At this point the Viceroy called for his official interpreter, Li Fong Lu, to whom he made the following reply: "The choice of the Canadian route was determined for two reasons. Regarding the Geary Act, Li Hung Chang said: "The Chinese exclusion act is most unfair. Competition is good for any country. Competition keeps the markets in a healthy condition, whether this competition is in the price of labor or commodity. The Geary Act was brought about by the Democratic party, and the Irish people, because the Chinese are the rivals of the Irish laborers. Put aside the fact that I am a high official and speaking as a cosmopol-itan, let me ask if such a law is in the interests of the American people? Is it good policy to exclude cheap labor? Would you exclude cheap commodities? You are proud of your ingenuity; you boast of your liberty and freedom, but there is no freedom of labor. I cannot see the fruits and the effects of the liberty. You are not only a people of great inventions, but you are a country of large agricultural resources and a country of commerce and industry. They Ransack the Bedrooms in Mr. Cushing's House.

Entered the House by the Front Door While the Family Were at Dinner-Carry Off $100 Worth.

A daring piece of burglars' work was performed on Friday afternoon at the residence of Messrs. William and Edward Cushing, Wharncliffe road, London West. The robbery occurred at 12:30, and while the family of seven persons enjoyed the mid-day meal in the dining-room, one solitary man was going through the bureau drawers upstairs helping himself to the valuables as he came across them. The man entered by the front door while his confederate kept watch. Re Points Out Objectionable Features in He took from a bureau drawer in the bedroom a lady's gold watch, lady's locket, a silver chain and fob. The locket was set with a ruby, sapphire, and diamond. He also took some small silver coins, but overlooked a very valuable watch in the same drawer. None of these things were

When the articles were missed it dawned upon Mr. Cushing that the man whom he had seen coming out of the house on Friday must have been the thief. Mr. Cushing says his loss is $100. He noticed that the men were both young and clean shaven and about 5 feet 8 inches in height. One of them wore a soft felt hat and the other a stiff one.

Miss Cushing reported the case to Detective Ward in London West, and to Detective Nickle in the city. The burglars evaded the eagle eye of the county "detectives," and came over into the city to operate, and were all but successful at the residence of Mr. Hiscott. Had Mr. Cushing's robbery been given to the newspapers, Mr. Hiscott and everybody else would have been on the lookout for them. The stolen time-piece is a hunting case, Waltham movement watch, and is beautifully engraved. The locket was a square one, and the fob of the stolen chain made of a 25, a 10 and a

Why Some Pupils from Aberdeen Farmers and Their Friends Want More Room on the Square.

Headmaster Kirk Makes an Explicit Statement, Which Shows He Was the Unhitching of Horses. Blameless.

The complaint made by a few parents of pupils residing in the Aberdeen school district (No. 3 ward) sent into the trustees at the last meeting of the Board of Education has caused considerable interest in the city. The charge was made that the children had not passed the recent entrance examination through the fault of the teacher, Mr. Kirk, whose reputation as an educationalist is high.

School Failed to Pass.

Mr. Kirk's side of the matter will no doubt be given at the next meeting of the committee, but, in justice to all parties, The Advertiser places it before the public at once. An Advertiser reporter called upon Head Master Kirk this morning, and re-suested him to supply the facts regarding the matter.

Mr. Kirk said: "During the two years, ending June 1896, sixty pupils were admitted to my room, from room 7. Of these, three passed the examination to enter grade 8 (the entrance chass). All the others did seventh grade work, until provision-ally admitted to grade 8; so that some of them might have the privilege of writing for entrance to the Collegiate Institute. No pupil of Aberdeen school, having passed the regular promotion examination to grade 8, exer failed to pass the next ensuing entrance examination. None of the children of the petitioners ever succeeded in passing the promotion examination to grade 8, nor has any one of them been longer than two years in my room, either in grade 7 or grade 8, or in both combined. Sept. 1, 1896, was the first time in the history of the school when all the pupils admitted to grade 8 were by examination, and after having regularly passed the same. Head Master Kirk also supplied the

A Petition in Circulation to Compel

There was a large quantity of tomatoes on the London market this morning of a good quality. They sold from 15 cents per basket to 50 cents per bushel. Butter was also cheap. Rolls could be bought for 15 to 16 cents, while the same price was asked for crock. Hay is bought up as quickly as it appears, at $8 to $8 50 per ton.

Much has been said and written about the shiftless horses on the market on a crowded day; but the parties concerned took active steps this morning to present to the City Council the need of a bylaw compelling those who come on the market to stand for any length of time to remove their horses, which are often dangerous, and cause no end of inconvenience. The following petition was put in circulation this morning, and in one hour over one hundred names were attached to it:

"We, the undersigned farmers and market gardeners, who come to your market to sell our produce, humbly pray that your honorable body will, at your earliest convenience, pass a bylaw compelling all parties offering produce for sale, with the exception of grain, hay, straw and dressed hogs, to take their horses, or other animals, out of the vehicles, and have the same stabled and properly cared for and looked after. By doing this, room will be made upon the market, and much inconvenience and loss to us, in the shape of broken shafts, etc., will be saved. The humanitarian part of this is well worth consideration by your honorable body for passing a bylaw."

Accidental Shooting

It Is Thought to Have Caused Alex, McIntyre's Death.

The Unfortunate Boy Will Be Buried Today in Alvinston, Ont.

A Cleveland dispatch says: "Alexander McIntyre, formerly of London, Ont., committed suicide here last (Tuesday) night. The remains were shipped to London, Ont. Deceased was a son of D. C. McIntyre, of Detroit, general manager of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company, and was 20 years of age." The Cleveland Press of Tuesday evening says: "The young man occupled a room over the office in the building of the company at the foot of Superior street. At 9.45 a.m., Tuesday, the janitress of the building was startled by the sound of a gunshot in McIntyre's room. She opened the door and saw the young man lying across the bed, attired in a suit of underwear and with blood streaming from the wound in his breast. Physicians were summoned promptly, but McIntyre was dead when they arrived. J. P. Williams, cashier of the in August, 1895. She failed in arithmetic obtaining 11 marks out of a pany. He could give no motive for act. Mr. McIntyre (the father) thinks that there was no suicide, but that death was due to an accident. Young McIntyre shot himself with a Winchester repeating shotgun.'

PROBABLY ACCIDENTAL. The Detroit Free Press says: "It is now generally thought that the fatal shooting of young Alex. McIntyre, of this city, at Cleveland, Tuesday morning, was accidental. It seems that he and his father slept in different beds in the same room over the ticket of-fice of the Detroit and Cleveland line, on the Superior street hill, and that every night one of them took the gun. a Winchester repeater, out of its case and laid it on the floor between the two beds, or took it right into the bed with him. Three times attempts had been made by thieves to break into the building, and this was their method of protecting themselves and the property in their care. "On the night before the shooting. the young man had retired late, and, taking the gun out of its case, stood it at the head of his bed. his father not being with him that night. It is thought that the shooting the next morning was caused by his grasping the gun by the barrel to place it in the case, when it accidentally kicked the trigger, causing it to go off; or that in cleaning it-his father saying that it had needed cleaning for some time-it was handled in such a careless way as to cause the explosion. The latter is his father's theory. Young ferin avenue, who has been holidaying McIntyre had but partly dressed himself, and the gun, which lay on the with him, pointed toward his dead body, one shell only On a table near by lay a box of shells, and the cloth cover of the gun lay on the floor.

'The remains were brought to this city by his parents yesterday, and funeral services were held at the use, in the presence of an audience of friends that crowded the building, the Rev. Mr. Malcolmson, of the Dis-ciples of Christ Church, at Fourth and Plum streets, officiating. The young man, during his idle winter days, had taken a deep interest in this small church, and had in many ways aided it, and it was his intention to lay out a programme of church work for the "Late in the afternoon the remains were taken, in the company of the family, on the Grand Trunk road for Alvinston, Cnt., his native place, and the old home of the McIntyre family, where the body will be interred."

Fetching Jackets

Transatlantic steamers have for some weeks been bringing over the purchases made by our European traveler, and each day something new is being opened up. It is too early to announce our fall opening just yet, but we are having an informal opening every day. Parties desirous of securing and seeing the new fall styles are not losing any time or waiting until everything is ready and the stock complete. They are just coming in and taking away every day the articles they want. Perhaps it's a Jacket they want. If so, they can pick a most fetching one from a most pleasing stock, which, though not yet complete, is truly large and well assorted. The most popular materials are Beavers, Curled Serges, Boucle Tweeds and Friezes. Short Coats with 1 pple and pleated backs are in great demand.

Taking Dress Goods

Some are taking Dress Goods—the new arrivals. We have already to hand a most taking stock, which only needs to be seen to please the most fashionable taste. This year we have made heavier importations than usual, and the variety of French, German and British stuffs is very large. We will have enough when everything is in to provide a dress for every lady in London. But a point not to be lost sight of is that every piece will not suit every lady. Those who want suitable costumes are selecting now.

Lovely Millinery

Walking Hats are the popular thing just now. We have to hand a big importation, together with most exquisite trimmings and feathers. Even this early our new Millinery is walking out of the store. Purchasers never seemed more eager to buy. We have aimed at a greatly increased custom this fall, and if a very fetching stock such as ours is will bring new patrons we will hit the mark.
