The strength of the English language is in the short words—chiefly monosyllables of Saxon derivation—and people who are in earnest seldom use any other. Love, hate, anger, grief, joy, express themselves in short words and direct sentences, while cunning, falsehood and affectation delight in what Horace calls verba sesquipedalia "a foot and a half long."

It is well known that 75 per cent. of the demand on circulating libraries is for works of fiction. The Boston Public Library is now undertaking missionary work in attempting to induce its patrons to read history, biography and the like as well, and we shall await with interest its report of progress.

"And when in after days," said a learned counsel in the court-room, "we meet together around the social hearth, where I shall no longer be oppressed by the heat and burden of the day, and you, gentlemen, will find yourselves in other scenes than this, at rest from arduous labors, then, as we talk together of bygone times, may you be able to say that the first thing you did on returning to the jury room was to unanimously agree that you could place no reliance whatever upon the testimony of that man Smith."

GOSSAMER

Water - Proof Cape ! !

The Manufacturers Claim for the above New Style of Cape, the following :

THAT they are perfectly Water-Proof.

That four of them weigh no more than one old-style Water-proof Cape.

That if worn in the rain twenty-four hours, they will not absorb any moisture; while the old style will nearly double its weight, and not keep the wearer dry, either.

That when rolled up, they will make a very compact bundle, which can be easily carried in the pocket; while the old style is as large and cumbersome as a woolen shawl.

That, being so light weight, and having no warmth, they are welcomed by all ladies for warm weather use, or to throw over a winter cloak in cold weather.

That they are not affected by either cold or heat, neither will they become soft and useless with rain, damp weather.

That all who have used the Gossamer Capes have expressed themselves perfectly satisfied with them.

That a lady who has a Gossamer in her pocket, can leave the troublesome umbrella at home; and, if the rain comes before she reaches shelter, with the Cape thrown over her, and the Hood over the bonnet, she is far better protected than she could be with an umbrella.
