The Muddling-Through Government.

One of the most amusing features of the present political situation is to be found in the Daily News this morning. The Morrison organ booms Sir Edward Morris as a business statesman. It will be remembered that the Hon. Donald Morrison before the Morris-Morison commission got possession of the Government was a strong advocate of a business government. During the past four years the country at large has had an opportunity of seeing the Morrison theory carried out in practice, for the Daily News would have its readers understand that the present administration is a business government. The Daily News does not seem to be seriously disturbed by the fact that the Hon. R. K. Bishop is on record as to the failure of the present government to apply business principles to government affairs. Or it may be that the Morrison organ has forgotten this confession of the failure of the Morris-Morison government. The public at large, however, has many concrete examples of that failure before them. They have not forgotten the huge grants of timber limits, nor the Hon. Donald Morrison's connection with some of them. Nor have they forgotten the purchase of the two costly spars. Nor the award of seasonal contracts to a company, of which two members of the Government were directors. Then again there is the enormous waste which has gone on in connection with the Agricultural Policy of the Government. The grants made to Commissioners for all sorts of purposes in flagrant disregard of the pledge to give the control of such expenditures to Executive Road Boards. What business acumen was displayed in these wasteful wastes it would be an outrage even to pretend. What business foresight was displayed by Sir Edward Morris in agreeing to pay to the Contractors of the Branch Railway Building in gold instead of cash? This financial blundering has already increased the financial burdens of the people largely. Again, what business

Furness Liner In Port on Fire.
The s.s. Manchester-Port, Capt. Statt of the Furness Withy Line, bound from Montreal to Manchester, laden with general cargo and a quantity of deal, put into port this morning with her bunkers smouldering as the result of fire on board. After leaving Montreal seven days ago the ship called at "Three Rivers." On Monday last fire was discovered near No. 2 hold, which is called the cross bunkers, and amidships and where three hundred tons of coal was kept. Luckily, however, the blaze was discovered in the early stage. The ship has its own apparatus on board, such as hoses, and immediately all the crew were engaged fighting the fire. As soon as the hatches were taken off the bunkers there was a regular outburst of flame and smoke. The efforts of the crew who worked like true British seamen, was made difficult by the fact that there was considerable cargo on top of the burning coal. The work of removing this cargo to get at the fire, which was down underneath, was done under difficulties. Despite the three streams of water kept playing into the hold, the fire began to gain headway as the flames were fanned by a strong breeze of wind. Some workwood adjoining No. 2 hold then ignited and the fire fighters had to devote their efforts to prevent a further outbreak. The seamen were worn out and exhausted after working strenuously all Monday night. They had to take watches to lay down to get a meal, but notwithstanding every man stood to duty's post. On Tuesday afternoon the fire was got under control and featuring the damages were extensive, Capt. Statt decided to put into St. John's and arrived as mentioned. The origin of the fire is somewhat mysterious although the captain and engineers are unanimous that spontaneous combustion is the cause. The ship was examined to-day by Lloyd's Surveyor. So far the extent of damage is unknown and the ship will berth at the Furness Withy Line wharf to have the damaged cargo taken out. The Manchester Port is a sister ship to the Manchester-Investor, which put in here last year in a disabled state.
