cool Threat.

We are in a large majority in this City of Montreal and in the Province of Quebec, and we would only have to say the word to wreak vengeance for the insults of which we have been the victims. We will not counsel a policy so antimational, but what we do advise is the organize resistance against such scenes as those of last evening. Our compatriots have the right to see that their persons and their property are respected, and by force, if necessary. In fact if this were to continue, if it were tolerated that our places of business should be invaded and destroyed, this country would very soon become uninhabitable. A Cool Threat.

Is it not a painful spectacle to realize that we are two steps from civil war? We are not the aggressors, but we are strong enough to protect ourselves. We do not hold the majority of the Eaglish-speaking population of Montreal and the country responsible for the shameful scenes which disgraced our streets. This is a decisive hour. The Confederation can only be maintained by the two races living harmoniously side by side. There is very little to add to what has taken place to rend the Federal pact asunder, and that without much delay. Near Civil War.
