

NOTHING TO DO WITH COMBINES.

Type Manufacturers Have Rings, Says Mr. Walter Haddon.

The Members of the Printing Craft Spent a Pleasant Time

At Dinner Given by Him at the Royal Hotel Last Evening.

Members of the printing craft who accepted the invitation of Mr. Walter Haddon, head of the firm of John Haddon & Co., proprietors of the Caxton type foundry, and the largest type manufacturers in the British Empire, to attend a dinner given by him at the Hotel Royal last evening, spent a pleasant and profitable time. It was a representative gathering, and the attendance would probably have been much larger but for the disagreeable weather.

Seated at the table with Mr. Haddon were R. B. Ferrie and J. M. Eastwood, representing the Times, R. B. Harris, the Herald, and James R. Allan, the Spectator, and V. B. Whipple. Among others present were James A. Harvey, Alfred G. Ram, John P. Garvey, George H. Cutler, Henry Stead, C. J. Aitchison, A. A. Savage, Fred. Aldridge, T. J. Shanks, H. A. Martin, James A. Livingstone, W. R. Turnbull, James B. Gillies, C. W. Graham, D. S. Gillies, A. R. Higwell, Fred. G. Heath, N. H. Boden, Chas. Kidner, Geo. H. Richmond, H. T. Drope, George M. Bagwell, James T. Bonner, H. W. Bustin, and W. J. Keyes, St. Catharines.

After full justice had been done to an excellent repast, Mr. Haddon gave his talk on How Type is Made. It was splendidly illustrated with lighted views, and proved most interesting to the course of the dinner. Mr. Haddon is a pleasing speaker, and when he had concluded the members of the craft knew more about what the British manufacturer could do than they ever knew before. The course of the dinner, which lasted about an hour, Mr. Haddon corrected a good deal of the misapprehension existing on the part of the Canadian printer as to the position of the British manufacturer.

Mr. Whipple, in a well-chosen remarks, introduced the speaker, who at the outset referred to the attention Canada had attracted in the printing trade. Mr. Haddon gave a brief history of the art of printing from its birth to the present day. A vivid illustration of the great progress made was to be found by contrasting the fifteenth and twentieth centuries. Pictures were shown of John Gutenberg, the father of the art; of Caxton, the first British printer, in 1471. The type foundry of which Mr. Haddon is the head is the only one in the world in which everything for the composing room is manufactured under one roof and single proprietorship. The building is situated about 100 miles from London, at a spot associated with many historical traditions of interest. The speaker thoroughly explained the process of manufacturing the type, from the raw material to the finished product, and with the aid of the views demonstrated the exact science to which the art has been brought.

Mr. Haddon has had more than one tussle with combines and trusts. He characterized the British Type Foundry as worse than a trust, because it was a British trust controlled by an American one.

"I am not going to bind myself to any combine," he said, after telling of an incident in which he stated Mr. Hamilton, of the Hamilton Manufacturing Company, had told him to consider his account closed, when he refused to sign an agreement with that company.

Several views of the Caxton works were shown, and the speaker's description of the fair and generous treatment of all the employees was somewhat of a revelation. In conclusion he urged the employing printers to buy material that was labor saving for the compositor and meant money for the master.

A vote of thanks was given by Mr. Bagwell and seconded by Mr. Martin, tendered the speaker, and on behalf of the newspaper section Mr. Eastwood expressed his appreciation of the lecture, and referring to the formation of a Printers' Guild here a year ago, spoke of the steps taken to improve the art of arts in Hamilton.

Mr. Haddon complimented those present on the appearance of Hamilton, and predicted a bright future for it. He was pleased to hear a Guild had been formed here, and urged the printers to keep before them the importance of the educational side of the trade. There ought to be a technical school here, he said. Seven years ago, when he started in business, there were two men at a boy employed by him, and now he employed 400 hands. Mr. Haddon expressed an opinion that the printing art had not made the progress it should have. No matter what the present property of the art, he predicted that, without a proper system of apprenticeship it was impossible to make proper progress. He explained the system of technical schools in the old country and thought it a wise plan to follow the example in Canada.

The address was followed by an interesting discussion, Mr. Haddon answering several questions of interest to the trade.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL.

BARTON STREET BAPTIST CHURCH HELD ENJOYABLE SOCIAL.

Barton Street Baptist Church held its first annual membership roll-call last night. A large number was present. Reports were given by the secretaries of the various departments, which were very encouraging.

Rev. George McLennan made a short address, and the pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, gave an address on How to Kill a Church. The chair was occupied by Deacon Elmer Vanstele. After the program was over, a social was served.

Post-Christmas Rhyme.

Mother's in the parlor
Counting when she got
Sister's in the sitting room
Tinkled with her lot;
Father's in his smoking den
Counting up his money
(What he spent—there is none left)—
And trying to be sunny.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

A Treat To-night.

Is a husband ever justified in telling a lie to his wife? This question is answered unerringly by Mrs. Temple's Telegram, which comes direct from Powers' Theatre, Chicago, after its three months' engagement to the Grand To-night. The above should interest both young and old, as it is a very interesting and delicate subject. Never lagging in interest, no dull or idle moments, always brimming with snarl-provoking fun, but, clever and clean, full of actual wit and unintermitted ripples of rich humor. Mrs. Temple's Telegram has well earned the title of the "Merry Message of Mirth." The original cast of players with the big elaborate scenic production the same as playing in New York and Chicago, will be seen here, to the evening Mrs. Temple's Telegram will be to miss one of the rarest treats of the season.

Star Theatre.
"Too Many Darlings" is the name of the sketch that is being presented at the Star Theatre this week, by Miss Georgia Gaiter and Co. It is one of the most laughable acts ever seen at the Star, keeping the audience in roars for over 25 minutes. The other acts are all good. The show is said to be the best of the season, which is saying a good deal. The usual matinee for ladies and children will be given on Saturday afternoon. All front seats will be reserved for ladies and children.

Twilight Organ Recital.
The following programme of organ music will be played by W. H. Hewlett at the regular monthly organ recital in Centenary Church on Saturday afternoon next. Introduction and Fugue, by Benjamin Cooke; three transcriptions, Romance, by Chauvet, Prelude Pastorale, by Ladiow, and Scherzo Rustique (Cesar), by Ladiow. In addition to the programme by Miss Ellen Millett, soprano soloist of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto.

The Gypsy Girl.
Miss Dolly Kemper possesses a very pretty song system, and in the new play, The Gypsy Girl, by Hal Reid, she has an opportunity to display it. In the second act she sings a song, called Swinging Under an Old Oak Tree, which is a tuncful melody. Seated in a swing which is brilliantly lit by electricity, she swings gently to and fro, and during the chorus of each verse she throws out a revelation. The play, from the raw material to the finished product, and with the aid of the views demonstrated the exact science to which the art has been brought.

Get Your Tickets.
There is sure to be a big demand for seats when the sale opens for Piff, Paff, Puff at the box office of the Grand To-morrow morning. This big musical comedy is appearing in Toronto this week, and delighting large audiences. The Toronto World said this morning was "a revelation." In conclusion he urged the employing printers to buy material that was labor saving for the compositor and meant money for the master.

Opera Sung Without Chorus.
New York, Jan. 3.—Gomonds "Faust" was sung at the Metropolitan Opera House to-night without a chorus. The result of a strike of the recently organized Chorus Union. The union on Monday had demanded that salaries be raised nearly 50 per cent. Director Heinrich Conried met the representatives of the union and told them that if the members of the chorus would come to him as individuals he would use his influence to get them in better condition, but would refuse to treat them as members of a labor union.

To-night, when the usual hour for repertory came, none of the chorus put in an appearance. The opening of the opera was delayed until 8:25 o'clock, when the members of the ballet were grouped on the stage to make the scene as effective as possible under the circumstances. Mr. Conried appeared and addressed the audience, telling briefly of his dealings with the Chorus Union's representatives, and stating that the chorus would be organized as speedily as possible, no performance being omitted in the meantime.

Mr. Conried told the members of the chorus that no one who was on strike in violation of an individual contract would be re-engaged for a Metropolitan chorus. The chorus numbered about 150 persons.

HOW PEANUTS GROW.
An Interesting Little Experiment That One May Try.

The peanut vine differs in one respect from all other plants in the world, so far as we know. The flower of the plant grows downward, and after it falls the pod that contains the little nut is literally forced into the ground by the rapid growth of the rigid stalk from which it depends.

If you would like to see this interesting process plant a few "raw" peanuts in your yard or garden, and watch the vine as the flowers appear and fall. You will notice that if from any cause the plant is unable to push the pod into the ground the peanut will at once cease to grow and will remain undeveloped. This explains why the peanut is sometimes called the "ground-nut."

A Mistake Idea.
"Where's the man that answers questions?" asked the caller.
"Here," said the man at the desk. "Is there anything I can do for you?"
"Yes, sir, I want to know what a skink is."
"A skink is a small lizard."
"Sure it isn't Indian or Missouri for—for another kind of animal?"
"Perfectly sure. I am thoroughly familiar with the skink, I have seen many a one."
The caller's jaw fell.
"Well," he said, turning to go, "if anybody should ride up here in a six-horse coach to ask you what a skink is, you can tell him it's a man that bets $4 on another man's game. I believe that's all this time. Good-day!"—Chicago Tribune.

AFFAIRS OF YORK COMPANY.

Five Hundred Hamilton Books Handled in Yesterday.

Mr. Cross' Report is Ready for the Government.

Liabilities to Shareholders $1,000, 000 More Than Supposed.

Ald. Gilbert and W. S. Carle, of this city, took the first instalment of York County Loan books, 500 in number, to Toronto yesterday. Mr. Smith was much pleased at the way the Hamilton books are coming in, and says the system is a good one. He wishes other cities had done the same, as it would cost the company much less. It takes more time to take books in singly. Mr. Smith promised to give his special attention to the Hamilton books, of which 1,000 to 1,500 more will be expressed at once. Permanent stocks, withdrawals and inspection receipts will have to be taken in. Mr. Smith could not give any definite time as to when settlement would be made, but he says the shareholders to be patient and not to be in a hurry to get their books. He adds that if the shareholders get in law the assets will be all eaten up in costs. Mr. Smith promised to keep Ald. Gilbert posted from time to time as to what is being done and asked that the shareholders should not write to head office, as it takes up too much of the staff's time. They are six weeks behind with their correspondence at present.

The sale of York County Loan construction outfit took place at the Canadian Horse Exchange, Toronto, yesterday afternoon. It realized about $2,500, about half its cost. Everything was sold.

Mr. Cross' report of the investigation ordered by the Government into the company's affairs will show:

There was a large number of books showing the real liabilities of the business of the shareholders.

The officers of the company did not know their real position in that respect.

The books were not audited. The auditor's certificates were untrue. The statements contained in the annual report were wholly untrue and misleading, particularly with regard to the amount of the liquid assets of the company.

In the report the assets are fixed at $2,000,000, and the liabilities somewhat in excess of $3,000,000.

Whether the loans of the company to subsidiary companies are ultra vires or not must be settled in the courts in the course of liquidation.

Just whether the Toronto Life Insurance Company paid value to the York Loan for the land and building on Roncesvalles avenue last August will be a point that the liquidator may have to investigate.

The officers of the company are found to be wholly untrustworthy. The liquidating funds for their benefit. Further enquiries, however, are being made, calling for vouchers given for money that has been paid.

It is understood that the liability to withdrawing shareholders was about $1,000,000 more than was supposed to exist.

Regarding the causes of the collapse of the company, the enterprise itself was fundamentally responsible. The carrying on of the company's business on the plan it had adopted was impossible. The chief reason of this was the fact that the business cost too much to get, and the expenses of getting the investment, collecting the money and taking care of it were too high to enable it to be run successfully.

Difficulties were further increased by the position of the securities. In 1904 the only interest bearing securities in the hands of the company, which brought in a cash revenue, were mortgages and bonds aggregating in all not more than $300,000. This was invested at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent, thus leaving about $300,000. On the other hand the interest payable to the various classes of shareholders, and this had to be earned out of the funds of the company, aggregating about $300,000, thus leaving a deficit for the year of something like $330,000 in income.

A WELL SPREAD TABLE
And the Man "Fell Out" With It.

A manufacturer of Missouri says he started out as a young man with almost perfect health, but that "by the time I was 24 my digestive apparatus was completely wrecked as to make my life a positive burden."

"I was neither a hard drinker nor an inveterate user of tobacco—my condition could not be charged up to these things. I had simply ruined my digestion by a course of living common among those who indulge in unwise selected food and deny their appetites nothing. And so years passed, during which every sort of food seemed to do just the opposite of what it should have done with me. A well spread table was offensive to me. The sight, or smell of food made me doubly sick. In brief I had dyspepsia in its worst form, and spent many a hard earned dollar for remedies which did me no good whatever."

This was my condition when a friend insisted that I should try Grape-Nuts, food, and to please him I consented, expecting to derive no more benefit or pleasure from it than I had from other prepared foods that I had tried. But I was most happily disappointed. For more than a year I ate positively nothing but Grape-Nuts—it was my soup course, my meat and my dessert. I never tired of it, and grew steadily fatter and healthier, till I put 40 pounds of good solid flesh that had never been there before, on my bones. My dyspepsia is gone—the memory of a terrible nightmare.

"An well now—seems like I cannot be ill—and Grape-Nuts is still found on my table, in one form or another, at every meal, and it is never out of supply in my home. A meal without Grape-Nuts is a mighty poor meal for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

THE T. H. PRATT CO., LIMITED

NOT TO BUILD NOW.

C. P. R. WANTS TO SECURE THE RIGHT, HOWEVER.

A week or so ago the City Clerk was notified that the C. P. R. had filed plans with the Railway Commission at Ottawa for a branch to run over its present tracks and the T. H. & B. railway to Wentworth street, and thence easterly to the Niagara frontage. According to President Shaughnessy, President of the C. P. R., says that filing plans with the Railway Commission for a branch line to run from Woodstock to Brantford, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, does not mean that the intention is to proceed at once with construction. He explains that the plans have been filed in order that the company might be in a position to build on short notice on the strength of their South Ontario Pacific charter.

The court holds that section No. 171A of the Penal Code, which forbids the making of contracts of the kind described, is unconstitutional.

"It has always been supposed," says the opinion, "and this decision so holding is numerous, that an employer, so long as the contract does not affect the public health, morals or welfare, is at liberty to employ or discharge whomsoever he pleases and to refuse to employ any person without becoming answerable therefor except for a breach of contract for an unjustifiable discharge of an employee; and likewise that an individual may accept or refuse any employment that he chooses, or quit work at will, and that his reason, therefore, cannot be questioned, and he incurs thereby no liability for a breach of contract if he quits in violation of his contract."

The Times as an advertising medium is unexcelled in Hamilton.

A bad man makes himself scarce; a good man is already scarce.

The race has not deteriorated in either land, as those who assailed either would soon discover. Thus, old Scotland and New Scotland, as they always have stood in the past for the same causes, stand to-day and will stand in the future, if needful for civic and religious liberty, national independence, for the royalty of man, which Burns proclaimed, and in defense of these would march to the stake and the fogot excitingly as their forefathers did, rejoicing in the sacrifice.—Andrew Carnegie.
