

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE TO YOUNG PEOPLE.

Last month we promised to publish the name of every little worker for the Monthly Advocate, who should have her or his list of subscribers sent in before the 20th ultimo, and now we do so with pleasure. As none of our friends have stated their age we take it for granted they are all young, and report accordingly. If we have made any mistake in this matter, we crave indulgence.

Three months ago we issued the first number of the Advocate, with an appeal to the young folks to assist in its circulation, believing that any good work they undertake must advance, and now we are pleased to inform them that our expectations have been fully realized. We hereby beg to thank one and all those who have responded so promptly to our request to establish clubs in their respective localities. We assure our friends that their labors are appreciated. We ask their continued assistance, and we are prepared to reward them more than ever for their labours. It is not the design of the promoters of the magazine to make money, but to circulate wholesome literature among the people. The Advocate is adapted to every family. The price at which it is published is very low. "Speaking the truth in love" is the principle upon which it is established. It is intended to be the Monthly Advocate of things pure, true, lovely and of good report. Our field is the world, and our motto is "onward." We now issue 1000 copies monthly; the "Children's Portion" of which, at least, we presume, is read by 5,000 young people. If each of these would only go around and show the Advocate to their friends, we feel satisfied they could soon increase its circulation to 10,000 copies. Will not every little reader, then, try to raise two or more subscribers before the end of this month? In anticipation of their doing so we have provided a large and varied supply of choice things suitable for Premiums. (See Book Premium list on second page cover.)

In working for Prizes it should be remembered that 50 cents must be remitted to us for each subscriber to the Advocate for one year, before we can send the Prize desired. We also wish it to be understood that we give those getting up clubs the privilege of obtaining subscribers anywhere. Instead of sending all to one address, as is generally required in forming clubs, we will mail direct to each subscriber, no matter how far apart they may reside. For instance, we will send one copy to New York, another to Toronto, a third to London, a fourth to Halifax, etc.
