Don't Miss the Wonderful Automatic Machine at the Exhibition That Shapes, Pastes, Fills and Seals 2 and 5 lb. Cartons of REDPATH Extra Granulated SUGAR

A big advance toward quicker store service and cleaner food is shown in the REDPATH Sugar Booth, in the Process Building, South Wing of the Industrial Building at the Fair.

Here, in actual operation, is one of the all-but-human machines that put up the familiar 2 and 5 lb. Cartons of REDPATH Extra Granulated Sugar. You can see it take a cardboard Carton open at both ends—dexterously paste and close the bottom—fill it with the exact, net weight of sugar, measured on an automatic scale—paste and close the top—and deliver the finished carton without a hand having touched it throughout the operation.

This machine has made it possible to market REDPATH Extra Granulated Sugar in Original Packages, pure and clean as when it left the refinery—to deliver to you, in your own home.

LEADS ATTACK ON ABSENT MAYOR

Controller Church Tries Ineffectually to Upset Sale of Hydro Bonds.

QUESTION OF LEGALITY

Property Commissioner Reports Against Re-Erection of Hat Factory.

While Mayor Hocken was at the laying of the corner-stone of the new central technical school building yesterday morning, Controller Church presided at the board of control, and did his utmost to upset the recent sale of hydro bonds. At first he was backed by Controller Foster, but when Controller McCarthy was thru with them Controller Church was alone in his fight and went down and out.

Controller Church led off by demanding that the city solicitor be asked for a written opinion upon the legality of the sale of the bonds. He reiterated his charge that Mayor Hocken and Deputy City Treasurer Patterson had negotiated the sale without calling a meeting of the treasury board, and that the bylaw provides that the sale should be made thru the treasury board. He added that "the sale was unsatisfactory in some respects."

"It is a matter between yourself and Mayor Hocken," Controller McCarthy said to Controller Church. "You should not take it up until the mayor is here. I ask it out of courtesy to the mayor."

"No courtesy was shown me," Controller Church declared. "No matter in which any one member of the board is directly concerned should be dealt with unless that member is present," Controller McCarthy urged.

"I agree with that," said Controller O'Neill. "The mayor will be here tomorrow, and we could have the opinion of the solicitor ready then," Controller Church insisted.

"Do you want to block the sale?" Controller McCarthy demanded, "or block those who bought the bonds from selling them again? The people who bought the bonds would like to get out of the purchase agreement tomorrow if they could."

"It would not be very serious if the sale was called off," Controller Foster declared. "If you throw over the British market by going into the American market for money you will not be able to go back to the British market for money. It is putting a noose around the neck of hydro bonds sell the bonds at the price agreed upon."

"The sale has been negotiated," Controller McCarthy said. "The mayor should be present before we ask the solicitor for an opinion upon the legality of the sale."

"I am satisfied to leave it until tomorrow," Controller Foster at last conceded, and that ended the matter.

Want Sewer Laid. Ald. Robbins headed a deputation from the Midway asking that a sewer be constructed on Highland road and the sewerage work now being done on Hlawatha street. Commissioner Harris promised that Highland road would have a sewer before the outlet for Hlawatha street sewer is completed.

Commissioner Harris reported that he had closed the west side of Yonge street, from King street to Melinda street, because the excavation for the Dominion bank building had caused the pavement to sink about an inch.

"The contractor wants permission to work a couple of Sundays to get the steel work well started," said Controller Church. "With two days of scrapers being built at the corner of King and Yonge streets the interference with traffic there will be serious."

Commissioner Chisholm reported against granting a permit to rebuild the recently burned Cream hat factory on Balmuto street.

"That hat factory was started 43 years ago, when it was surrounded by fields," said Controller McCarthy. "I cannot take advantage of the fire to put Mr. Cream out of business."

"Neither can I," Controller O'Neill said.

"We'll have a hearing on Thursday morning from all interested parties," said Controller Church, and this was adopted.

Deficit on Service. Commissioner Harris reported that the deficit for the first six months' operation of the Gerrard street car line is $1,319.85.

To arrive at the amount of the deficit he figured as follows: Operating expenses, $2,862.25, of which $947.25 is for interest and sinking fund. Receipts from car fares, $15,572.40. There were $9,421 passengers carried. He recommended that the car fares be the same as those on the Toronto Railway Co.'s lines.

"We have already adopted a 2-cent fare, and six tickets for ten cents," said Controller O'Neill, "and we cannot consistently charge any more."

This was the unanimous opinion. "We should plan to carry on all the public works possible thruout next winter," said Controller O'Neill. "It may be that the western provinces will not have work for all their laboring men, and a large number of the unemployed may come to Toronto for the winter."

This idea was endorsed. It came up in connection with starting this fall the construction of an ornamental bridge from Centre Island to the new athletic field.

UXBRIDGE

The surveyors for the Hydro-Electric line from Toronto to Uxbridge have been successful in securing a low grade thru the major part of the route. As it leaves Markham North the road crosses the G. T. R. by an overhead bridge about 100 feet north of D. E. Jones' elevator, and continuing in a northwesterly direction crosses the eighth concession in Mount Joy, a little south of W. A. Fenner's house. It reaches the midway just between the seventh and eighth line, running straight north to Ringwood, thru Stouffville to Glasgow, and continues north via Goodwood to Uxbridge.

Engineer Stanley claims that the grade is a good deal better than that on the G. T. R. line.

The line from Markham to Brooklin has already been surveyed, and a report of the completed survey is expected about the middle of September.
