BAND CONTESTS AN ADMIRABLE IDEA. SAYS W. A. JENKINS

Promises to Give Proposal His Support If Properly Organized.

CENTRALIZE INTEREST

E. V. Buchanan Offers Assistance in Bringing About Initial Conference.

Discussing the proposals to organize band concerts throughout Western Ontario with the finals in London during Western Fair week briefly with The Advertiser this morning. W. A. Jenkins of the W. A. Jenkins Manufacturing Company, said: "I think the idea is an admirable one, and I should be quite willing to join other businessmen of the city in promoting the scheme by making city in promoting the scheme by making station. a substantial donation to the organizing

"My original idea as expressed to F. L. Willgoose of the London Conservatory of Music was the bringing to this city of some big bands, such as the British Guards or Lancers bands, to give public concerts in the parks, so that everybody could have an opportunity of enjoying the best music obtainable rather than such music should be confined to the comparative few who could crowd into a building. I am ready to support such a scheme, but if this other suggestion is properly supported I am quite willing to do what I can to as-

The idea is an admirable one, and I hope to see some organization, the fair board, the parks board, or say the Chamber of Commerce, take hold of the proposal and carry it through to the success that I feel confident would result under proper management. Referring to the evident interest that has been aroused in musical circles in the proposed band contests throughout Western Ontario, E. V. Buchanan, gen-eral manager of the public utilities com-mission, which includes the parks board, today told The Advertiser that "in order to centralize the interest with a view to bringing the idea to a definite concluhe would be quite willing for those who are really interested to get in touch with him, and that he would willingly give all possible assistance he could to organizing an initial conference

AGAIN IN CONFERENCE

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—Representatives of the hard coal miners and operators resumed their conference here today in another effort to reach a settlement of their wage dispute.

When the conference adjourned on November 6 it virtually was deadlocked.

Should this virtual deal and the cause for suspicion was aroused early in the evening, when the pastor made reference in his remarks to a couple of "suspicious-looking characters" that had entered the church and had taken up their quarters in the basement, where the "eats" were kept. On investigation by the officials later on it was learned that the "crooks" were only kindly-disposed chauffeurs, who had loaned their cars for service of the choir members, and were seeking solid composure alongside the cosy furnace fire, unmindful of the "goodies" spread about them. ocked.
Should this virtual deadlock not be broken today, miners' representatives said their committee probably would appeal to President Wilson to make a ruling in order that wage negotiations nay proceed.

Among the men's demands are in-
