Egbert descended from Cerdic, the first king of Wesser, a Saxon general, who, in the year A. D. 495, arrived in Britain. It is said in the Saxon sunais, that he was descended from Woden, the root of the Saxon families; and by his conquest which he made in Britain, he may be considered as one of the first founders of the English monarchy. The kings of England descend from him in the male line to Edward the Confessor, and in the female line to the illustrious princess who now sits upon the throne.
† Killed in battle against the Dane, in 871.
I Introduced trial by jury, divided England into shires and hundreds, and founded the University of Oxford.
§ Was killed by Leolf, a notorious robber.
I In 1014, Sweyn, king of Denmark, made himself master of England, and was crowned king; and Ethelred fled into Normandy. On the death of Sweyn, which happened in 1015, the crown was contested by Edmund Ironside (the lawful successor of Ethelred), and Canute, the descendant of Sweyn, who at length agreed to divide the kingdom among them; but Edmund, being murdered shortly after this treaty was entered into, Canute (surnamed the Great) was declared king of all England in 1017.
