Above will be found the picture of a modern gun of the kind that is being used in the present war. At a glance the gun and some old trees appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful scrutiny some soldiers' faces will be found. There are 19 of them in all. Can you find them? It is no easy task, but by patience and perseverance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses published below. If you find the faces mark each one you find with an X cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness will be considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time, but as there are TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and One Hundred premiums given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember, all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

We do not ask you to spend one cent of your money in order to enter this Contest.

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of cash prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

This competition will be judged by two well known business men of undoubted integrity, who have no connection with this company, whose decisions must be accepted as final.

Below will be found a partial list of the names and addresses of a few persons who have won some of our larger prizes in recent contests. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, as all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

An Alberta Girl.

Standard, Alberta, Oct. 11, 1914.

Dear Editor—I have been a silent reader of your paper for quite a while, and have enjoyed it very much. What is the matter with our Alberta boys and girls? I don't see many letters from them. I agree with "Freda" on some subjects. She talks with sense. I can't agree with what she says of fair-haired girls, for I happen to be a blonde. I think it is rather dull around here, there is nothing going on. I like to ride horseback very much. Why don't some of the girls talk of fancy work? I think it would be nice to send some crochet patterns to this paper if there was space for them. What I do most of my spare time is crochet. I did not read the letter of "Sunset Bill." I was not at home when the paper came, and we sent it to a friend.

We have taken The Western Home Monthly ever since we have been in Canada. Wishing it every success. I will close.

Miss Alberta.

Judging All Men.

Aha., Oct. 12, 1914.

Dear Editor—May I say, with the rest of your subscribers, that I enjoy reading little home, especially during the long winter evenings. What do you think, boys and girls? Say "Freda" what books have you read, and what kind of music do you like? I hope to see another of your letters in print soon.

Now Mr. Editor I must apologize for taking up so much time and space. Wishing you every success. I am, yours sincerely, Blonde.

From Time Immemorial.

Sask., Oct. 9, 1914.

Dear Editor—We have been subscribers to your valuable paper from time immemorial—I mean my parents have. Seeing "Freda's" letter I decided to back her up in some of her statements, some, not all, however. As to men snapping at yellow hair, I don't know anything about that. I have dark. I believe she is wrong in saying that all blondes are not to be trusted. I think that good and bad are to be found among both blondes and brunettes. A man "may" not care whether a girl can cook when he marries her, but he soon begins to, and to care very much too. Of course men like to be seen with a well-dressed girl. And what about the girls? Don't they like far better to be seen with a well-dressed man your magazine very much, and being particularly interested in your Correspondence Column would like to join your circle. I agree with "Conetta" about "appearances." They go a long way towards making yourself and others around you feel pleasanter. Poor "Sunset Bill," everyone is "pecking" at you this month. Now "Freda," I am going to scratch your eyes out, for I am one of the despised "blondes." I wonder if I can change your mind on one or two points. Do you not think you are judging all men by a rather insignificant type? Now, I am neither wealthy, good-looking, nor yet a plaything, but have a good many nice sensible boy friends and having discussed the subject of "girls" and "matrimony," etc., with them will give you their opinion. The average man likes a jolly, practical girl, who can talk sense, take in a few wholesome pleasures—skating, etc.—and who dresses stylishly—when the styles are not too outrageous—and is at all times neat, ladylike and good mannered. I don't think "he" cares whether she has money or not.

Madame Patti, the world's greatest singer, visits wounded in English Hospital

Now "Freda" you must forgive me for criticizing, and return the compliment. Your remark about the "gadding" girl with the quiet, business man for a husband, reminds me of something I would like to hear discussed. Now I don't think a girl should be everlastingly dragging her husband out to parties. But I think it would be so nice if some of the young married couples would entertain the young people more than they do. Now I do not mean to go to a lot of trouble or expense, but those in particular whose homes are miles away would enjoy spending an hour or two in a pleasant, cosy than with one with overalls and old shirt? Certainly they do. Some men do like to be seen with a person dressed in the very highest pinnacle of fashion, but the majority would much rather have a girl simply and tastefully dressed. I agree with you in saying that men do not like a woman to have more brains than they have, she is liable to understand them far better than they wish to be understood. Some men do want the girl for the sake of the money and possessions she has, but not quite all. Girls (you who are criticizing "Sunset Bill") I don't think you will be able to find one man in every five who would not try to hug and kiss a girl if he thinks she will let him. I believe in many cases they do it to test her, and I am sure his opinion of her is not raised if she allows him. Well I must stop or you will think I am an old crank. I may be a crank, but please don't apply the above adjective, as twenty is a year or two off yet. I will sign myself

Brunette.

Opinions Wanted.

Sask., Sept. 30, 1914.

Dear Editor—I cannot claim to be a subscriber, but as my brother has two, we have one of each issue, and I believe that much benefit can come of the Correspondence Columns in discussion of public questions.

I would like to hear different opinions on the Sask. Prov. Hail Insurance System, as there are a lot of farmers who are discontented with it for reasons which are hard to see. We were hailed out this year when all was cut but 7 acres, and yet the indemnity on those 7 acres has more than paid our tax (per 160 acres of 6.40) for 5 years, and many of our neighbors whose crops were not cut received $500.00 and $600.00 for the paltry tax of $6.40.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, the simplest and best cure offered to the public.
