Fleet at Santiago.

New York, June 1.—A despatch to The World from Port Antonio, Jamaica, says: The first engagement between Commodore Schley's squadron and the Spanish ships of Cervera took place Sunday night about midnight. Two torpedo boats made a desperate effort to destroy the American ships. They were stopped in the nick of time owing to the vigilance of the men under capital Philip of the Texas. The torpedo boats had cleated the harbor and were creeping along in the shadow of Castle Morro and the mountain at the entrance of the harbor. They had traveled two miles to the westward when the officer of the deck on the Texas sighted them through his night glasses. Two of the search-list field the first five vessels. The Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon was anchored towards Punta Gorda and could be seen from the open sea.

The fire of the American fleet was answered by the Morro, Zocapa and Punta Gorda batteries and by the cruiser Cristobal Colon was anchored towards Punta Gorda and could be seen from the open sea.

The American fleet fired 70 shots "with projecties of 32," without causing the least damage.

The bombardment lasted 90 minutes and the American fleet retired with a trans-Atlantic steamer auxiliary cruiser damaged. Two shells were seen to explode on the lowar's stern and there was fire on board another battleship. Several projectiles fell inside the harbor near the Spanish war-shot land to the search for the death and the mountain at the entrance of the men under the American fleet fired 70 shots "with a form of the American fleet fired 70 shots "with a form of the American fleet fired 70 shots "with a form of the American fleet fired 70 shots " his night glasses. Madrid, June 1,—(5 p.m.)—The following undated official despatch from Hawana has been received here: "The American squadron commanded by Commodore Schley, composed of large ironclads and cruisers, attacked the fortifications at the entrance of Santiago de Cuba. Our ironclad, Cristobal Colon, closing the mouth of the port and supported by the fire of the forts, repulsed the attack, causing damage to the enemy. (Signed) Manterola."

Admiral Manterola is the officer in command of the regular Spanish fleet in Cuban waters.

The Minister of Marine, Captain Aunon, on leaving the palace this afternoon after a visit to the Queen, said: "The American squadron has bombarded and tried to force the Santiago forts, which replied vigorously. The Cristobal Colon advanced to the mouth of the harbor, exchanging shots with the enemy, who fired 70 shots against the forts. The damage done is not reported. The Colon hit an auxiliary American ship, damaging it. The Colon was not hurt. Further details are withheld."

"Santlago de Cuba, May 31.—To-day, at 2 o'clock the American fleet, composed of 14 ships, of which one appeared to be the New York and flew the flag of Admiral Sampson, and a few torpedo boats, opened fire on the forts and on the roadstead with heavy guns. The fire of the Americans appeared to be directed principally on the roadstead and on the forts of El Morro, Zoscapa and Punta Gorda. The cannonade was very brisk up to 3.45. The shells feil in the bay, but did not reach as far as the town.

The din of the guns of the Texas alarmed the whole fleet. The machine guns of the Brooklyn were at work a few seconds after the Texas had started in. The other ships were lying further off shore. The call to general quarters was sounded on each of them in the belief that all of Cervera's fleet was coming out in a desperate effort to escape. Searchlights were placed on the water by all of the ships.

The Texas and Brooklyn poured such a furlous shower of small shells at the torpedo boats that the latter were forced to turn about and seek safety in the harbor.
