Tokio, March 13.—The armies on the Shakhe quarter reported up to Sunday morning the following approximate figures, which are still increasing:
Prisoners, over 46,000, including Major-General Nachmoss.
Rusisan corpses on the field, 26,500.
Other Russian casualties, 90,000.
Trophies, two ensigns, 66 guns, 60,000 rifies, 150 ammunition wagons, 1,000 army wagons, 200,600 shells, 25,000,000 shots for rifies, 74,000 bushels of grain, materials for light railroad for 44 miles, 300 wagons for light road, 2,000 horses, 23 Chinese carts full of clothing, 1,000,000 portions of bread, 150,000,000 pounds of fuel, 223,000 bushels of horse allowances and 125,000 pounds of horse allowances and 125,000 pounds of horse allowances and 125,000 pounds of fuels.

Kuropatkin Asks Permission to Hand Over His Commission.

London, March 13.-(C. A. P.)-The St. Petersburg correspondent of Th Times says:

long, one desperate chance remained. It was to sacrifice his artillery by massing the batteries so as to paralyze the enemy. The Russan gunners did their duty and saved what is left of Ruropatkin's armies."

Kuropatkin's Manly Course. St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Ku St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas, assuming himself all the responsibility for his defeat, making no excuses except that the strength of the Japanese was miscalculated, and refusing to place any of the biame upon the council of generals upon whose advice he determined to give battle. This manly course and the General's personal exertions in directing the retreat will, however, hardly save him. His reputation as an oftensive strategist is gone, and though the Emperor's military advisers know not where to look for a better general, his resignation will be accepted. In losing General Kuropatkin the army will lose the idol of the private soldiers.

Against His Best Judgment.

Tie Pass, March 13.—The decision of Gen. Kuropatkin to offer battle on the Shakhe was taken against his own best judgment. He had been constantly blamed, both in army circles and at home, for operating without decision, and the demand that he take the initia.

blamed, both in army circles and at home, for operating without decision, and the demand that he take the initiative and abandon the policy of retirement was voiced on all sides. It appears that Gen. Kuropatkin yielded to this opinion, which was that of many of his principal generals, and decided to give battle, thereby losing the opportunity for a more successful retreat before the Japanese forces, which largely outnumbered the Russian army.

Japa Cesse Pursuit.

The Japanese, it is reported, have ceased their pursuit, at least temporarily. Some of the Japanese are 25 miles below The Pass. A resumption of their advance is expected. Rumors are in circulation that the Japanese already are attempting another wire turning movement to drive the Russians from Tie Pass.

RUSSIA ANSWERS DEFEAT.

Will Send Another Army, and Hopes Japan's Financial Ruin.
St. Petersburg, March 15.—The Immediate answer of the Russian Government to the defeat at Mukden is the announcement that a new army will be raised, and the forces in the far east reorganized; that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky will be ordered to sall to try conclusions with Togo, and that the war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

The Russian Government, with the full magnitude of the disaster at Mukden still undetermined, but with the 1905 campaign seemingly already hope-lessly compromised, retreat to Harbin inevitable, and Vladivostock practically lost, declares that the time has not yet come when Russia can be forced to humble herself.

But, while this is the official attitude, nothing but peace talk is heard in St. Petersburg. The difficulties of another mobilization on a lorge scale will be enormous; in fact, it is stated in some quarters that it will be impossible. Nevertheless, it might be accomplished.

The real hope, however, for anything possible. Nevertheless, it might be accomplished.

The real hope, however, for anything like a successful termination of the war is admitted to rest upon the prospects of the financial exhaustion of Japan.

Financial Minister Kokovsoff, at the conclusion of a conference on the national resources, a few days ago, is said to have tapped the table before him and exclaimed: "We can win the war at this desk."

PRISONERS NUMBER 75,000.

Stores Valued at Millions of Dollars Ta-ken by Japs. Tokio, March 13.—The Japanese pur-uit of the Russian armies continues, and a resumption of heavy fighting in the vicinity of Tie Pass is anticipated. Tie Pass, which is natrally strong, has been extensively fortified, and it is thought the Russians will rally there in an endeavor to check the Japanese.

The rapidly advancing Japanese already are in touch at Tie Pass. The Russians evidently are confused and exhausted and possibly are short of food and ammunition, and it is believed here they will be unable to resist a strong attack.

Casualties 40 Per Cent.

Succeeding field reports increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian aimies. Estimates of the casualities given by captives reach 40 per cent. The artillery losses are especially heavy. The captured guns have not yet been counted, but the numerous captured stores and munitions are valued at millions of dollars. This loss materially adds to the crippling of the Russian armies.

The Japanese press editorial articles, in discussing the possible effects of the victory upon peace, declare Japan will unremittedly continue the vigorous prosecution of the war, and has no suggestion to make to Rusiaa, directly or indirectly.

the Japs. Tie Pass, March 13.—For many versts all the approaches to Tie Pass are covcrea with troops, srillery and baggage transport pressing northward, and 25 miles away the strong rearguard of troops, which is commanded sersonally by Gen. Kuropatkin, is rectiring slowly, doggedly disputing with the pursuing enemy every foot of ground in order to cover the retreat of the remainder of the arms. with troops, artillery and Retreat to Tie Pass Ordered. Retreat to Tie Pass Ordered.

The order to abandon Mukden and retreat to the Tie Pass position was given at 9 o'clock on the evening of March 9. It was realized if any point of the Russian line gave way all would be lost. The position in the most extreme danger appeared to be north of Mukden Station, where it seemed for a time the Japanese might break through and entirely cut the lines of retreat. Gen. Kuropatkin concentrated heavy columns there, took command himself.

retreat. Gen. Kuropatkin concentrated heavy columns there, took command himself.

Burned Everything, Possible.

Before beginning the retreat all the depots, stores and military buildings and everything that would be of service to the Japanese was set on fire. A large amount of baggage and many guns were abandoned. All rolling stock belonging to the main railroad was brought away and not a single car or lecomotive was left at Mukden, though some cars belonging to the military roads behind the Shakhe River positions were abandoned.

Wounded Left Behind.

About 10,000 severely wounded Russians and several hundred Japanese were left at Mukden hospitals, together with a complete Russian medical staff, which was entrusted to the care of the chivalrous Japanese. The remainder of the wounded in hospitals were sent northward and a railroad train remained behind almost with the rearguard, and brought off a train load of those wounded in the retreat, many of them reaching Tie Pass without their nijuries being bandaged. Mukden Station was abandoned at 7 o'clock Friday morning.

miles north of Mukden and Pu, five miles further north. Under these circumstances the retreat was conducted with astonishing precision, which was largely due to the personal efforts of Gen. Kuropatkin, who, with haggard face and uniform yellow with dust, was everywhere when needed.

In ordering a retreat, Gen. Kuropatkin is said to have declared it was done in order to satisfy protesting opinion, and whatever the blame he would take it, which in the light of events seems to show that he best knew the capacity of the soldiers.

Strenuous War.

For ten hours not a man nor a horse rested, while the wounded were being gathered up on the topsides, in the rear, and often in the centre, and every energy was bent towards getting out of a trap, the jaws of which were aimost upon the Russians. The forty miles of retreat was accomplished in seventeen hours. It was virtually through plowed fields, with enormous dust clouds, which made it impossible to see any distance.

Chatham, March 13.—Dan Forsythe, grain stealer, who the other day pleaded guilty to several charges of theft before P. M. McKiniay of Ridgetown, and was confined in the County Jail here, made a dash for liberty Saturday night about 16 o'clock. Calling the turnkey on the pretence of wanting a drink, he overcame him, locked him in his cell, and after striking down a pal. Charles Benjamin, who was in another cell, because he refused to run for it also, made his escape by way of a window overlooking the porch. Benjamin released the officer, whom Dr. Charteris, jail surgeon, found had received a broken rib and injuries about the head. Chatham, March 13.—Dan Forsythe

JAPANESE NEW YEAR'S.

Day of Religious Rites and Specially Prepared Dishes.

To a devout Japanese breakfast on To a devout Japanese breakfast of New Year's day is a religious rite rather than a vulgar satisfaction of the appetite, says the London Chronicle. Ne ordinary dishes are consumed at this meal. The tea must be made with water drawn from the well when the first ray of sun strikes it, a potpourri of materials specified by law forms the staple dish, while at the finish a measure of special sake from a red lacquer rup must be drained by whosoever desires happiness during the coming year. In the room is placed an "elysian stand," or red lacquer tray, covered with evergreen leaves and bearing a rich dumpling, a lobster, oranges, persimmons, chestnuts, dried sardines and herring roe. All these dishes have a special signification. The names of some are homonoymus with words of happy omen; the others have an allegorical meaning. The lobster's curved back and long claws typity life prolonged till the frame is bent and the beard is long; the sardines, which always swim in pairs, express conjugal pliss; the herring is symbolical of a fruitful progeny.

These dishes are not intended for consumption, although in most cases the appetite is fairly keen. The orthodox
