"The original canal at Sault Ste. Marie was built in 1805. It allowed vessels of a draught of 12 feet of water and with a carrying capacity of about 1000 tons to go thru. That lock, when built, was the largest in the world. Subsequently there have been built at the American Soo the Poet Lock, and the Weitzel Lock. The maximum capacity of these is a draught of 20 feet for steamers, and boats carrying 10,000 tons could go thru. The original American ock was torn out to take the place of one of these. On the Canadian side of the Soo there is one of the finest locks in the world, with a canal equal to, if not greater than, the American.

"Thirty-five years ago the only steamer plying between castern points and Port Arthur was the Algonia, a small, old-fashioned side-wheeler. She had a capacity of about fifty tons of freight, and about fifty inst-class passengers. She was supposed to make trips semi-monthly, but was often a month on the round trip. To-day there are six passenger steamers plying between here and eastern points—they make in the appreciate five trips per week each way, and marry an average of fifteen hundred tons, besides from two to three hundred passengers. This is exclusive of tramp steamers. "Cargo steamers have been loaded at Port Arthur and Fort William with seventy-five hundred tons of cargo, or equal to two hundred and fifty thousand bushels of wheat. "The cargo steamers belonging to the Canadian lake marine which ply to Port Arthur are twelve in number, built of steel. Phere are besides this two composite steamers; that is, steel frame and wooden planking. These boats combined have a carrying capacity of from one million and a naguariter to one million and a half bushels per week; that is, between Port Arthur and Georgian Bay and Lake Huron points. This is as much wheat as can be brought in per week during the fall months from the west over one railway. The ordinary applound merchandise and the downbound dour and other package freight is curried by the passenger steamers, which usually losses about the 1st of May, making it a liftle over

"The season of navigation usually closes about the 5th of December, and congnences arout the 1st of May, making it a little over seven months in length. This could be extended without any special cost for another month in the fall, say to the 1st of January. With ice-breaking steamers at either end of Lake Superior and an elevator near Sault Ste. Marie it could be extended at least a month longer than that in the fall, and open a month earlier in the spring, which would give a season of navigation of ten months at least. It may be possible to do even better than that, and keep open all the year round."

REQUESTED PROHIBITION ENACTMENT

Mr. Ross Received Them Cordially and Will Give the Question His Attention

The reception room at the Paris Buildings was crowded yesterday at noon place. The government was briefly put in possession of the deputation's desire, and Premier Ross in his reply expressed his pleasure at hearing the representations they had made on behalf of prohibition. He fully appreciated the earnest way in which they had stated their case, and was also pleased to know that they understood how grave the situation was. "I cam only say," the Premier concluded, "that what you have said will receive my most careful atention, as well as the consideration of my colleagues in the government, and the House will meet at an early date. A new catarrh cure has recently appeared which so far as tested has been remarkably successful in curing all forms of catarrh, whether in the head, throat, bronchial tubes or in stomach and liver. The remedy is in tablet form, pleasant and convenient to take and no special secrecy is maintained as to what it con-secrecy is maintained as to what it contains, the tablet being a scientific combination of Blood root, Red gum and similar valuable and harmless antiseptics. The safe and effective catarrh cure may be found at any drug store under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Whether the catarrh is located in the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or stomach, the tablets seem to act with equal success, removing the stuffy feeling in head and nose, clearing the mucous nembrane of throat and trachea from catarrhal secretions, which causes the tickling, coughing, hawking and gagging so annoying to every catarrh sufferer.

Nasal catarrh generally leads to alcera-
