THE STREET BAILWAY RECEIPTS. A comparison of the Street Railway with those for the corresponding month of 1894 reveals the fact that the daily average was less in the former year by some $80. We believe that the bicycle accounts not only for this shortage but for the increase which might have been expected under normal conditions. The future of the Street Railway business in cities is more or less of an uncertainty. The busy brain of the inventor is daily at work devising for the public just what the public is in need of. The electric car is not an ideal medium of transit. The public will gladly welcome an improvement.
