WILSON INTO THE BREACH.

We hope we shall not have to wait for the mails to bring us the full text of President Wilson's great speech to Congress. Its utterance at so critical a time, the direction to Congress to declare war upon Austria, the clear enunciation, not of the terms which the Allies would demand, but of the just principles on which they would be founded, the ringing exhortation to America to remain steadfast until the great end is achieved—all these stamp the speech as one of the greatest of the war, challenged only by his own last April, when his country entered the lists, and equalling it in the importance of the effects that are certain to follow. For these will be various and tremendous, they will be felt in every nation involved in the struggle. First, he crushes the peace-mongers; Lansdowne and Asquith are answered, though their names are not used. Second, the impossible idea of detaching Austria from Germany is abandoned; Austria becomes an open enemy and Italy will be further heartened and invigorated. Third, Russia is plainly warned: she can make choice of her destiny. If she chooses peace with those whom the Allies will fight until they crush them, she has first the chance to ask herself what it will mean to her in the end. Fourth, Germany and Austria can see and know what they have to face, the reality of the struggle before them that will begin in grim earnest next year, the steady flow and increment of the resources of a fresh enemy of one hundred millions to a line of battle on which they themselves can make no impression and before which they are being slowly but remorselessly borne back. We have heard too many rumours of Austria's peace longing to pay much attention to the latest news of demonstrations and riots within her borders, but the addition of this great foe to the existing number that face her may now give them more point. This tremendous blow from Washington follows with great effect upon the heels of the fine victory of the last few days before Cambrai, for, judged by the only true standard of the loss of men, it has been a victory and a very great one. Germany knows the terrible thing she faces on the West front already: what can her thoughts be as she looks to the future?

Wilson's speech may be set over against the message from the Manchester Guardian, that the Opposition Liberals in England are entirely favourable to the Lansdowne letter. They are worthily led by Asquith, fast discovering himself in his true colors. These are the men who, before the war, would have, if they could, scrapped the British navy and left not even the contemptible little army that blocked the way to Calais. They are the remnants and adherents of the Asquith Government, that did what it could to make Britain lose the war, that sent thousands to their death in the Dardanelles fiasco, that dispatched Townshend and his men to their certain fate, that betrayed Serbia and Roumania. Birds of a feather flock together. We can imagine how they welcome the latest addition to the flock, with his brave plumage. This Lansdowne, who now counsels peace, is the doughty Lansdowne who was ready to fight in the last ditch against the plebeian commoners when the country had twice spoken its mind in 1911, who waved his wooden sword and bade the enemy step over his noble body before they should gain their end. But they gained it, and the noble body and wooden sword were ignominiously hustled out of the way. If it were a question of granting the smallest measure of self-government to Ireland, there would be no talk of peace from this brave warrior. The wooden sword would be out again, the noble nostrils quiver defiance. After all, even greatness is a relative term. England might not be so proud of her great men if she had not some to be ashamed of.

Missionary Meeting at the Cove.

Portugal Cove was gallily bedecked with flags yesterday in honour of a visit to the place by the Rev. Canon White, Bishop-Elect, who went out from the city last evening to attend the annual missionary meeting, an event which is always looked forward to with much interest by the good people of the Cove. Rev. C. E. Moulton, Curate of St. Thomas's, and Mr. H. V. Mott accompanied the Bishop-Elect, all of whom were entertained by the Rector, Rev. A. E. Legge, and Mrs. Legge. Eloquent and impressive addresses were given by the visitors and a substantial offering received. On behalf of the congregation Rev. Mr. Legge thanked Canon White, Rev. Mr. Moulton and Mr. Mott for their excellent addresses.

Represented on Land, Sea and Air

Word was received a few days ago from Flight Lieut. Max Brown, of the Imperial Royal Flying Corps, Toronto, that he had received five hours' notice to prepare to start for overseas. Lieut. Brown is a native of King's Cove, B.B., and before leaving here for Western Canada about six years ago was employed at Ayre & Sons' store, Bishop's Falls. He joined the Flying Corps early this spring and quite recently paid a hurried visit to his relatives at the historic settlement of King's Cove, which now boasts representatives on land, sea and air. King's Cove has been noted for the men it has produced in religious, professional and commercial life, some of whom occupy the highest positions in the land, and now that its young men are serving the Empire in all branches of the Imperial service, we doubt not that they possess the stuff to make good.

Serious Assault Case Pending.

A resident of Mannuels named Morgan now lies at the General Hospital suffering from injuries received from another man named Dawe. It appears that the relationship between both men had been always of a friendly character up to a few days ago when the hostile feeling arose. A hot discussion was followed by an altercation in which Morgan received a kick in a vital portion of the body and at first appeared to be dangerously hurt. Dawe was arrested by Const. Humber and brought to the city, charged with doing grievous bodily harm to his neighbour. It has since been ascertained that Morgan is out of danger and Dawe has been released from custody under heavy bonds to appear when called upon. Morgan's recovery is only a question of another few days.

Concert and Sociable at Kilbride.

A most enjoyable concert and entertainment was given last night at the Kilbride School by a number of city folks. A programme consisting of songs, choruses and comic sketches were given, those taking part being Messrs. Wiseman, Lynch, Hodder, Walsh, Doyle, Misses Petrie and Ryan. After the performance the Rev. Pastor, Fr. Coady, thanked the ladies and gentlemen from the city who had given them such an enjoyable evening's entertainment, Mr. J. Doyle, who promoted the affair, and all who by their attendance helped to make it such a success. At the club rooms refreshments were served and a very enjoyable social hour spent, all dispersing and voting it one of the most enjoyable evenings spent in the parish for some time. The proceeds realized go towards the new church fund.

Big Recruiting Meeting at Bell Island.

The recruiting meeting held last night at Bell Island under the auspices of the Patriotic Association of the Island, was most enthusiastic and it is anticipated that good results will follow. Addresses were given by the Minister of Militia, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Mr. W. J. Higgins, M. H.A., Magistrate Power, Major Rendell, Lieutenants Bethune, Parsons, Sergeants Eddy and Stead. All the speakers spoke forcefully and plainly intimated to the audience that if voluntary recruiting failed to produce recruits it would be necessary to take steps to secure the men so badly needed. Messrs. Bennett and Higgins were fully confident in the manhood and patriotism of the young men of the country and felt sure the number of men required would come forward this month. The C. C. Band was present and rendered many lively and patriotic selections. The meeting, which was held in the C. L. B. Armoury closed at 11.30 with the singing of the National Anthem. The recruiting party returned to the city this morning.

Police Court.

(Before Judge Morris). The charge against a business man for a breach of the Inflammable Substances Act—having seven casks of kerosene oil on his premises—was dismissed, it being shown that the defendant did not own the stuff, but by characteristic generosity had purchased the oil for another poor man whom he was anxious to help out. The police are determined to prosecute the real owner in the interest of the public safety, as they claim they received complaints about the oil in question.

Two business men were summoned for having employed teamsters under 18 years of age. One was fined the minimum, $1, or 3 days and costs; the other did not appear and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

THE LAST SURVIVOR OF BOU HILL WOOD

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In the issue which flashed across the 30th ult., and published on the 1st inst. I saw the name of No. 689 Sergeant J. Morrissey, M.M., No. 45, a brave lad, who, I understand, of Mr. Peter Morrissey, of St. John's, and a citizen of St. John's, who I say again "Hats Off" to his brave son John, who is a survivor of the famous Bou Hill Wood heroes who, by the late heroic soldier Donnelly.

In my office I have placed the presentation of the Medal to Sergt. J. J. Morrissey, of the 1st Nfld. Regiment, presented by General Sir Francis Lloyd, London District. In the g also Rt. Hon. Sir Wm. Morrissey, Governor of Newfoundland, Rector, Esq., C.M.G., Hon. S. Newfoundland War Contingent; Lieut.-Col. Bruce P. M.G., Officer Commanding Newfoundland Regiment; Lieut. of St. John's, and Major H. A. Timewell, of the Newfoundland Regiment. The presentation took place at the 2nd of February, 1917. Sergt. Morrissey is one of the country should be honoured. I noticed from 1st papers that he is back to his hospital.

Is this not a noble young man fighting for his country? What are you doing? Are you take his place?

My profound sympathy goes to the fathers and mothers of the lads who have laid down their lives, fighting for you in the on the battle-field.
