AWKWARD QUESTION EFFECTIVELY ANSWERED

Albert County Resident Shows Injustice of White's Letter to Telegraph—Bridge Improperly Built by Late Govt.

To the Editor of The Standard:

Sir,—In a recent issue of the St. John Telegraph, was published a letter from Captain Robert White, of Harvey Bank, Albert County, complaining that the covered bridge across Shepody River is being repaired, and has been closed to traffic since November 21st last. Mr. White is at present the Harvey mill carrier, and complains that no temporary bridge has been built for his accommodation, and that the Marsh road, by the way of Beaver Bank, is sometimes flooded with tide water, and is a bad state. Mr. White also asks some questions of the Telegraph, which the head lines announced as:—Some Awkward Questions for the Hazy Government.

Now, sir, Captain White knows that one abutment of more is out, and that the Germantown Marsh roads are flooded at high tides. The same thing has occurred for several years in the same place, and occurred on the Bank dyke, flooding the Harvey Corner road for many months, when the late government had control. The highways were repaired when the dykes were made good, and the same course will be followed now, although the present government may not see its way out to dyke the marshes, or authorize the expenditure of the people's money on private dykes, sluices, or mill dams, done in at least one instance in this parish under the late administration.

Mr. White asks:—(1) Who is responsible?
(2) Is this the proper time of year to do this bridgework when the bridge was in just the same condition last April?
Ans.—The bridge was not in just the same condition last April. It has been getting worse all summer. Now that the large farmers, the Turners, McClellans, Smiths, Stuarths, Tingleys and others have finished hauling their hay and other produce over it for the season, the north abutment or pier, will promptly be built in a proper manner, and the bridge will be in a dispatch. It was in the people's interest that it was left until now.

Mr. White asks:
(3) Does it require a high skilled engineer to put in a bridge (at hundreds of dollars cost) that will not stand? One would think that any schoolboy could waste money without regard to the interests of the people. It will not require any high skilled engineer to repair this bridge properly, as Mr. Ezra P. Hour as bridge inspector and Mr. Martin M. Tingley, as foreman of the work, both of Howell, Albert county born men, of the old Liberal school, with large experience in the buildings of bridges, dykes, abutments and other structures, in the marshy banks of our tidal rivers, aided by sturdy, willing helpers from the young men of our county, will in a few weeks, thoroughly complete the work in hand without the waste of one dollar of the people's money.

The bridge is open for foot passengers and light teams will be allowed over as soon as practicable.
Mr. White states that during his 55 years' residence in Albert county, he has never seen so great an outrage perpetrated on the people at large as the closing of this bridge. Captain White did not weigh well those words before penning them. His memory can be refreshed if necessary.
Dr. McAllister, M. P. will no doubt see to it that Capt. White gets his just rights in the way of extra for his increased mileage and exposure in the conveyance of the mails.
Yours respectfully,
BROWN.

$2,314 ON TAG DAY.
Record Sum Raised by Ladies in Aid of Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign.

The sum of $2,314 added to the funds for the fight against the white plague is the result of the tag day held on Friday. This sum is far in excess of the other tag days held here, and the ladies who organized the campaign are naturally delighted.
The money was counted Saturday morning and the result announced by 2 o'clock. The Bank of New Brunswick gave the use of a room for the purpose, and half a dozen of the clerks assisted the ladies in the work of counting the money. The ladies present were the president, Mrs. E. A. Smith; the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. M. Campbell; and Mesdames J. H. Prink, H. A. McKee, D. McAllister, W. W. White, deB. Carrille, L. H. Green, Addy and Miss Travers. The bulk of the contribution was in silver, though copper coins formed a not inconsiderable part. A large sum was donated in bills, the denominations ranging up to fifty dollars.

New Bears.
Two cubs, six months old, caught by Martin Fox, of Northumberland, trapper, will be brought to St. John to take the place of the two old bears killed on Friday. The cubs will not cost very much to feed, as they have cost $10 or $12 a month. The dead bears were sold to J. W. Vanwart, and are objects of interest in that gentleman's store. They can be seen there until Thursday next.

HOW CHURCHES BECOME HOME FOR DEPRAVITY

Rev. J. J. McCaskill Speaks of Formalized Religion—Priests Must be in Sympathy With Prophets.

In St. Matthew's Presbyterian church last evening, Rev. J. J. McCaskill preached an eloquent sermon before a large congregation on the theme "A Union For Falsehood." Rev. Mr. McCaskill took his text from Jeremiah 5, 31: "The prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests bear by their means; my people are constant to have it so; and what will ye do in the end thereof?"

He said in part:—These are about the only two classes the prophets and priests have succeeded in coming together and uniting. The true prophet is he who makes God true to his generation and who tries to interpret and apply truth to the changing needs of his own time. If he succeeds in this he brings new vitality to all the institutions of society and civilization. The priest assumes the institution. He nearly always runs it into formalism, ritualism, traditionalism, conservatism and the like.

In religion it is well that men should adhere to the creeds and ritual worked out in the past for spiritual edification, so long as they do not lose the body the life. But it is certain that the forms die in time like all tissue, and if not cleared away presently rot. So to the spirit the symbol are vital; they are connected all as they are as they are separated the symbol becomes the empty shell which supplants rather than conveys the reality.

Staring Personality. The effects of the priest, when he is not in line with the true prophet, is to starve the personality, to leave it a prey to self-complacency, sensuality and the lower nature in general. We are witnessing today much complacent perfunctory professionalism. It is easy to lose the body of reality, the spirit. The prophet is more rare than the priest.

Churches have claimed to be in line with apostolic succession, that have never claimed a prophetic succession. The symbol is always easy; we can recite prayers and go to church and contribute money; but kindness, hope, humility, sympathy, courage, have no strings attached. The priest insures the continuance of the symbol; he does not insure the continuance of the spirit. "He that has these things, his desire but seek leanness into their souls" is the observation of an ancient prophet.

Today we are suffering from a similar leanness. A formalized religion is the congenial dwelling-place of depravity; of depraved thoughts of men and depraved conceptions of God. Today much of our Christianity is like the wrangling of the Monks of Constantinople over the nature of the Trinity when the Turks were forcing their way into the city.

The supreme need is that we be revitalized with the message of the prophet. The social teaching of Jesus is precisely adapted to the needs of today. Instead of saying, "Lord, Lord," let us do the things which He commands.

During the evening the artistic programme rendered in Beethoven Hall between the promenades consisted of piano solo, Miss Marion Dunn; vocal solos, Misses Goodall, reading, Misses Hilda Story; trio, violin, cello and piano, Misses King, Ayer, Lusby; quartette, Misses L.
