

TORONTO FROM 1892 TO 1894.

349

The harbor of his earthly wishes won,
Fresh from new honors from his Sovereign's hand ;
To him the summons came, earth's voyage done,
He set his bark towards the eternal strand.

In death he knit the Empire closer yet,
Making unnumbered hearts to throb as one ;
Here by his tomb may Canada forget
The bigotry that he had fain undone.

With his Queen's wreath upon his pulseless breast,
Lulled by the murmur of the restless wave,
Life's voyage done, he takes his well-earned rest ;
In port at last with God beyond the grave.

—ARTHUR WEIR.
