

HENRY GEORGE

WE are only common people,
And he was a man like us.
But he loved his fellows before himself;
And he died for me and you,
To redeem the world anew
From cruelty and greed —
For love the only creed,
For honor the only law.