Nothing alive in Nature stands still. You go forward or backward. Thus, your hair is either healthy or unhealthy—and misloss today recognize that "unhealthy" is the word to apply to their own hair.

The health of the hair, perhaps even more than the health of the body, needs close attention, and the wise men and women are those who every day take stock of their hair and watch its every variation.

The question is how to restore hair health so that this most glorious of nature's assets may take on once more its radiant lustre, its thick, luxuriant growth with every deligated with little eiectric lights that looked like jewels of sapphire topaz and rubles, stood in the corner, fair yoroaning with Christmas stockings and sleds, books and oranges stood all about the foot of the tree, waiting for Santa to pick them up for the little friends about them.

The kiddies were so happy at the beautiful sight that they continued singing. They sang a pretty song about "Old Mother Moon," and an-

They sang a pretty song about "Old Mother Moon," and another about all the bells of Christmas that were swinging and ringing, and so joyful did they become that all the rows of little girls and boys lifted their pretty arms and swung them just as they knew the bells would do on Christmas morning. Then the supreme moment came when Santa Claus himself appeared in his red-red coat with bag slung. when Santa Claus himself appeared in his red-red coat with bag slung over his shoulder and his great long white beard, which made his face look so jolly and good-natured. "SANTA CLAUS AND GNOMES."

"Santa Claus and the Gnomes" was the name of a delightfully attractive play given last evening before the five hundred children of the McCormick Centre, who gathered at their recrea-tion headquarters for their usual Christmas festival. The gnomes in their funny brown suits made the audience laugh, and at the same time taught the boys and girls that the best way to make sure of having a good time themselves was to help someone else to the same. Harry Bennett, the popular comedian, added several of his most entertaining numbers. After the play a real Christmas treat given by Miss McCormick was distributed, and the candies, nuts and an appreciation of her work, by the oranges done full justice to by the other members of the auxiliary. hundreds of boys and girls present.
