MRS. LATIMER'S LOVE

It seemed to take a long time, and indeed all bandaging is a process requiring patience and dexterity. Lord Holyhead thought that was a very artless, pleasing face that looked up so kindly in his own, and "noped it didn't hurt him"; also that a man might have a worse attendant, if he was really in a bad way, than a fresh-hearted, goodnatured girl, helpful and unaffected, and comely, too, besides. It came across him more than once, as he rode back into London, how neatly she had bandaged him up, how prettily she had behaved, how "that daughter of Jones" was a deuced nice girl."

What Bella thought, I cannot take upon myself to say. She certainly did not scold the parrot for his outbreak, but rather caressed and coaxed him, venturing her own pretty fingers without compunction; but Bella had a good many other matter just then to distract her attention from Polly and his misdemeanors.

She was no blinder than the rest of her meanors.

She was no blinder than the rest of her Sex. What physical powers of vision are theirs as compared to ours! Muffle up the keenest-eyed detective of the force, in a widow's bonnet with a double crape in a widow's bonnet with a dout like an well, and he will blunder about like an owl in the daylight; but watch the bereaved one herself in the same head dress, her eyesight seems to be rather timulated than impaired by that impervious material, and she is as well aware and a serious material, and she is as well aware the serious material. vious material, and she is as well aware of your glances of curiosity, perhaps admiration, as though her brow were bared in shameless defiance, rather than masked in the dense draperies of insidious design. Their moral sense is equally acute. Try to deceive a woman about your feelings, your likes and dislikes, your little prejudices and foolish whims. She looks through you at a plance. She detects your secret ere you have hardly told it to yourself; well for you if she do not abuse her power, and make it public to the whole circle of her acquaintance. Therefore it is a wholesome maxim to have no secrets from a woman; or if the former be indispensable, to determine that the latter is not. Bella know there was something wrong; so she counter-ordered the carriage and stated all the morning, resolved to have she counter-ordered the carriage and waited all the morning, resolved to have some explanation before Mr. Gordon went. It would be so much easier, she thought, to ask him than papa; and Mr. Gordon, of course, would satisfy her curiosity; he was so frank and honest, and always so kind to her. Nothing could be easier than to get it all out of the counter of the course.

could be easier than to get it all out of John Gordon. Luncheon was announced and suffered to get cold. What a long confabulation that seemed to be in papa's room! Would It never be over? At last a door opened, ominous sound to nerves strained with expectation; a footstep crossed the hall toward the drawing-room. John Gordon entered with his usual cold and unem-

It did not seem half so easy to crossquestion him now.

Bella rose from her chair, felt her knees trembling, and sat down again.

John stood Anglice with his back to the important subject in the most indifferent tones.

"Miss Bella Jones." he began, "is there now. anything I can do for you at Sydney?"

I don't believe she knew where Sydney was. From his manner she might have inferred it was a little farther off than Regent street.

"At Sydney!" she gasped. "What! are you going a way?" I don't understand."

won't take long to settle. What shall I bring you back? A couple of kangaroos would be very nice pets. I shall be home in a year, or eighteen months at the farthest."

A year or eighteen months! And Bella was barely twenty. It seemed a lifetime. She snatched up some needlework, and stooped busily over it to conceal the sily over it to conceal the were falling thick and fast upon her hands. John observed rate, he thought it advisable to place it on some other score than his own departure; so he resumed his conversation in a kind and brotherly tone.

"You ought to know, Miss Jones, that mercantile prople, like ourselves, are subject to certain ups and downs which what wilfully ignored its cause. At any "You ought to know, Miss Jones, that mer antile prople, like ourselves, are subject to certain ups and downs which no amount of attention or probity can entirely control. Your father's business has been much neglected in Australia. It is possible that everything might be lost in consequence of a failure there," (John had a discretionary power from the alderman, who dreaded breaking the matter to his daughter himself) "Some one who is intimately acquainted with our affairs should be on the spot; and that is why I am going over at such our affairs should be on the spot; and that is why I am going over at such short notice. If worst comes to worst. Bella," he added, taking her hand, "there will still be enough saved to live upon; and you will have your father left. You don't know how fond he is of you Bella."

The tears were falling unconcealed your Mingled feelings were forcing them

The tears were falling unconcealed now. Mingled feelings were forcing them to her eyes. She loved her father very dearly; and it was dreadful to hear worldly ruin thus spoken of as no improbable contingency. How touching, too, was John Gordon's sympathy and brotherly kindness; he had never spoken to her in such a tone as this before; and to her in such a tone as this before; and yet her woman's instinct told her that it was a tone of protection rather than attachment; that it was not thus he would have alluded to his departure had he been exactly what she wished. What did she wish him to do? Poor girl! she hardly knew herself, and, having no more pertinent remark to make only more pertinent remark to make, only sobbed out:

Such a long way off!-such a long ohn Gordon was not easily softened He was sorry for her; but that was all. "Bella," said he, still retaining her hand, "you have a duty to perform. We have all our different tasks in a difficulty like the present. Yours is to comfort your father, to keep up his spirits and attend to his health. Mine is to lose no attend to his health. Mine is to lose no time in making preparations. I shall scarcely be able to see you again. God bless you. Bella, and good-bye!"

They were cold words, though they were so kind. In honest truth, they were kinder for being cold, but each by each sank very chill upon the girl's heart. Yet, even then, her thoughts were less for her own disappointment and loneliness than for his coming voyage. She seized his hand in both of hers and pressseized his hand in both of hers and pressed it affectionately.
"Good-bye," she said, looking up with a face all blurred with tears. "You'll sail

a lace an ordered with tears. "You'll sail in a safe ship; and promise me. Mr.
Gordon, promise me, you won't go without a lifebelt!"

John could not forbear a smile. One "good-bye." one more tight clasp hand, and he was gone. Then the alderman came in, and Bella Then the alderman came in, and Bella had her cry out comfortably, sitting on her old father's knee, and leaning her forehead against his shoulder. To him it was an immense comfort that he could talk matters over with his child; that there was no longer any concealment between them; and that new, even if the blow did fall, it would not fall unexpectedly upon Bella. It strange how the old dread worldly ruin for their children far more than for themselves; that though they have lived long enough to dren far more than for themselves; that though they have lived long enough to learn the low value of rents and consols as promoters of happiness; though they have discovered that "hon eher neque aurum," overlaying the roof of a palace, is to be compared to the humble heart's-ease that can flourish well enough beneath the bottage wall; though they have seen the rich weary and dissatisfied, the poor hopeful and entented; they should still covet for their dearest that which they are too well aware has never profited themselves. The alderman that which they are too well aware has never profited themselves. The alderman could have lived on two hundred a year in perfect comfort for his own part, but he had dreaded breaking to Bella that they might have to manage between them on something less than thrice that income. Now they could talk it over unrestrained. Now he could tell her of Lord Holyhead's magnanimity, and John Gordon's good management, and the business, and the losses, and their past mistakes, and their prospects for the

at Two O'Clock.

The Contests Promise to Provide Great Sport.

Rain Plays Havoc With Many Sporting Events-Saturday on the Ria Race Tracks.

Tomorrow afternoon the annual tournament of the Western Ontario Bowling Association will open on the green at the London Rowing Club. Never in the history of the local club has greater interest been manifested in the opproach of the event. This yearly gath. ering of devotees of the "ancient and gentle pastime" is an event of some importance. Whatever the cause there exists, a bond of sympathy between men who frequent the bowling green, a brotherhood that flourishes without the aid of mystic symbols. Tomorrow representatives of this brotherhood from every part of Western Ontario from every part of Western Ontario fectively when it looked as if a score will be the guests of the London club, was about to be completed. The match whose hospitality is proverbial. The contests in this year's tourney promise to be unusually keen, and no doubt a his head cut, the game being delayed large crowd of spectators will be pres- a few minutes, and Campbell slipped let us forget the weather. The green is already pretty thoroughly soaked, and if the rains should continue tonight, it is possible the opening will have to be postponed. Just why the Paris lacrosse team failed to come to London Saturday is not altogether clear. It has been given out that the weather frightened the Parisians, and that they wired the London club that unless their presence was urgently required, they would prefer to take tea at home. Considering the condition of Tecumseh Park it is probably just as well that they did not come, and yet there have been lacrosse matches played in the rain before is in condition.

Manager Dale Gear, of Kansas City, has released Pitcher "Monk" Foreman in Milwaukee, after having given the veteran a fair chance to make good, "At Sydney!" she gasped. "What! are you going away? I don't understand."
"I am going across to Australia." said to Sporting Life. Foreman was immediately appointed an umpire by President Hickey, of the American Association. What shall I was a state. ation. If he will cut out his "joshing," Frank should make a success in his new position. He has had many years of experience, and should have of sympathy for players who kick, as he was a warm offender himself.

London fans will remember the Pit- muddy track. observed her emotion, and some- cher Foreman who played in London with Lohman's team. He was a brother of the player mentioned above, and as a kicker he had an Arkansas mule beaten a mile. OSHAWA BEAT PORT HOPE. Oshawa, July 21.-In a lacrosse league match here Saturday Oshawa defeated Port Hope in the easiest kind of style by 9 to 2. This makes a tie between Port Hope and Oshawa for the district championship. Gillespie, of Orangeville, gave good satisfaction as SHAMROCKS TO GO WEST. Montreal, July 21.-The directors of the Shamrock Amateur Athletic Association held an important meeting Friday evening. The invitation received from the New Westminster lacrosse club, through its representative, Mayor Keary, was read, and it was finally decided to accept the invitation, with the understanding that all the players would be in a position to take the trip. The team will certainly go if all the menbers are available. any rate, the matter is in the hands of Captain Thomas O'Connell, who will look after the personnel of the team.

TORONTO 7, CORNWALL 6. Cornwall, July 21.-The senior championship lacrosse game here Saturday resulted in a splendid game and clever victory for the Torontos, who Burns, Dixon, Adamson and Stollery, showed wonderful activity around the great surprise, as Cornwalls are considered invincible on their own and the Queen City team won the deciding goal just before time expired. The match was clean throughout, only one man being ruled off, McMillan, of Cornwall. The early stages of the match were easy going and listless, but both teams played like demons towards the final. Cornwall tied the score and just before time expired a shot from Querrie struck John White's stick and bounded a couple of inches inside the poles, ending the agony and giving to the Torontos the game.

FLINT, MICH., TEAM TO TOUR. Toronto Globe: Canada's national game has taken a stronghold in many Michlgan cities, but in none is it more popular than in the bustling little town of Flint. Many Canadians are living in Flint, and, thanks to the efforts of Dr. James N. Buckham, a native of Canada, and Mr. Fred Smyth, an old Torontonian, a very fast twelve has been organized, and a number of matches have already been played this season. The Flint team is contemplating making a tour of Western Ontario some time this summer. Owing to the heavy rain the grounds were in a sloppy condition, but, in spite of this, some good lacrosse at times was executed. The Orangeville team showed up in exellent form, their combination play and stick-handling being at superb. Their strong defense was always in evidence, as the Tecumseh home were time and again checked efwas clean throughout, Charlie Shore being the only player ruled off during the day. Henry of the Dufferins had ent when play opens tomorrow. That is and sprained his shoulder and had to retire, Soules going off to even up.

THE TURF.

Owing to the rain it was out of the question to do any trotting on the Grosse Pointe track Saturday, so there was nothing to do but declare the card for the last day off. This was possible with all the races but the M. and M. consolation stake, and as all the horsemen were anxious to get to Cleveland efforts were made to get the drivers of the four horses eligible to start to divide the $2,000. caused a hitch, as they could not agree on the division and unless they the race will be started at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, providing the track

BANGTAILS AT DETROIT. Detroit, July 21.-The Highland Park club's meeting, which begins on Sat-urday next, gives promise of being the best in its history. The horses will come from almost every section of the country and Canada, and Secretary Parmer has applications for more than 1,000 stalls. When the gates are thrown open to the public there will be seven or eight hundred horses stabled inside the track inclosure or in the vicinity. Already there are over 100 horses there, and there will be daily arrivals from now until Saturday. The Washington Park meeting at Chicago came to an end Saturday, and Fort Erie will close next Wednesday and many of the horses which have been racing at both places will be shipped to Highland Park. Practically the entire lot at Fort Erie will leave the Buffalo course for this city by special train over the Grand Trunk road next Thursday. East and West will meet here in the Frontier stakes, which will be the feature of the opening day's pro-gramme. The race will take the place of the Detroit Derby, which has been run annually until this year. The reason for the discontinuance of the Detroit Derby this year is the fact that the meeting comes-later than usual this season, when all the 3-year-olds are tired out, and Secretary Parmer substituted a condition race which will bring winners and losers together on something like an equitable basis. The result is that there is a prospect of a big field, bigger in fact than has ever gone to the post in a Derby here.

AT WASHINGTON PARK.

Chicago, July 21.—Flying Torpedo, with the impost of 110 pounds, won the Wheeler handicap Saturday afternoon at Washington Park. Next came the 3-year-old Lucien Appleby, and then Wild Pirate, as winner of third money. The finish was not as exciting as those who came out to see the final great fixture of the Washington Park meeting would have wished. Flying Torpedo and Lucien Appleby had a fairly good finish through the stretch, but the older horse was a half length in front when the winning line was passed and going easily. Wild Pirate was several lengths back. Otis, the pacemaker in the American Derby, proved the pacemaker in this event, and he came down past the stand the first time a length in front of Odnor, who was an added starter to the race. Odnor led Wild Pirate by a length at this point with the remainder of the field, headed by Aladdin, close up. At the half-mile pole Otis still led, but Flying Torpedo was only half a length away and he passed the youngster before the turn for home was reached, and then came away. In the stretch Lucien Appleby made one of his famous charges, and soon he and Flying Torpedo were far in front of the others and began a battle to the wire, which resulted in the success of the older horse. Wyeth, the Derby winner, finished back in the middle of the trailing field. The other stake feature of the afternoon was the Lakeview handicap for 2-year-olds over the 6-furlongs course. Only seven of the original field went to the post, and the winner turned up in J. W. Schorr's Gold Bell, it being the only stake won during the meeting by the Memphis horseman, who has been so successful in former years. kin's Overton finished second and Tom

pacemaker and turned into the stretch

Backers of Fitzsimmons in his coming fight with Jeffries do so because they believe Fitz is the hardest hitter in the ring today. There is no denying the fact that Fitz is a great hitter, but the fact that Jeffries is equally as hard a slugger, if not even a harder one, must not be overlooked, says the Buffalo Times. No one has ever stood up after Jeffries landed on him, but so much cannot be said of Fitz. He swung with all his might on Jeffries when they fought for the championship the last time, the blow catching Jeff on the head. It never caused him the slightest trouble, however. But when Jeff swung his right on Fitz's temple he went down and out. So far as hitting ability is concerned Fitz has nothing better than an even 2-year-olds, six furiongs—Mexican, 119 (O'Connor), 7 to 5 and 1 to 3, 1; Hurst thing. That seems a certainty.

Joe Choynski, the blonde Californian heavyweight, is opposed to having people refer to him as the "old man." Choynski says that he is far from being an old man and that the reason so many persons have this impression is owing to the fact that he has been in the boxing game ever since he was 14 years old.

He has, therefore, been fighting for the past nineteen years. He was champion of the Pacific coast when he 17 years of age. Since that time he has fought every boxer of any note who ever put on a glove, says a writer in the New York Journal. In an interesting interview the other day Choynski said:

"Do you know why so many people call me the old war horse? Well, I have been boxing since I was 14 years of age, and as I am not 33 you can see that the public naturally has an impression that I am an old man. I am still as good as ever as far as training and fighting are concerned, but when I issue a challenge to fight one of the big fellows the cry is at once set up that I am too old. I have always taken the best of care of myself, and I'll bet right now that I can go out and beat any man my weight in the business for 100 yards. Batteries-Briggs and Toft; Magee and

The funniest part of it all was that I did not think that I could fight at all when I was an amateur. "I think if it were not for your 'Favorite Prescription' I would have been in my grave," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Egypt, Plymouth Co., Mass., Box 14. "I had pain all over me, and such a dragging feeling it seemed I could not do my house work. I had to sit down to wash the dishes, even. In the year 1867 I was so sick I did not care to live and prayed many times that God would take me. One day I thought I would write to Dr. Pierce. In a few days f received an answer. I decided to try his medicine, and to-day I am a well woman. I have no headache, no pain at all, I used always to have headaches previous to the monthly period, and such pain that I would roll on the floor in agony. This sometimes would occur every two weeks, and I would be very weak afterward. I was in pain all over. My feet would slip from under me when I would try to go across the room, and I could not walk any distance without being in pain. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of Doctor Pierce's Pellets, and was completely cured."

Thirteen Lives Lost in Baitimore City and Harbor.

MANY BUILDINGS WRECKED

Eleven Persons Drowned-Others Killed by Falling Trees and Prostrate Wires.

Baltimore, July 20 .- A flerce tornado accompanied by thunder, vivid lightning and a heavy rain, suddenly burst upon Baltimore at 1:30 p.m. today, coming from the southwest. Eleven persons lost their lives, hundreds of houses were unroofed, trees in the public parks and streets were torn up by the roots, many buildings were damaged and several people injured. The storm exhausted its fury in less than 15 minutes.

The damage done in the business part of the city was comparatively slight. It was in the residence portions of the city, along the river front and in the harbor, where the wind spent its violence. Of those who perished nine were drowned in the bor from open boats, one was killed by a falling tree and one by a live wire. The following is a list of

THE KILLED.

Drowned in the harbor: Roy Pateman, 21 years old; Joseph Cain, 10 years old; John Cain, John Carroll, 21 years old; Harry McCormick, 19 years old; Mrs. Mary Schuler, 28 years old; Harry S. Schuler, 10 months old; Olive Schuler, 4 years old; Chas. Schuler, 7

Killed by live wire, Chas. Schefer. The three first victims on the above list were out in a rowboat on the river with three other companions. When the storm broke the boat was capsized.

PATHETIC INCIDENT.

The drowning of Mrs. Schuler and her children was the most pathetic incident of the hurricane. Michael Schuler, with his wife and three children, accompanied by his brotherin-law, Jos. Cooper, and his wife, had gone out into the harbor for a sail. When the storm came Schuler and Cooper took in the sail. Schuler sent his wife and children into the little "I was champion of the Pacific coast when I was 17. One of the first men when I was 17. One of the first men keep the vessel's head toward the wind. A sudden gust of wind threw the boom of the vessel around, knocked Schuler down and pinned him to the deck. Another gust capsized the boat, releasing Schuler, who, with Cooper and his wife, were thrown into water, leaving Mrs. Schuler and her children pinned in the cabin. Cooper saved himself and his wife by hang-ing to the bottom of the overturned boat, and Schuler saved himself in the same way, after making frantic efforts to get at his imprisoned wife and

KILLED AT CAMP MEETING. A colored camp meeting was in progress in Paradise Grove, near Powhattan. A huge oak tree fell upon the tent. Several of the worshippers were caught beneath it as it fell, and William Cornish was crushed to death The others were not seriously injured. The Sea Catholic Church, in South Baltimore, was damaged to the amount of $7,000. At the foot of Concord street the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company warehouse was unroofed, with small damage to the building, but the rain poured in on the valuable cargo stored therein, doing damage which is estimated at from $100,000 to $300,000. The gas reservoir, in South Baltimore, containing 300,000 feet of gas, was blown over, the gas exploding without injuring anyone, the damage being placed at $15,000. The damage to the shipping in the harbor was general, but not of a serious nature. The weather bureau here that it was more in the nature of a whirlwind than a tornado. The wind blew at the rate of 64 miles an hour. and the rainfall was 56-100ths of an inch. Reports from outlying districts are meager, but so far as known the storm was confined to Baltimore and suburbs. MORE CASUALTIES.

At Tolchester, Md., James B. Pose, aged 20, and Theodore C. Parker, 21 years old, of Baltimore, who were on an excursion, were drowned today. They, with four companions, were rowing in the bay. A wind squall overturned the boat. The others were rescued.
