Few were offered. One load was re-orted sold at $5.85 per cwt. Butchers.

The demand for butcher cattle from The demand for butcher cattle from the outside was strong, which helped to make an active market at steady prices. The best stall-fed butchers' cattle sold from $5.10 to $5.40; loads of fair to good, that had been in good condition when put on grass, sold at $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; medium, $4.40 to $4.60; good cows, $5.85 to $4.35; fair to medium cows, $3.50 to $3.75; common, $2.50 to $3.25 per cwt.

Feeders and Stocker.

Comparatively little business was transacted in the stocker and feeder departments to-day for there was not much material on hand with which to much material on high stockers did operate. Common light stockers did not sell readily. Most of the trade lately has been in the low grade stock. A few lots of light stockers sold at $3.25 to $3.75, and some even lower. Milkers and Springers.

Receipts in this department were very light to-day, and the market was barely steady. In fact, it was lifficult to sel: at last week's quotations, except for the very best. Common and medium cows, which sold at $25 to $35, are at the lowest point this season. The best were quotable up to $50, and but few have sold higher, or as high as that, during the past week.

Veal Calves. Good to prime veal calves sell readily at good prices, but not more than 5 to 10 per cent. of the deliveries are in these classes. The bulk of offerings to-day were of the grassy buttermilk class. The first-class sold at $5 to $6.50 per cwt., with an odd new ::lilk-fed calf at $7 per cwt; grassers and buttermilks sold at $3 to $4 per cwt. Sheep and Lambs.

The run being light, the market for sheep and lambs was very group, with prices firm. Export eves sold at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt.; bucks and culls at $3.75 to $4.25; spring lambs sold at $0 81-2c, and a few selected lots went Hogs.

The run of hogs was exceedingly light. Mr. Harris quotes selects at $6.90 and lights at $5.35 per cwt., with market strong at these quotations.

Life In the Blizzards and Snow-Wrapped Stillness - Cattle Starving-Suffering From Intense Cold-Faces Covered With Ice-Lost for Three Days-Were Scared by Timber Wolves.

The severity of last winter on the prairie and the hardships of the homesteaders are graphically given in this letter of an Ontario boy who went through the experience himself. He writes:

"What should happen on Good Friday—those measly oxen both croaked, and we dropped another $175. Say, you can't imagine how tough that was. But we wouldn't miss this witter's experience for considerable.

we have seen life of the with west prairie with a blizzard raging for two days and cattle starving in an-other man's stable while he was off on a jamboree. We either had to let them starve and freeze or run a chance of doing the same ourselves. Fed the Hay Roof.

"The owner had been away 12 days, and we had to feed the hay roof off The owner had been away 12 days, and we had to feed the hay roof off the sheds. Some calves appeared on the scene and things began to get worse. We had no grub ourselves and no way of getting any. We muffied up the best we could and drove the herd north in the teeth of a blizard to hay stacks. Now we had our troubles with some of those big steers putting them through four feet of snow. My face was covered with ice, with peep holes for my eyes and an epening for my mouth. Then we carried back hay for the cows with calves. We had to make two trips with horse blankets to do this. Then we killed off some ponitry and one pig and scraped up a little flour and fed the inner man. I had both knees and both big toes frozen badly, also the tops of my fingers and my nose. Well, we kept this sort of thing going 12 days, and during that time he lost two cattle, two calves, one dog, 25 hens, one pair of ducks, and our respect. Well, he came back with a yarn about them freezing, and we had to swallow it, of course. But when things got too thick we dared to beard the lion in his den, the Douglas in his hall." We walked into his shack and choked him against the wall, made him apologize for some reports he spread, for things he called us in the preliminary engagement, and also fork over $6. Now he is our best friend. Yes; but I always follow him in or out of a doorway. "Enough? Not yet. The guy who wintered our oxen, or failed to winter them is required to make a settlement. We do not yet know what we can do in this matter, but whatever it is we will do it to the full. He'll go back to Whitechapel if I pronounce sentence. a Boise, Idaho, July 17.—The rebuttal evidence during the forenoon session yesterday covered a wide range.

It started in California, returned to Idaho, and finished the session in Colorado.

Four witnesses supported the general attack now being made by the prosecution on the evidence by which the defence hopes to prove perjury against Harry Orchard.

The defence by consent recalled Guibinny, the San Francisco grocer who testified that it was possible for Orchard to have climbed from the Bradley porch to an adjoining roof. The San Francisco depositions assert that the roof Orchard says he hid on was not built for six months after the Bradley explosion. Guibinny got mixed upon this testimony.

T. C. Coggsvell of Wallace was called to testify to alleged mis-statements by Dr. L. C. McGee, who arrived here yesterday morning under arrest on a charge of perjury. The state offered in evidence a copy of The Idaho Tribune of May 20, 1899, which contains an account of the blowing up of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mine.

Decision for Lessening Losses.

The Hague, July 17.—It has been definitely decided that at the next plenary sitting of the conference Sir Edward Fry (Great Britain) will present a proposition regarding the limitation of armaments. This proposition will be a repetition, in a more energetic form, of the order of the day on the same subject presented by M. Bourgéoise by the conference of 1891 and approved by that body.

T. M. C. Asser (Nemerlands) will propose that the limitation of armaments be brought about in a practical way through the permanent court of arbitration by broadening the scope of this court, and, so far as possible, making its findings compulsory.

A plenary sitting of the committee on maritime warfare, Count Torrelli presiding, was held over. After, a lively discussion the committee reached the first important conclusion arrived at since the conference began Laugh While You Eat. No matter how strong the digestion may be naturally, it is no very difficult matter to weaken it, and, no matter how feeble it may be, it is always possible to do something to strengthen it.

A good digestion resembles many of the other blessings of life in this-it is eldom really valued until it is lost.

When people have for years adopted the foolish practice of bolting their food without taking the trouble as to its proper mastication they can hardly wonder that a new condition of things arises which cannot be cured in a few weeks.

If we treat our acquaintances badly we quickly turn them into enemie and if our ill treatment is long continued it may be impossible, even by the best treatment, to regain their friendship.

It is much the same with our digestive apparatus. If we wish to be in good grace with it we must treat it with every possible consideration.

In how great a measure Mr. Fegan ewes his life to Providence or chance is shown by the fact that it was Mr. Heywood's half holiday, and he is not generally at home then.

"They were lucky to catch me," he said. The supposed deceased's brother told Mr. Heywood that there was no necessity for him to take measurements. Holding up a piece of string he said: "This is the width of my brother, and he is the same height as myself and no stouter." But Mr. Heywood thought it advisable to follow his usual practice and take his own measurements.

When the present caretaker came into residence, four years ago, he little dreamed of the unpleasant tenants already in possession. But in the fellowing spring he had a painful revelation. He attempted a little innocent gardening, and was badly stung for his pains.

During the last four seasons he has been stung all over his body and chased about the farm times without number. Once last year he was laid low with a sting which almost deprived him of his eyesight.

Had old Dr. Watts been living at Sedgebrook farm he would never have been inspired to moralise on the industry of the "little busy bee," for it sorely vexes the spirit of these hospital bees to see anybody try to "improve the shining hour."
