

LAST RITES PAID HON. JAMES S. DUFF

Allston Church Crowded
During Funeral Service of Late Minister.

VIRTUES ARE EXTOLLED

Friendliness, Chief Characteristic, Pastor Declares in Eulogizing Public Citizen.

Practically the entire constituency of the late Hon. James S. Duff went to Allston yesterday to pay their last respects to the former minister of agriculture for Ontario, whose funeral was held there. The church was crowded with automobiles and buggies. The cortege, when it arrived from the residence near Cookstown, and when it left again for the small country cemetery near the late minister's farm house, seemed to fill the thoroughfare from end to end.

Members of the legislature were there from all parts of the province. The train that left Toronto was filled with representatives of important public organizations. The feeling that animated all, whether they came from the city or country, was that in the late minister of agriculture they had lost a friend.

Rev. W. G. Hanna struck a note in his funeral sermon in Knox Presbyterian Church at Allston in the afternoon when he said that the quality in Mr. Duff which he would like to emphasize was that of friendliness. His sudden death was a challenge to the manhood of the province to fill the vacancy, he said.

Friendliness had been the minister's chief characteristic in private life as devotion to duty had been in the public sphere. The speaker declared that the speaker characterized the public life of the speaker as "perhaps I may say that, under divine Providence, had he been less devoted to public duty, he would have been with us today," he said. "He never flinched from his place."

An unusually large crowd waited outside the church, where the public service was held following the private service in the home. Soon after the doors were opened at 2.30 o'clock standing room only was occupied. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Cree of Allston, assisted by Rev. W. N. Carr, former pastor at Cookstown; Rev. W. M. Morris, Orangeville; Rev. J. A. Radden of Kew and Cambridge; Rev. J. O. Jones of Toronto. The choir of Mr. Duff's home church at Braden, near Cookstown, assisted by the Allston choir, sang.

Among those present were: The lieutenant-governor, Sir John S. Hendrie; Hon. Frank Cochrane, Premier; Messrs. H. H. Hall, J. H. Macdonnell, J. W. Wilson, A. W. Wright, representing the Workmen's Compensation Board; Ald. Sam Ryding, ex-Mayor Oliver, W. Ferguson, K.C., J. W. McWhinney, K.C., N. Davidson, K.C., and Alexander Fraser.

The pallbearers, chosen by Mr. Duff himself a month ago, were W. T. Allan, Cullingwood; David Hopner, Cookstown; George Davis, Ivy; John McKee, Dainton; William Dluwodie, Cookstown; and E. A. Little, Barrie.

The service in the church was followed by one at the home, where the Presbyterian ceremony, conducted by Rev. Messrs. Carr and Morris was followed by the Orangeville service, at which Harry Coleman, master of the Clover Hill Lodge, of which Mr. Duff was a member, J. D. Banting, county master, was also present with many other lodge members.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-Tenths of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure.

A famous physician, whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles, such as indigestion, flatulence, constipation, and all the other ailments of the stomach and bowels, were directly traceable to a diseased condition of the stomach, which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity. Excessive acidity, he said, was commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines, as well as the ordinary treatment for the stomach, stating that he had seen many cases cured by his method, which he termed "the acid cure." He contended that it is as foolish to treat the stomach with a laxative as it is to treat the lungs with a cough syrup. He said that the first step in the treatment of the stomach is to remove the acid. He said that the acid is the cause of all the troubles of the stomach, and that it is the only thing that will cure the stomach. He said that the acid is the cause of all the troubles of the stomach, and that it is the only thing that will cure the stomach. He said that the acid is the cause of all the troubles of the stomach, and that it is the only thing that will cure the stomach.

TREE IS NOW ADVOCATE OF BALLOT FOR WOMEN

Activities During War Compels
Change of Mind of Noted English Actor, He Tells Club.

A large membership of the Women's Canadian Club had the privilege of hearing Sir Herbert Tree yesterday, in an address which was both in illustration of the magnificent dramatic art of the great English actor, and an insight into the ideas as to the place held by women in the mind of Shakespeare, and in that of the visitor himself.

Sir Herbert Tree acknowledged a change of mind in the matter of woman suffrage, to which he had once been an opponent. The influence of the world is very much in the hands of women, and they have raised wonderful heights of heroism since the war, said the speaker. At the close of the strife it will rest with the women to teach their children the love of all nations and one common fatherland, and this with a universal language, will do much to preserve a permanent peace, he declared.

The audience was favored with a transposition scene, in which the noted soliloquy of Hamlet was said in the character of Falstaff, and the address of the latter before the battle, given in the voice of Hamlet. Despite the presentation of the situation, the dramatic presentation of each was most impressive, the art of the interpreter reaching the climax during the soliloquy. Sir Herbert Tree is a great apostle of humor.

Miss Lang proposed a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Mrs. Starr, and responding to the wish voiced in the appreciation, the guest of the occasion said he hoped to be in Toronto again on a future occasion.

DUFF PRAISED AT WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Tributes Are Paid Late Agriculture Minister at Convention's Opening.

DELEGATES WELCOMED

Lady Hendrie Discusses Care of Children in Interesting Address.

What promises to be the most successful convention of the Women's Institutes was that which opened yesterday afternoon in the Central Technical School, when the auditorium and the gallery of the hall held several hundreds of women from many parts of Ontario.

At the opening meeting, Mrs. B. Johansen, president, presided. Dr. Fraser conducted the devotional exercises which he prefaced by a brief address on the late Minister of Agriculture Hon. J. S. Duff, whose friendship he had for a number of years and whom he characterized as kindly, hearty, friendly and generous.

An address of welcome was given by Lady Hendrie, who gave some practical advice, reminding the women present that the much had been done for the child, but that it was time to turn their attention. She dwelt particularly on the care of children, who were a wonderful asset to the country, and pointed out that in the past children of rural parts had been regarded as being healthier than those of the city, conditions were changed now, owing to medical inspection in the schools and the children now receive such attention that much disease had been both prevented and eradicated.

Lady Hendrie also expressed the wish to see all the delegates at Government House during their visit.

The response to Lady Hendrie was given by Mrs. Wm. Todd of Orillia, who voiced the appreciation of the members for her presence and address. The speaker referred to the great war-work that had to be done, but emphasized the point that the institutes were not temporary, but permanent institutions. The work was to continue, she said. She expressed her belief in the position of the agricultural body, in that the women represented, for to them belonged the work of making the land produce, and this was the mark of aristocracy. There is no aristocracy without the possession of land. She hoped that the 30,000 women of the institutes who were today studying parliamentary rules would one day be a great force in the land.

Reference was made by Lady Hendrie to the death of Mr. Duff, and sympathy expressed for his family. All speakers made reference to the tragic subject and Mr. Putnam, at the close of Mrs. Todd's address moved an adjournment to a recessing session.

Addresses Delivered.
The evening meeting was presided over by Dr. A. C. McKay, principal of the Central Technical School. An interesting report of the work of the South Branch District Institute was given and addresses pertinent to the vital subject of child care were delivered. Responsibility During and After the War, was developed by Dr. Annie Backus of Aylmer. Miss Marjory MacKinnon of The Canadian Assets as a Worker When She Looks for Paid Employment, and the third address was given by Col. C. H. Williams, director of the training officer of Military Division No. 1.

An exhibition of Red Cross work was held in an upper room of the school building. The exhibits included supplies for the soldiers were displayed. A motto which drew attention to the place of the sick exhibit was, "Make no man a burden." The exhibit was in charge of Dr. Margaret Patterson. The convention continues today.

AD CLUB HEARS ADDRESS ON RAILWAY PUBLICITY

Advertising Manager of C. N. R.
Gives an Address Upon Work of His Department.

At the weekly luncheon of the Toronto Ad Club yesterday at the St. Charles Hotel, Mr. G. Penny, advertising manager of the C.N.R., gave an address on "Securing the Competitive Passenger Haul," in which he outlined the chief but interesting fashion the following results, which are secured by his passenger business. Its activities in this respect, said the speaker, were governed by the company's resources. It had to depend for its commercial passenger traffic upon its thickly populated districts, while for tourist traffic its resources were hunting and fishing grounds and the scenic beauties of the land it traversed. The president, Robert Corvill, later announced that at a meeting of the club to be held shortly an address would be given by Thomas Bradshaw, city finance commissioner, on the department of civic government that he represents.

How To Make a Good Hair Tonic At Home

If you have been using hair tonics purchased ready-made from a drug store, you can probably save some money and get a great deal better results by using the following recipe, which is remarkably successful in stopping loss of hair and making new hair grow on bald and thin spots. Anyone can easily make it at home. Simply mix 2 oz. of Lavone and then add one-half dram of menthol crystals and a little perfume if desired, and then allowed to stand a few hours before using. All these ingredients can be had at any drug store. In applying, be sure to not merely wet the hair, but rub the tonic right into the scalp. It is as simple as a few hours' preparation has been widely used for years and is entirely harmless, and will not make the hair greasy or sticky. Ladies should be careful not to apply to the scalp or where hair is not desired.—G. L. B. Binghamton, N.Y.

THE LAWRENCE BAKERY

Has Again Saved the Public Tens of Thousands of Dollars

Monday, George Lawrence, the Baker, put out a test of the Toronto Public; every House-keeper in this city had made great ado about the price of bread being so high. The City Council even thought they ought to don caps and aprons and go into the baking business and save the people from the terrible oppression of the bakeshops. Men and women, experts, University Doctors and even the Federal Government at Ottawa were agitated to find some way of bringing down the price of bread. After all—they could do nothing. What was impossible for the city and even for the nation, was accomplished quietly and quickly Monday by ONE MAN—GEORGE LAWRENCE. George Lawrence's idea is best expressed this way: "With the whole country ready to fight against high prices, it is reasonable to suppose the whole public will fight for low prices. I will try the public out and see whether the Toronto public has any backbone and means what it says, or is a hollow bluff, and its wild gestures against the high price of bread merely play-acting. If the people of this city deserve to have anybody make a sacrifice to lower the price of bread, they will certainly follow the banner of the man who is fighting for low prices and give him their approbation, encouragement, influence and trade. I will try out the public and see whether they have any spirit of loyalty to the cause they have made such noise about, or whether they are just as willing to slide along as they have been, paying high prices for bread, and too indolent and disinterested to rouse themselves to action to help the cause they are interested in.

If the People of This City Want Bread at 8 Cents a Loaf They Must Support the Lawrence Bakery

The price—8 cents a loaf—will not pay any bakery, even with a large quantity of well-bought flour, unless a tremendous turnover can be built up. This is just as much the public's business as mine, for I can make more money, naturally, at 9 cents than at 8 cents, but if I can sell for 8 cents and come out right I am willing to do it, if the public are with me. If I am wasting my time and do not get the 10,000 new customers I need to carry this plan through, I might as well fall back and let the public pay the big prices they certainly would have to pay if it were not for the action of this bakery.

If the Toronto Public Fail to Come to the Help of the Lawrence Bakery by Sending in Their Orders, the Plan May Have to Be Abandoned, and Bread May Go to 10 Cents a Loaf

If the public fail in the test I am trying out, if the people who want to lower prices for bread in this city will patronize me by sending me their bread trade, they will get lower prices. There are many who don't care what they pay for bread, and whose tables groan under the load of delicacies and expensive dishes, who don't eat much bread anyway, but I am speaking to the

Professional Men, Merchants, Clerks, Workingmen and People Living on Moderate Incomes

who do care what they pay for bread. These are the people I want to help, but I can only help those who help themselves by helping me.

Will You Stand by Me? Will You Help Keep Down the Price of Bread? Your Order is Needed to Make a Success of This Worthy Effort

Remember, Lawrence's Bread will be kept up to the highest standard. No bread baked in Toronto can equal it. I do not claim my bread is merely as good as some other; my bread is better than any other, and a fair trial will prove it. Thousands of new customers came to me Monday. The plan looks good, but—I need YOUR order.

BOARD OF EDUCATION CALLS IT PRESUMPTION

Objects to City Council's Proposal to Take Vote on Military Drill.

Board of education trustees are wrathful concerning the proposal made in the city council that a vote of the people be taken on the question of making military drill compulsory in the public schools. Most of the trustees considered that it was presumptuous for any alderman to make such a statement. Trustee Brown maintained that if a vote was to be taken the board should ask for it, and consultation with them was only common courtesy before anything of this nature was mentioned.

The management committee of the board has a motion before it to take a referendum on the question, but it is said that such a course is opposed by a majority of the members.
