

Severe Good Transports. Other members were chosen to accompany him, and at the appointed time the resolution was read and presented to the Government. Later in the day when this agent had departed some of the members of the deputation would return, and advise the officials who had received the resolution, that the wording as read had been so altered from the resolution as passed, as to have the opposite effect to that desired. These were men standing high in the industry, with a sturdy reputation for business honesty. What could any Government do? What they should have done when this chicanery was first begun by this group of Severe Good Transports, through their hired agent. Spank them soundly with a law fixing rates as Railway Freight Rates, and let the Big Shot talk. But politicians seldom do the courageous thing.

do the courageous thing.
Again, and again this unscrupulous agent was boasted by his employers into the highest office of the Association, though he never held a license for any type of motor vehicle (in his own name). He was a good showman and one year appeared at election of officers as if unscathed and hurt, something no one was