Extraordinary Distribution of Popular Products

Makes Strong Impression on Crowds

Justly proud of the success that has attended the marketing of the various products, he represents recognized everywhere as leaders both in popularity and quality—Gerald S. Doyle adopted a convincing method to show the crowds who attended the exhibition yesterday how widely used his goods are all over the country. A large may of Newfoundland is prominently displayed in the centre of the very attractive booth and a colored pin is stuck in each place where the goods are sold. The map is literally dotted with pins, every nook and corner shows a distributing centre for these well known goods. The different products are tastefully arranged on fancy pedestals. One is given entirely to Dr. Chase's Emulsion. Another shows Scott's Emulsion. The Pro-phy-lac-tic Brushes also receive prominent display and the fam-

By last mail Errol Munn was informed that he had won a prize of $5 in a radio contest held by the Sycamore Chamber of Commerce on the proved himself to be the king of all juvenile trotters by winning the classic of all classics, the $14,000 Kentucky Futurity in record-breaking time, smashing not only the record for the event but also the world's record for three-year-olds, and also the world's record for two heats by a stallion of any age.

The pace-maker in each heat was the big colt, Guy Richard, for the first time since the Readville meeting showing his true form, trotting a wonderful race but finishing second to the champion. From where he got off in the first heat, Guy Richard was separately timed in 2:01 3/4.

Three days later, Mr. McElwain added more fame to his name by trotting a mile in 2:00 1/4, a truly wonderful exhibition.

Thomas W. Murphy added another mare to the "charmed circle" by driving Rose Scott a mile in 1:59 1/4, a remarkable performance, for a few weeks ago she was a very sick mare. The Castleton and the May Day were won by Etta Druhen and Aileen Guy, both mares trotting sensational miles.

"S'Manthy" Gets Big Ovation at Casino

BEAUTIFUL PLAY ENACTED BY YOUNG-ADAMS CO.

The Young-Adams Company last night delighted one and all by their excellent presentation of "Over the Hill S'Manthy." Out of the rat of the usual run of plays, entirely different from anything we have seen in many seasons is this fascinating piece. The play opens in the farm house of Granny Pelham (Mabelle Leverton) who suddenly discovers that she is worth a million dollars due to the fact that a gusher of oil has been found on her property. Immediately her relatives appear on the scene and hasten her to make a will. Granny dies and much to the surprise of her money-mad relatives she leaves the bulk of her estate to her little friend and helper "S'Manthy" and "Nimrod Hawkins," another assistant on the farm. This, naturally causes friction amongst the relatives, but eventually everything turns out alright. Marjole Adams as "S'Manthy" gave a perfect performance of a rather difficult role, and at times during the emotional scenes you could almost hear a pin drop. H. Wilmot Young delighted his numerous friends by his masterful characterization of "Nimrod Hawkins." Mr. Young brings to life this part with admirable precision. Lemuel Calhoun the county lawyer was indeed well interpreted by Edward H. Stauffer. Mabelle Leverton as Granny Pelham was particularly true to life. The dainty Marjole Adams gave a delightful account of herself as Adeline Hannibal. Miss Young has indeed proven herself an actress of versatility. Edgar Harris Jason plays a genuinely good role as the husband of Adeline, and his performance came in for much comment. The other roles were individually good as played by Joe Lyonell, Ann McNeill and Alfred Stratton.

Back Sore?

Rub well with Minard's. It penetrates and takes out stiffness.

Vaudeville numbers between the acts were contributed by Mabelle Leverton, Ann McNeil, Frank Bellier and The Durands. Each performer was compelled to respond to repeated curtain calls. To-night the same bill will be played and also at the matinee to-morrow. Wednesday night's bill will be "East Lynne," and as seats are selling rapidly we advise you to book yours soon.

Beautiful Theme in Big Photoplay

"NAME THE MAN" OPENED AT NICKEL LAST NIGHT.

Whether or not a woman should forgive everything in the man she loves is the underlying theme of the Goldwyn photoplay, "Name the Man!" which was shown last night at the Nickel Theatre, where it will remain for two days more. Whether her love should triumph and her pride be submerged no matter what he has done, or whether she would let him suffer on his own salvation, is the problem presented.

In Hall Caine's characters from "The Master of Man," the question is worked out. Conrad Nagel as Victor Stowell, Patsy Ruth Miller as Fennella, and Mae Busch as Bessie Collister, are the principals involved.

Victor, who really loves Fennella, is caught in a web of circumstances, and since Bessie, the victim of circumstance also, does everything in her power to protect him from the girl he loves and from his public. But when suspicion dawns upon Fennella, and she realizes that he is guilty, her only comment is a sharp slap across his face.

However, when facing an incensed mob, he makes a complete confession, she glories in his honesty, her love again triumphs and she rushes to protect him from being stoned.

"Name the Man!" Victor Seastrom has justified Goldwyn's judgment in bringing him from Sweden to direct pictures for it. Lovers of this form of entertainment should see to it by their support of his productions that Seastrom is never allowed to stop directing photoplays in America. "Name the Man!" is one picture which deserves the word "great" in all its implications.

night of Oct. 15th, 1924. Sycamore, Illinois, is situated on the outskirts of Chicago. It boasts of being the home of prosperous industry, 5,000 friendly people, and a wide awake Chamber of Commerce. The latter is leaving no stone unturned to boost their town, and encourage there the establishment of industries in addition to the twelve already established there. It was in connection with this boosting programme that the Chamber of Commerce broadcasted their programme on October 15th from the Chicago Tribune Broadcasting Station located at Drake Hotel, Chicago. Their slogan for that night was "Consider Sycamore a Considerable Town." Mr. Munn was the longest distance receiver of the message who responded.
