Sporting Editor World: In reply to Canada for Canadians' letter for a soccer team to visit England for the Olympic games, I think it quite time this subject team to visit England for the Olympic games, I think it quite time this subject was dropped, unless you want to make the team chosen the laughing stock of the world. For instance, what chance would they stand. Every one knows England is supreme at soccer football, and from the way I read Canada for Canadians' letter, he evidently thinks the Little Yorks ought to be sent. Well, I guess they would look small against the best English amateurs, who I consider would simply make rings around them. Any one who knows anything about old country football at all must admit that England's present international team is nearly half amateurs. If the Ontario or Torento Football Association have any, money to throw away, why not invest it in a decent trophy, so that any team could have a chance of winning it yearly. This I think a much better idea than putting it in a wild goose chase. E. Ccoper, 621 West Queen-street. At New Orleans.
