

was very well known in this country, having been for many years Archdeacon of Vancouver (the first Archdeacon here we believe) and also for a time Rector of Esquimalt :

“ We regret to announce the death of Archdeacon Wright, rector of Greatham, near Petersfield, one of the oldest clergymen in the Diocese of Winchester. Prior to accepting a country living, he was for many years an army chaplain, and received promotion for meritorious service when acting as principal chaplain in the Crimea. He was awarded the Crimea medal, with clasps, for Alma, Balaclava, Inkerman and Sebastopol. While serving as senior chaplain at Portsmouth, Archdeacon Wright took an active part in the restoration of the garrison church (Domus Dei).”

The following notice of the death of the Metropolitan of Canada, is from the English Church Times :

“ On Friday, Sept. 9th, the Metropolitan of Canada, the Most Rev. John Medley, Bishop of Fredericton, passed to his rest. Consecrated so long ago as 1845, his lordship was, next to the Venerable Bishop of Guiana, the senior prelate of the Anglican Communion. As a scholar, theologian and a musician the Bishop consecrated his talents to the service of the Church, of which he was a loyal son and a faithful pastor. Like his coadjutor, Bishop Tully Kingdon, who now by right succeeds to the See of Fredericton, Bishop Medley was a Vice-President of the E. C. U. In the Church of Canada his lordship's firm rule and statesmanlike counsels will for long be remembered, and his loss deeply deplored.”
