LONDON HOSPITAL IS EQUAL TO BEST The news of the death of Mrs. F.

Says London's National I. O. D. E. Councillor, After Visiting American Children's Institutions.

ented the London standings.

O. D. E. at the annual convention of the National Chapter.

She has returned bringing with her new honors. She was one of the thirty ational councillors chosen by the whole in the Dominion at the annual order in the Dominion at the annual convention. When discovered by The Advertiser just before lunch time, she was facing a formidable pile of mail that had been accumulating since the week of the 24th of May, all manner of communications with regard to the work of the L.O.D. E. and the War Memorial Children's Health.

"My most exciting experience while mway?" she repeated the question of The Advertiser. "Almost getting caught in a landslide at Soldiers' Summit, in Colorado, near Denver. Because of the landslide, our train was held up seven hours, and we missed seeing the gorge by daylight, just making it out in the twilight."

After her years of strenuous work to

The hospitals larger? No; that was opportunity for making very thorough investigation, owing to the fact that my uncle, Dr. Davis, is a member of the board. These children's hospitals, I ind, were all established by subscription, and have boards of ladies."

With regard to the national convention of the I. O. D. E. in Vancouver.

The booths were in resent to the Municipal I. O. D. E.
"You see, they sent me, and are enlittled to all I can give them in the way of information as new as possible."
Referring to the election of Mrs.
Doolittle of Toronto to the national presidency to succeed Miss Joan Arnoldi: "She was convener of child welfare the preceding year, and had a wondeful secont on that. By the way she derful report on that. By the way, she mentioned our memorial children's hospital in her report as an important feature of the order's welfare activities, and we also had most favorable comment in the provincial report. I can assure you, London, the London Munici-pal Chapter, and the many organizations in Western Ontario which have co-operated in work for the hospital re-ceived a great deal of publicity at the "Parley-vous?"

Mrs. Greenaway modestly attributes the fact that she was made a national councillor to the connection of the order in London with the new hospital, and not especially her own ability or the out-standing and untiring service she has rendered the hospital work.

rendered the hospital work.

Referring to the immigration policy of the order, the London delegate explained: "Of course, we recognize the fact chat it is a little late to have Canada il British in nationality. But the idea of the order would be to encourage. British immigration for the future. The importance is being thoroughly realized of making good citizens of this country of the foreign-born, and we will never do this while we stand selfishly aloof. We have got to understand that a potential asset may become a menace unless we do our part, and this doesn't by any means just apply to the West."
Mrs. Greenaway wondered why Americans, wherever she went, took it for granted she spoke French, on hear-Ing she was a Canadian. "Just as soon Ing she was a Canadian. "Just as soon as I told them I was Canadian," she said, "they remarked, 'Oh, then, you speak French.' They seem to trave; most in Quebec when they come to Canada. I wonder why?" And there was a twinkle in her eye as she said it.
