Cough Cures

For half a century this preparation has been in greater demand than any other remedy. Physicians, clergymen, and public speakers, recommend it.

"I suffered for more than eight months from a severe cough accompanied with hemorrhage from the lungs, and the expectoration of mucus. I took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, by the use of one bottle, was entirely cured. I now keep it constantly in my family, and shall do so as long as I live."—Mrs. Mary Hall, Bloomfield, Ind.

Liberal-Conservative NOMINATIONS

FOR THE CITY,

HON. E. McLEOD, Q. C.

For the City and County,

HON. C. N. SKINNER, Q. C.

J. DOUGLAS HAZEN, Esq

MAKE THE DEFEAT A CRUSHING ONE.

Of the utter defeat of the Liberal ticket in St. John city and county there can be no doubt but it should be the duty of not be sufficient to merely defeat Ellis in the city by a small majority, he must be snowed under and this constituency redeemed from the disgrace of having a public enemy as its representative in Parliament. Can any man recall any instance in which Ellis, through his newspaper or otherwise, did anything for the benefit of St. John? Has it not been the constant policy of his newspaper, the Globe, to decry our industries and to sneer at our efforts to improve our industrial condition? What manufactory has he encouraged? What public spirited movement has he led? What does his paper ever contain except sly hints that we would be more prosperous under the stars and stripes than we are under the British flag? While he jingles his American subsidy in his pocket what cares he whether this city is ruined or not? Whatever may happen to St. John he thinks he is safe and the greater the ruin the greater will be his reward.

As for the county candidates they are looking a forlorn hope, so forlorn that it is not unlikely they will retire before the day of nomination. We have had Mr. Weldon in Parliament for twelve years and in that time what has he done for this city and county? We acquit him of any desire to haul down the British flag, but he knows nothing of business, he is a blind follower of blinder leaders who have seized upon the idea of unrestricted reciprocity as something which may catch the public ear and carry them into power. Mr. Weldon is said to be a good lawyer but as a publician and a member of Parliament he is a shocking failure and he will be defeated by an overwhelming vote. We say nothing of the other candidate, Mr. Rankine, except that he must share the fate of his colleagues, and to express our regret that any business man of this city should be found in company with those who are unfriendly to St. John interests.

DIRECT TAXATION.

How do the people of St. John city and county like the idea of paying $180,000 a year in direct taxation for the support of the Dominion government? Yet it is admitted that this would be one of the first results of unrestricted reciprocity. It is admitted that if we had unrestricted reciprocity with the United States the revenue of Canada would be reduced by $15,000,000 a year, which sum would have to be made up by direct taxation. If there are 5,000,000 people in Canada now, and 60,000 people in the city and county of St. John, our share of this impost would be $180,000 a year, which would probably be levied on the real estate of the county. The value of the real estate of the city and county of St. John was last year assessed at $13,860,350, and it may be $14,000,000 at the present time. It would take a tax of $1.28 on every $100 of real estate in the city and county of St. John to pay this tax; in other words the taxation of the city of St. John would be doubled under unrestricted reciprocity. How would our owners of real estate, who already complain that their taxes are too heavy like unrestricted reciprocity obtained at such a price? The workingman who owns a house which is valued at $1,000 would have to pay $12.80 a year in Dominion taxes in addition to the city taxes he now has to pay. If we assume the average rental of houses which are occupied by tenants, to be 10 per cent. of the assessed value, every tenant who now pays a rental of $100 a year would have to pay at least $120 to reimburse the landlord for the additional taxes his property would be subject to under unrestricted reciprocity, and for the interest on the money thus expended. In other words under unrestricted reciprocity every tenant in St. John might count on paying one-fifth more rent for his house than he does now, yet with all this his landlord would be no better off than he is at present, but rather in a worse position, for if his houses were vacant for a time, as would often be the case, the high taxes would speedily eat up the property. We challenge any advocate of unrestricted reciprocity to show how this $15,000,000 of revenue is to be made up except by direct taxation.

A PLOT AGAINST OUR INDUSTRIES.

The policy of unrestricted reciprocity, which is put forward by the Liberal party as their only platform is a deliberate plot against the industries of Canada set on foot by Mr. Wiman, whose interests are all in the United States and promoted here by men like Ellis, who have always been crying down the industries of this country and seeking to have Canada annexed to the United States. No man knows better than Ellis that unrestricted reciprocity would at once close all our factories and all our wholesale establishments. No one knows better than he that the policy of unrestricted reciprocity would depopulate St. John and reduce the value of property in it by one half. Yet he can quietly laugh in his sleeve while he sees his dupes following his instructions and assisting to ruin Canada and especially St. John thus realizing the chief desire of his heart. The proprieter of a paper which is subsidized by American money, naturally enough is not affected by the misfortunes of this city, except beneficially, for the ruin of St. John is a part of the work for which he is paid, and no man can deny that he has labored earnestly to accomplish this object.

THE TELEGRAPH AND ELLIS.

It has taken the Telegraph two days to muster courage enough to place the name of Mr. Annexationist Ellis as its candidate at the head of its editorial column, but the name of Ellis has got there all the same, and the curious in such matters can now see the proof of the wretched condition of abasement into which the Telegraph has sunk. The man whom it now asks the electors of St. John to vote for is the same man of whom it said:—

"We are not a party of annexationists. The liberal party is second to none in its devotion to the throne and liberal party must disown Mr. J. V. Ellis.

This is the same Ellis of whom the Telegraph truly and justly said on another occasion:

"Mr. Ellis looks out upon St. John as the open and avowed advocate of annexation."

This is the same Ellis of whom the Telegraph further said:

"How much longer will this blatant advocate of disloyalty, Ellis, be tolerated in our midst."

Since then Ellis has not changed; he is still as great an advocate of annexation as ever. It is not a month since he published an article in his paper, the Globe, advocating the hauling down of the British flag in Canada. No longer ago than last evening he published an article in which he expressed his joy that British trade and British feeling were decreasing in Jamaica and other West India islands under the British flag and that American feeling and American trade were taking their place. And this is the man, the enemy of St. John and of British connexion whose boots the Telegraph now abjectly licks.

IN DARKEST ENGLAND.

According to General Booth one-tenth of the population of England are paupers, one-fourth of whom are made criminals by pauperism and one-fourth of whom are made paupers by criminality. The other half, includes men and women of almost every station in life, who in the direst straits, have preserved, if nothing more, the semblance of integrity. The great cry of the poor of London, and of all England for that matter, is for employment by the proceeds of which their miserable lives may be prolonged, for except in rare instances, all men cling with equal tenacity to this earthly existence. Why the situation? Why should one-tenth of the population of England be paupers? That country has enjoyed the advantages of free trade for fifty years, and if all that is claimed for free trade be true, there should be no pauperism there. Everything necessary to sustain life should be cheaper in Great Britain than elsewhere; and still, we see millions of people there starving for food, freezing for want of shelter, and in five cases out of ten, for nothing else but lack of employment.

In his scheme for the amelioration of the condition of the poor of England General Booth neither forms an alliance with nor antagonizes any political party or religious denomination. He establishes "shelters" where those who are out of work can live for a sixpence a day, work shops where they can earn that sixpence, until they obtain more remunerative employment, farms and factories to which they may be transferred from those workshops and finally colonies in Canada or Australia, where they may be employed until they are able to employ themselves on their own land, in their own shops, or find remunerative employment elsewhere.

The scheme of General Booth is one which we believe will prosper; we believe it will prosper because we believe its controlling spirit is unselfish, because we believe few men live precariously from choice, and because we believe that few would continue in criminal courses if they were removed from temptation, or if they saw before them a way in which they could hope to lead honest and respected lives. We believe the scheme will succeed because it is one which has for its object the elevation of that great fragment of humanity whose degradation is due quite as much to extraneous causes as to its personal frailties. General Booth's great scheme, as set forth in "Darkest England and the Way Out," is based on the natural outgrowth of the salvation army which within a few years has set its flag flying over 34 countries, under the leadership of 1000 men and women, who hold about 50,000 religious meetings every week, attended by several millions of people who hitherto knew nothing of any kind of religious instruction.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The example of Senator Boyd and his amiable wife in throwing open their splendid mansion to the public for a concert to aid Lady Tilley's hospital fund is one well worthy of imitation. All may not hope to do the work of charity on so noble a scale as was done by them last evening, but all can do something.

The amount that will have to be raised by direct taxation to support the Dominion government, to make up the deficiency in the revenue lost by unrestricted reciprocity will amount to $360,000 a year or an average of $14 for every voter in the city and county. How do the working men of St. John like the prospect?

The very whisper of unrestricted reciprocity being a possibility has already prevented the establishment of a large manufacturing industry in St. John with a capital of $100,000. The capitalists who intended to put up the money for this extensive work are awaiting the result of the elections and if unrestricted reciprocity is carried they will take their capital and their experience elsewhere.

The Hon. Peter Mitchell has been deserted by his good friend, D. G. Smith, of the Chatham Advance and now he is without a newspaper organ in the county of Northumberland. D. G. Smith has a pretty strong stomach, but he cannot swallow unrestricted reciprocity. Peter will probably not give the electors of Northumberland an opportunity of voting against him, but will decline the contest.

There were more than two hundred friends of Hon. John Costigan at the banquet in his honor the other evening, but only eight of his enemies could be mustered to attend a convention to select a candidate to oppose him. The opposition convention is adjourned until next Tuesday and that will probably be the last of it. The opposition to the Minister of Inland Revenue is confined to a few persons, and most of Mr. Theriault's former supporters have promised now to support Mr. Costigan.

A Gladstonian successor to Bradlaugh has been elected in Northampton, but by a reduced majority. At the last general election Bradlaugh received 4,853 votes and his unionist opponent 3,850 votes. Now Mansfield the Gladstonian Liberal has 3,736 votes and Germaine, a Conservative 3,723. Thus there is a considerable reduction in the number of votes polled, although the total of voters in the borough has increased from 9,800 to 10,400. Does this indicate a waning interest in politics or what?

Liberal nomination did not conceal his preference for the United States. Here is a paragraph from his address as reported in his own paper:—

From his place in parliament the Finance Minister of Canada had contended that the debt of Canada was a much more honorable one than that of the United States, as it had been increased in the interests of trade and commerce, while that of the States was the result of a bloody civil war. He looked at the matter in a different light. The debt of the United States was an honorable one, incurred in the maintenance of a great principle and its effect had been to elevate the standard of labor throughout the United States to a position it never before held.

In other words Mr. Ellis thinks that money which was wasted in a bloody civil war in the United States was as well spent as money used for the purpose of constructing railways and canals in Canada and otherwise developing the resources of the country. Could anything better prove his hatred of Canada than such a declaration?

OF DRAMATIC INTEREST.

Mollie Sherwood is now Leading in the Popular Actress Contest.

Elsie Leslie, who has been playing in "The Prince and the Pauper" is ill with diphtheria. Estelle Sprague is playing her part.

* * *

Henry C. DeMille is working four hours daily on his play "The Lost Paradise." The scene of the play is laid near Boston, Mass.

* * *

W. H. Crane is reported as being delighted with the new play written for him by Messrs. Clay Greene and Augustus Thomas. The play was recently finished.

* * *

The separation between John Rogers and his wife, Minnie Palmer, has been finally agreed upon. The papers have been duly executed and all communication between them has ceased. The friends of both parties regret this proceeding.

* * *

The frontispiece picture in last week's Dramatic News is a portrait of Mr. Alf. Hampton, who is "one of the bright comedians of Hamlin's farce comedy company."

* * *

Blanche Miller, who is making a success in "A Dark Secret," will be known next season under her own name, Alice Allt.

* * *

"The Two Orphans" was recently produced in New York with Kate Claxton and Mrs. McKee Rankin in their original roles of Louise and Henriette. These ladies received cordial recognition and enthusiastic applause.

* * *

"Mr. Potter of Texas" the latest play by Gunter, the author of the book of the same name, was produced for the first time in New York on the 2nd inst. The opinion of the critics is that it has made an immense hit.

* * *

King Hedley well known in St. John is playing in the "Mr. Potter of Texas" company this season.

* * *

Mr. Bradley, who played Jim the Penman, with Harkin's company in St. John last season, is now with Fanny Davenport in "Cleopatra."

* * *

Emma Fassett has gone to the West Indies with the McDowell company. A ten weeks tour is contemplated, says the Dramatic News.

* * *

Minnie A. Victorson, a Boston amateur has been engaged as soubrette by the Redmund-Barry combination.

* * *

Sadie Martinot fainted during a recent performance of "Dr. Bill" in Baltimore and had to be taken to her hotel. She was able to re-appear on the second night afterwards. Her place was filled by Nellie Lingard.

* * *

"A Texas Steer" is now on tour and Mr. Harkins is with the company. They played recently in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the News correspondent there says: "The success of "A Texas Steer" was wonderful. The house was sold out by the middle of the week."

* * *

"Lady Barter" the new play written by Charles Coghlan for his sister Rose Coghlan, was produced at the Globe theatre, Boston, last week. It is said "the play is not a great one, but it is interesting and contrasts favorably with many of the pieces put on the stage of late." The character of "Lady Barter" enables Miss Coghlan to display her wonderful versatility and resources to the best advantage.

* * *

The right to produce "Below Zero" a play by T. N. Rentfrow has been acquired by C. J. Morrison. A strong company is being organized and will open in St. Joseph, Mo., 9th prox.

* * *

Maggie Mitchell who was recently playing in "Fay" at Dubuque, Iowa, made her debut in that city just thirty-eight years ago.

* * *

Miss Bert, who is leading lady with McKee Rankin in "The Canuck" has been receiving the encomium of the western press for her work in that production.

* * *

Clara Morris, who has been playing "Odette" to S. R. O. business, was seized with a fainting spell immediately on the fall of the curtain after the first act, during a recent performance. Medical aid was secured and she subsequently gave one of the best performances although suffering very much.

* * *

During the season of "The Saracen," in which Robert Downing is starring at Savannah, Ga., Miss Eugenia Blair, leading lady had a sudden attack of illness which prevented her appearing.

* * *

A new farce comedy entitled "Felix and Co." written by J. E. Brown and Sol Smith Russel will be produced next season.

* * *

"The Great Metropolis" is a winner throughout the New England states where it is now on tour. It is also being played in the West where at a recent performance Camille Cleveland, the pretty soubrette of the company, met a somewhat severe shaking up by falling on her head during the wreck scene.

* * *

Adelaide Moore has been playing in Romeo and Juliet, Pygmalion and Galatea, and The Lady of Lyons to jammed houses in Portland, Oregon.

* * *

Messrs. Jefferson and Florence will open their next season on Oct. 5 and "Dombey and Son" and "The Cricket on the Hearth" will be the opening plays.

MME. PATTI IS INDIGNANT.

Her Story of the Cause of Her Arrest in Berlin—Why She Broke the St. Petersburg Engagement.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—Mme. Patti is highly indignant of her arrest in Berlin for alleged breach of contract, and will prosecute Zette for illegal distraint.

In an interview today, she said that Zette engaged her some time ago in London for a series of concerts in St. Petersburg, but as he failed to pay a deposit to her banker in St. Petersburg, and also hired a small and unimportant theatre, she considered the engagement broken. Solicitor George Lewis advised her that the contract was nullified.

Zette came to Berlin on the evening of her fulfilling her engagement to try to seize her costumes and jewels, and to try to prevent her singing. Zette was unable to procure in time the 1000 marks which it was necessary to pay into the court as a precaution before obtaining an order to distrain her effects. The concert was, therefore, not interfered with.

On the following morning, however, a writ was served on her. Mme. Patti was unable to pay the 8400 marks demanded having on the previous evening deposited the proceeds of the concert with the Rothschilds. Her Berlin agent, Mr. Wolff, came to her rescue, however, and paid the amount demanded to the court.

She is convinced that Zette's object was to frighten her to pay on the spot his whole claim of 90,000 marks.
