Midnight Sensa- tion in House.

Mr. F. Archibald, M.H.A. For Harbor Grace, Breaks With Government -- Others May Follow
Lead Thus Given--Government Indifferent to Unemployed.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the House was taken up in a discussion of the unemployment situation. The Opposition members appealing to the Government to grapple with conditions which are daily growing more serious. The member for St. George's, Mr. MacDonnell, moved that the session adjourn for that purpose. The Govern-ment by a vote of 16 to 18 turned down the proposition and the session ad-journed at 6.30 without any business being done.

The session opened at 3 p.m. when after the Minutes were read Mr. M. S. Sullivan and Sir Michael Cashin gave notice of questions. Mr. MacDonnell in speaking on the unemployment charged the Govern-ment with hair splitting, low tricks and hardfaced lying in dealing with the situation. The present, with a great number of people, was a question of life or death and the Government's duty was to see that means were provided to keep people from starvation, and if it could not provide the means of livelihood then it ceased to be a Govt. and became defunct. Why tie up the resources of the country, said the member for St. George's, to provide an Employment Bureau, not grasping with the situation. He warned the Government to get busy before it would be too late.

The Prime Minister explained that approximately 160 men had received employment from the labor Bureau, and that up to then 150 pressing cases had been reported to Major Butler, and about 511 names had been regis-tered.

Mr. MacDonnell wished to know if the Prime Minister implied that there was only 511 cases of unemployment in the city.

Prime Minister.—Yes. . . In concluding Mr. MacDonnell moved that the session adjourn so that the matter could be received the attention of the House.

Mr. M. S. Sullivan in supporting the motion said the country was going to be faced with more trying conditions than at present, and that it was of no use waiting until it was too late before seeking a remedy. The cry of no work is being heard all over the country and it was apparent to everybody that the Prime Minister was not the faintest idea of the conditions exist- ing, especially in Placentia Bay. The share of the per capita grant, $34,000, was not nearly sufficient to carry the residents of this district through the terrible times they were experiencing, said the Hon. Member, who continues, enumerated cases where whole fam- ilies are dying of starvation, without prospects of relief, the relieving officers being powerless to render fur- ther aid.

Mr. Higgins urged upon the Govern- ment the necessity of dealing with the unusual situation in an unusual way. He thought that 500 men was the very minimum of those unemployed, and he would state in the Municipality of St. John's alone there was between 900 and 1000 heads of families without any work, to which must be added the girls and young men formerly working in the factories. Mr. Higgins gave his hearty support to the motion.

The Prime Minister informed Mr. Higgins that he had conferred with the Road Commission and had offered $2,000 to be expended on roads in the West End, provided the Commission would expend an equal amount.

Mr. J. R. Bennett in speaking on the situation said that it could not be over- come by a grant of 10 or 12 thousand dollars. There were hundreds unem- ployed besides those that had regis- tered, and the numbers were being added to as the days go by. The Sales Tax imposition has not improved matters said the speaker and it may result in our remaining factories closing down. Temporary relief would only tide the country over until the House closed which under the circumstances should not be considered, and he advised the Government to adjourn the House so that should the occasion arise the As- sembly could meet within 24 hours and deal with any situation.

Mr. Walsh thought it was only wast- ing time to talk of 2 or 10 thousand dollars relieving the situation. At least there were 10,000 people out of em- ployment. There were 600 fishermen in the district of Placentia and St. Mary's that were not earning a cent, because they could not get supplies. It was useless to look anywhere for employ- ment and the chances of getting it out- side the colony were very slight. Men who had gone to Sydney are being de- ported from that place because they had not sufficient funds upon landing. Something concrete should be done to overcome the present crisis, and he agreed with the suggestion of Mr. Ben- nett that the House should not close.

Mr. P. Moore explained to the House that he did not vote to cut out the $10,000 to the Motor Association, which was under discussion at a previous session. He would vote ten millions to relieve the situation. He supported the motion made by Mr. MacDonnell.

Mr. N. Vincombe also supported the motion. He taxed the Prime Minister with evading the unemployed situa- tion in the city by throwing the respon- sibility on the Municipal Council. The latter had $50,000 loaned by the Gov- ernment, which the Prime Minister could use immediately to give employ- ment. This would be better than build- ing a Long Bridge, perhaps at elec- tion time.

Dr. Jones thought that the labor situation was serious the whole coun- try over, and while serious now would become appalling during the coming winter. He emphasized the necessity of the Government doing something im- mediately.

Mr. MacDonnell, interjecting, said it was not a question of getting road money, but was one of opening or de- vising some big proposition that would assist the whole country. The fish- men had been put out of business and a whole day had been spent by the Government quibbling over $10,000.

Such a proposition as putting the rail- road in shape would be something like what was needed, and if the Govern- ment could not handle such let them resign. They had proved to be either totally incapable or totally indiffer- ent.

Sir John Crobie proposed that the $10,000 vote to the Motor Association be earmarked for immediate work in St. John's East and West. Speaking of unemployment in the Outports, Sir John said he had messages from his district appealing for help. In many instances these referred to large fam- ilies who are absolutely starving. In answer to a question the Prime Min- ister informed him that no more men were to go to Sydney, as there was no employment to be had there at present.

Capital Lewis said that St. John's only represented the condition of 40,000 people, but there were 200,000 more no better off, and the Govern- ment members had not said one word to get help for the constituents they represented. It was the duty, he thought, of the Government to try and make some arrangement with the A. N. D. Co. at Grand Falls. The distress in the Outports, said the member for Main, is even greater than in St. John's, and it was being aggravated by the new taxes imposed. The latter makes the dollar only worth about 50 cents. The outrageous duty of 70 cents had been imposed on a barrel of flour, this he thought should not be and if the Government needed extra revenue the tax should not be placed on the man who catches a cod fish, but rather on champagne, silk stockings, motor cars and the like. The tariff has been camouflaged charged, Capt. Lewis, but the people will not be fooled that way. It is necessary that something big be done and done quickly, and if the country had to go into Canada it was as well to enter with 70 million that as 50 million. Concluding the speaker ad- vised the Prime Minister to get some competent person to revise the tariff.

Mr. C. J. Fox in seconding the mo- tion made by Mr. MacDonnell referred to an article in the days issue of the Evening Telegram on the unemployed. He wondered as to how far it was logical or competent for anyone to ask the Government to move in matter that had been brought to his notice so often during the past six weeks. The Prime Minister he said, smiles in the face of the most serious situation that ever faced the country. After reading the article referred to he asked the Prime Minister if he had replied to the appeal made, the latter said that the matter was referred to Major Butler. After receiving the answer Mr. Fox gave the Government a severe casti- gation for its indifference. Some of the Government members, are of as much service to the country as the Wooden Indian in St. John's tobacco shop. There were only as voting units. The time had come when the Government as a whole was in a serious predicament. It had written itself down as the most unskillful and incapable crowd that the world had ever seen. The present method of relieving the distress was not at all adequate, and he would ad- vise adopting the motion of Mr. Mac- Donnell without delay.

When the motion was put and a divi- sion called for the vote showed:

For the Motion.—Sir M. P. Cashin,
Sir J. C. Crobie, Messrs. MacDonnell,

Fox, Moore, Vincombe, Higgins,
Walsh, Sinnott, Sullivan, Jones, Lewis, Bennett.—18.
Against the Motion.—Premier Squires, Foote, Barnes, Warren, Winsor, Abbott, Coaker, Targett, Halfyard, Crosbie, Jernigan, LeDroff, Scammell, Cave, Hibbs, Samson.—16.
After the vote was taken the House went into Committee on supply, and after some progress had been made, adjournment for tea was announced by the Speaker.

MR. ARCHIBALD LEAVES GOVT.
Mr. Archibald's brilliant and lengthy speech in which he stated that he would fol- low any leader who would take the country out of its present mess Mr. F. Archibald, member for the district of Harbor Grace created a sensation in the House last night by removing his seat with people in his district whose an independent member, amidst up- roarous cheering from the galleries.

Following recess the Debate on Sup- ply was continued. After Sir John Crobie had concluded his lengthy ad- dress, Mr. Archibald rose to speak. He stated that he felt the House and the whole people that the Govern- ment laid their future policy on the table of the House. The people in his district were despairing in spite of his efforts, and in spite also of the sup- plies provided through the Govern- ment. He wished to tell the House and the whole people that the country was drifting towards ruin. He shocked the House by stating that he had met with people in his district whose very bones were protruding from their skin although he had done all he could to relieve their wants. The Minister had been looking to him for supplies and relief and in every way possible, he had rendered assist- ance. The time for the Minister to be at an end. Those men willing and able to go to the fishery should be helped to go and those who had to stay behind through no fault of their own should receive protection. He for one, had no intention of deceiving anyone in the country. He accused the Government of such deception meant the sacrifice of his own personal honour, and the honour of his district. He had distributed supplies as best he could, but this method of handing them out was anything but satisfactory. He said that hundreds more needed supplies and declared that he feared the con- sequences if they could not go to the fishery. In any case, what was to be done in the time for the Minister to be at an end? He asked the Govern- ment of not having the interests of the country at heart. If they had they would not have allowed things to come to such a dire pass, without mak- ing any efforts to prevent it. "I am not," said Mr. Archibald, "prepared to sit any longer with such a party who is incapable, or not big enough to do something for a struggling country."

Continuing, he referred to Sir John Crobie's remarks in the earlier part of the session and asked: "How did Mr. Crobie agree with Sir John that Hawes was a menace, why did the Minister not agree with him now on the same matter. Idle words were of no use. There was no- thing to be gained by setting up a foot of parade and making people live in it. Many things had been said by the Opposition during the session: ac- cusations and criticisms had been hurled at the Government and through it all they had sat silent. He had latterly discovered that whereas there were men in his district unable to sell a cod's tail of their fish, others in more favoured districts had been able to re- ceive their catches. He said that un- fortunately, there was no such thing as public opinion in this country, but he had no intention of hesitating to express his opinion as a Newfound- lander and to help save his country from destruction. What was needed was a man who was big enough to save Newfoundland from its present perilous position and he wished to in- form the people of St. John's that it did not mean to him whether that man came from the Opposition or the Gov- ernment side of the House. If he thought him the right man, he would not mind his support. Mr. Archibald said it was pitiable to see the Government forced to borrowing $5,000,000 for the purpose of spending on an Executive Ad- ministration. The independent people of this colony could not live on pauper relief indefinitely. What of the men who worked on Bell Island, why were the mines closed down? Almost since the opening of the House the Order Paper contained a notice of motion dealing with an agreement between the Com- panies operating there and the Gov- ernment. Why has this matter not been discussed and why at this late date taken off the Order Paper. He did not know if these Resolutions were in any way responsible for the closing down of the mines or not, but it was the business of the public to find out. Mr. Archibald then went on to deal with the Government's attempt at economy and suggested that the at least, for the present, the vote for the Department of Agriculture and Mines, should be cut out. Speaking of the Fish Regu- lations he said that last year he had cast his vote for them with honesty of pur- pose but as soon as the House had been prorogued they had become subject to the Governor in Council. If mistakes were made through the operation of the Regulations, and such had been made, they should have been annulled by the Governor in Council instead of allowing them to remain, to ruin the country. He had also voted for the Railway Loan little dreaming of what was to be done. After the House had closed last year the Executive Ad- ministration took everything into their own hands and governed the country as they pleased. He had no intention, however, of discussing politics. The only thing that should be discussed under present circumstances was the salvation of a misgoverned country. The man who could step out from either side of the House and solve the problem which was now staring us in the face, would have his entire sup- port. Until then he would sit alone. Amid enthusiastic applause for his courage in being the first to break the ties that bound him to an incapable Government Mr. Archibald then moved his desk to the centre of the floor. It now only remained to be seen who would be the next to follow the example of the member for Harbor Grace. Sometime after midnight the House adjourned until this afternoon.
